HOG MARKET OPENS UP BUT GAIN NOT HELD

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., July 30.—Receipts today, estimated: Cattle and calves, 2800; hogs, 9000; sheep, 2500; horses and mules, 25.

HOGS—After a brisk start at higher prices the hog market slowed down to packers and later deals saw most of the opening advance lost. Receipts were moderate at 9000 head estimated, 1000 of these, however, on through billing. Quality was good. Trading got off to a start generally 5c to 10c higher than yesterday on light hogs and medium weight butcher grades, local killers and order buyers furnishing the main outlet. Top reached $14.35 for a number of loads of choice light kinds with the bulk of all sales of weights from 160 to 230 pounds at $14.25 to $14.30. After the light hogs were sold salesmen were obliged to go to packers for clearance of the butchers and heavies and these operators refused to follow the early advance. Bids were from $14 to $14.15 with the latter figure catching the bulk of early deals to packers. Pigs were in fair demand at steady prices, strong weight kinds from 130 to 150 lbs. average selling at $14 to $14.25 mostly, with the medium and lightweight natives from 110 to 130 pounds selling at $13 to $13.75. Peewees when of native origin movable down to $12.50 with Southern pigs ranging downward as low as $9 occasionally. Packer sows opened the day at 25c higher values, selling at $12.50 mostly with a few upward to $12.60. Stags showed no change at $10.50 to $11.50.

TOWERING SHAFT TO BE BUILT ON NEW COURTHOUSE

Plans Outlined by Kinsey Call for 220-Foot Top, With Setbacks Tapering Toward It.

SIX COURTROOM FLOORS PROPOSED

Commission to Employ Latest Style of Architecture in Construction of $4,000,000 Building.

St. Louis is to have a towering shaft of stone and steel for its new civil courthouse facing Memorial Plaza. Probably its height will be about 220 feet, the equivalent of 22 ordinary floors.

Though this general plan has been determined on by the Memorial Plaza Commission, comprising architects and engineers, details have not been decided fully. The external design has not been prepared.

Metropolitan architecture's latest development — lofty, skypointing masses, with setbacks tapering the bulk toward the top—will be utilized in the courthouse, which will cost $4,000,000, to be met by bond issue funds. The site is the old city hall lot facing Market, Eleventh and Chestnut streets, but the main entrance will face west across the projected plaza.

Kinsey Describes Plans.

As described today by President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, an ex-officio member of the commission, the courthouse will be built as follows: Set back from the surrounding streets will be a square base, two stories high, which will enter about a rotunda and house offices of the Circuit Clerk, Sheriff, Recorder of Deeds and the assignment division of Circuit Court, which requires considerable space and accessibility.

Above this, an octagonal structure, in height equivalent to 12 stories, will be reared. In reality it will have six courtroom floors, with four courts on each floor. The space behind each court will be divided into two floors, for offices of the Judge, witness rooms and jury rooms, to be isolated from the public corridors. Each courtroom will be about 23 feet high.

A narrower shaft, two floors high, will go above this, for the St. Louis Court of Appeals and the Law Library. Above all will be a tower equivalent in height to several stories, with some available space for future use. Elevators will occupy a central space.

Construction will start in January, President Kinsey expects. In about a month the commission plans to adopt a time table for the progress of the work.

A monumental building, suitable for utilitarian purpose, possible of construction within the limits of available funds—that was the commission's problem. Furthermore, it had to bear in mind that the tall and huge Bell Telephone Building, also designed on monumental lines, was going up on an adjacent block. In order for the courthouse to dominate Memorial Plaza the architects conceived that it would have to be a skyscraper.

A Subway Entrance.

Since it is expected that a rapid-transit subway will take street cars off Market street some day, the courthouse will be designed with a subway entrance. It will have no smokestack, as its heat will be supplied from the municipal service building now being planned for Twelfth street and Clark avenue. Courtrooms are expected to be free from street noises.

Layouts for the whole plaza, as submitted by members of the commission, are being co-ordinated by Prof. Gabriel Ferrand of the Washington University School of Architecture. Plans for the municipal auditorium and war veterans' memorial, other plaza structures, are not under way, but land condemnation procedure for the auditorium site is under way.

M'MILLAN'S TWO SHIPS HELD FAST IN ICE PACK

Wireless From Commander in Melville Bay Says Expedition Is Being Endangered—Bear Shot.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31. — Locked in the Arctic ice, the MacMillan expedition is experiencing the dangers known to Polar explorers for centuries.

The Melville Bay ice pack, which has stopped thepr ogress of the ships Bowdoin and Peary, is playing its time-honored drama and endangering the expedition every minute, Commander MacMilan said today in a wireless dispatch to the National Geographic Society. The message was dated yesterday and declared that, although the sky line of Cape York was in view, the ships were unable to move until conditions changed.

Fog, ice, magnetic variation, drifting pans and other troubles were mentioned as prevailing.

"Miniature pressure ridges are slowly rising about th ePeary," the message said, "while the jagged ice whispers ominously at the intrusion of this steel shell amid hundreds of square miles of shifting ice. From 3 this morning until 2 o'clock this afternoon the Peary smashed lanes in the heavy floe and the Bowdoin hurled loose cake-like slabs.

"After breakfast a polar bear was sighted by Commander MacMillan and shot for scientific study. There hav ebeen flurries of snow and all day we have been hearing the sinister gossip of crushing ice. When our connections with the spectacle will cease we cannot say, but it is certain that the ice will continue in its original role."

Additional details were received at the Navy Department today from Lieutenant-Commander Byrd, in command of the naval section of the expedition. The location of the two ships, the Peary and the Bowdoin, was given as about 20 miles southeast of Cape Yoke, the northern tip of Melville Bay.

After describing how the ships ran into a heavy fog and solid field of ice, Byrd said:

"Walked on ice a mile and a half eastward but found no breaks in ice field. Walked to westward where a large water lead was found two miles from the ship. Peary may be able to get into that lead by following backward lead she reached this spot in. Peary will not, however, get under way until fog lifts, as it seems futile to attempt to find a way out of ice in fog. Personnel well and planes standing very well exposure to weather."

MAC MILLAN'S CREW TO BROADCAST CONCERT FROM ARCTIC CIRCLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 31.

THE MacMillan Arctic expedition will make the first official test of broadcasting the voice and music from inside the Arctic Circle at 10 o'clock tomorrow night.

An orchestra made up of members of the Peary's crew will play, an Eskimo will sing a weird native chant and a vocal trio and chorus made up of the ship's crew will sing. The wave length to be used will be 40 meters. This is below the range of the ordinary receiving set. If the tests on this wave length are successful it is probable that broadcasting stations will arrange to "step up" the programs of the Bowdoin and the Peary to their customary wave lengths and thus broadcast talks and music from the far North so that "listeners in" of the country will hear them.

The National Geographic Society and the American Radio Relay League have requested radio amateurs to write to the headquarters of the National Geographic Soicety at Washington whether they are able to hear the program.

LOONEY CONVICTED AS GAMBLING AID; JAILED BY JUDGE

Jury at Rock Island, Ill., Fixes Former Editor's Sentence at One to Five Years in Prison.

60-DAY JAIL TERM FOR CONTEMPT

After Verdict Is Returned, Judge Finds Defendant Guilty of Conduct That Was Affront to Bench.

By the Associated Press.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., July 31.—John P. Looney was found guilty of conspiracy to protect gambling by a jury which reported in the Rock Island Circuit Court at 9 o'clock this morning. A crowd was in the courtroom. The jury retired at 5 p. m. yesterday and was locked up for the night.

In finding Looney guilty, the jurors placed his punishment at one to five years with no fine.

Looney received the verdict with calm. His daughter, Mrs. Ursella Hamblin, who has been constantly at her father's side, broke down. Attorney W. C. Allen, chief counsel of the defense, indicated he would ask for a new trial.

Following Looney's conviction on the conspiracy charge, he was cited for contempt of court, found guilty and sent to the county jail for 60 days by Judge N. A. Larson, who charged that the defendant's conduct during the trial had "tended to lessen the authority of the Court."

He mentioned particularly the episode when a loaded revolver was found on Looney after he had wrestled with a bailiff. During the remainder of the trial Looney had been searched every time he entered the courtroom.

Accused of Exacting Vice Toll.

Rock Island's "vice war" of three years ago resulted, said prosecuting attorneys, from one of the most perfect conspiracies ever organized. The State charged that Looney was the interlocutor for the underworld and the police, and that he profited at every turn in the situation.

Through his paper, the Rock Island News, the State asserted, Looney clubbed the underworld and the police into submission by threats of publicity. According to State Senator James J. Barbour, who acted as special prosecutor, and Assistant Attorney-General Hadley, who represented the Attorney-General in the prosecutions, Looney collected monthly tribute from disorderly houses, saloons and gambling houses.

As a young man in Rock Island, Looney was known as a criminal lawyer and as a fist fighter of ability. Gradually he prospered and became the owner of the daily Rock Island News. He printed nothing but local news and much of it was described as of a scandalous nature, attacking resorts or prominent citizens for alleged moral lapses. He and another editor once fought a duel with pistols on one of the principal streets of the city, but neither was injured. On another occasion an enraged jeweler, whose sister had died, he said, after an attack on her in the Rock Island News, wrenched a pistol from Looney's hand. The News finally became a weekly.

Name on Canceled Checks.

Government investigators succeeded in obtaining a number of canceled checks from William Gabel, a saloon keeper. The checks were payable to Louis Ortell, alleged to have been a wholesale bootlegger who worked with Looney. Looney's name appeared on the back of some of these. Shortly after the checks were turned over, Gabel was shot to death.

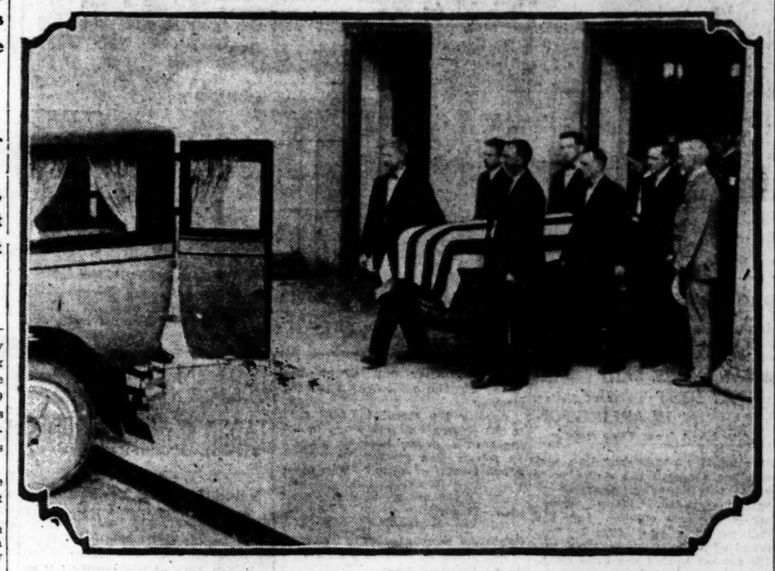

The Rock Island Argus, aided by other tri-city papers, launched a clean-up campaign. At about the same time, rivals in the underworld disagreed and a number of citizens organized a committee to clean up the city. On Oct. 6, 1922, Looney and his son, John Connor Looney, were fired on from several automobiles as they sat in their car in front of a hotel. The elder Looney escaped through the hotel, but his son knelt on the sidewalk to return the fire and was killed.

Looney disappeared shortly after this shooting and an extensive investigation was carried on which resulted in a number of indictments. Lawrence Pedigo, said to have been a lieutenant of Looney; Tom Cox, former Chief of Police, and Harry Schriver, former Mayor, were convicted of conspiracy to protect gambling. The Supreme Court reversed the case. Cox later died. Looney was named in this indictment, but was not tried, as he was at the time a fugitive. John K. Scott, former City Attorney, also

OLD HYMNS SUNG; FAVORITE BIBLE PASSAGES READ

"LEAD KINDLY LIGHT" OPENS CEREMONY

Floral Tributes Are Massed in Church—Burial in the National Cemetery at Arlington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Funeral services for William Jennings Bryan were conducted this afternoon at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church shortly after 3 p. m., preceding burial in the National Cemetery at Arlington, Va.

Flags fluttered at half staff from Government buildings during the day and the State Department was closed this afternoon as a tribute to the former Secretary of State.

Simplicity Marks Service.

There was little formality in the funeral ceremony. Only the presence of a cluster of high officials of the Government, and a few diplomats struck a note of remembrance for his years of public service.

At Arlington Cemetery, across the Potomac, waited the ranks of a military escort to pay last honors at the grave to one who, in the vigor of his earlier days, had served the flag as a soldier.

By Mrs. Bryan's wish the brief Presbyterian funeral service arranged by the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the church, was expanded to include Bible passages that the Commoner prized above all others.

Old Hymns Sung.

"Lead Kindly Light," sung by a mixed choir, ushered in the simple service. Bryan had requested that this be sung at his funeral. Another old hymn is next in the order of service Mrs. Bryan had approved. It was "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

The passage selected by Dr. Sizoo for the opening of the religious rites is, "I am the resurrection and the life." Among the Bible passages indicated by Mrs. Bryan as her husband's sources of greatest comfort and which Dr. Sizoo included in the service was the twenty-third psalm. There were also passages from the nineteenth psalm, and that triumphant cry from Corinthians, "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?"

Besides Dr. Sizoo, the only persons participating in the simple service were the church organist, William R. Hamill, and the members of the mixed quartet, Helen C. Howison, soprano; Mabel Flehr, contralto; George A. Mayers, tenor, and Ambrose Durkin, basso.

At the request of Mrs. Bryan, Dr. George Stuart of Birmingham, Ala., was asked to say a benediction at the grave at Arlington.

Pallbearers Named.

The official list of active and honorary pallbearers was announced as follows:

Active pallbearers — Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy; Senator Fletcher of Florida; Col. P. H. Callahan, Louisville, Ky.; Charles A. Lord, Lincoln, Neb.; N. F. Dunlap, Jacksonville, Ill., and State Senator Cahrles E. Hull of Illinois.

SHENANDOAH 'DESTROYS' A BATTLESHIP AND 3 PLANES

By the Associated Press.

LAKEHURST, N. J., July 31.—The navy dirigible Shenandoah, returning from maneuvers with the fleet off the Virginia coast, was placed in its hangar at 7:40 o'clock daylight saving time last night, 22 minutes after Commander Lansdowne had ordered the trail ropes dropped. This reduced by 15 minutes the former record of getting the airship into its hangar. The airship left the naval air station in the morning to seek out the position of the battleship Texas. Twenty minutes after it had discovered the Texas, the Shenandoah had technically 'destroyed" the battleship and three scouting planes. It returned at once and headed back for Lakehurst.

YOUTH SAYS MOVING PICTURE PROMPTED HIM TO KILL WOMAN

Slayer of Mrs. Bowen in Switzerland Asserts He Fired Revolver From Top of Tree.

By the Associated Press.

BASEL, Switzerland, July 31.—A moving picture he had seen the day before in Basel led Johannes Hammerschlagel, 16 years old, to shoot and kill Mrs. Mary Levitt Bowen of Berkeley, Cal., in a suburb of this city Wednesday.

The police say the boy, an Austrian farmhand, made this confession after his arrest. He had no time to rob the woman of her handbag after he had fired the shot which caused her death. The boy stole an army revolver from his employer and fired at Mrs. Bowen from a treetop, 15 feet away. The bullet entered her neck and then penetrated her breast. Mortally wounded, Mrs. Bowen dragged herself 150 feet into the ruins of the old castle Dornach, where she bled to death. Physicians who examined the body say that her life might have been saved if she had received prompt attention.

Mrs. Bowen had come to Switzerland to study anthroposophy—the knowledge of the nature of man—in the first temple erected to that modern art.

GLAND SURGEON ON EVOLUTION

Says His Work Is Confirmation of Relationship of Men and Apes.

PARIS, July 31.—Dr. Serge Voronoff, the gland specialist, has declared that his work in grafting, "establishing that the organs of the higher species of monkeys adapt themselves perfectly to the human body, is another confirmation of our close relationship with the anthropoids."

The famous monkey gland surgeon expressed his opinion in adding his signature to the list of representative French scientists being made by the newspaper, Quotidien, as a protest against "the attack upon the liberty of thought" made by the recent Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn. Among the signers are: Mme. Curie, co-discoverer of radium; Dr. Paul Appell, former president of the University of Paris; Victor Alphonse Francois Aulard, professor of history of the University of Paris, and an officer of the Legion of Honor; Prof. Paul Langevin of the department of physics of the College of France, and Louis Lumiere, a member of the French Academy of Science and an officer of the Legion of Honor.

JULY A TOPSY-TURVY MONTH FOR WEATHER

Temperature Ranged From 97, Summer's Highest, to 58, Lowest for This Date.

July, in its weather, has been a topsy-turvy month in a topsy-turvy summer. Starting with a promise of beating heat records, it is ending in an autumnal coolness that mocks the vacationist whose plans were for the North.

For 13 days, as the month came in, there were temperatures of 90 or above, including the summer's warmest day, 97, on the second. Then came moderation, a seasonable thermometer, and on last Tuesday the sweep of winds that gave the air a September freshness. Tuesday, with a minimum temperature of 61, became the coolest July 28 in the history of the Weather Bureau here, and Wednesday's 62 likewise was the lowest ever recorded on that date. The cool continues with a thermometer yesterday never rising above 67 and having a minimum of 61. Today at 6 a. m. it was down to 58, the lowest on this date ever recorded.

Rain was minus. July usually produces 3.43 inches of rain. This July has had only 1.78 inches and of that, 1.15 inches fell on one day, the 7th.

Whatever general impression may be, Montrose W. Hayes, meteorologist of the Weather Bureau, declares the summer as a whole may be regarded as cool. The highest to this date, 97, is not high as summers here go. However, on many days the impression of heat has been accentuated by unusual humidity. Early in this month, afternoon humidity persisted around 50, whereas normal would have been the low 30s.

Hayes points out that the summer has been one of rapid extremes. He recalls that May 22, with a thermometer at 94, was the hottest day in Weather Bureau history, so early in summer, while three days later, at 38, the thermometer set a new low mark for so late a summer date.

Thousands of citizens from all parts of the county have assembled here to attend the memorial services to be held in the Methodist Church at 3 o'clock this afternoon. NATIONAL CASH REGISTER ORDERED TO PAY DAMAGES Court Grants Injunction Restraining Dayton Concern From Infringement of Patents.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 31.—An order granting an injunction in behalf of the Remington Cash Register Co., Inc., of Ilion, N. Y., and others against the National Cash Register Co. of Dayton, O., restraining the infringement of patents for improvements in adding and recording machines and requiring payment by the National Cash Register Co. to the Remington of several million dollars damages, was filed by Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the United States District Court here today.

The amount of damages is variously estimated from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000.

The specific charges filed by the Remington company were concerning machines manufactured by the National company and sold in Connecticut, known as class 1700 and class 2000 of the National products. The infringement found by the Judge was in the use of certain devices for a plurality of totalizers in adding machines, devices for clearing subtotals and grand totals, and methods of printing and recording such totals.

INQUIRY INTO JULY WHEAT RISE

Names of Chicago Traders Asked For.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Dr. J. T. Duvel, the Government's grain futures administrator here, yesterday called on the Chicago Board of Trade for a report on trades in July wheat, with the individual names, and from the report will attempt to determine the extent of interests behind the sharp rise in this class of grains.

He said apparently there was nothing serious in the situation. Board of Trade officials issued no statement, although a meeting of the directors was held to consider the condition complained of. Yesterday the close was $1.57, representing a rise of ½ cent, but on Tuesday and Wednesday rises of more than 3 cents were shown. The rise in the market has been partly attributed to the disposition of farmers to hold their grain for an advance.

FINE FOR RESISTING ARREST REVERSED

Judge Gayer Is Told Policeman Searched Anson Morrison on Suspicion of Shooting.

The case of Anson Morrison, of 620 Athlone avenue, who had been fined $25 in Police Court for resisting arrest, was reversed by Judge Gayer in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday, after it had been shown that Morrison was charged with interfering with his own arrest and that there was no apparent reason why he should have been arrested.

Patrolman Thomas Lavin, Angelica Street District, who arrested Morrison, testified he heard three loud reports which sounded like revolver shots, but might have been the backfiring of an automobile. He ran toward the place from which the sounds seemed to come and came upon Morrison's car. Morrison was just getting out and a young woman was still in the car.

Lavin said he called for Morrison to halt, but the latter kept on walking. Lavin overtook him, told him he was under arrest and began to search him. Morrison, the policeman related, protested that Lavin had no right to search him. When he resisted the search Lavin struck him.

No One Was Shot.

"And with whose arrest did this man interfere, officer?" Judge Gayer broke in at this point. "With his own," replied Lavin stoutly.

"And why" went on the Court, "did you want to arrest him? What offense had he committed."

"I can arrest anyone on suspicion," the policeman replied.

"What did you suspect he had been doing?"

"Shooting."

"Was anyone shot?"

"No, sir."

"Then," said Judge Gayer, "when this young man, who, on your own admission was doing nothing wrong, refused to let you go through his pockets, you hit him. Is that the way you officers arrest all the time? Do you have to use your fists just to show everyone you can fight?"

"When anyone makes trouble for me I hit him," the patrolman responded. "Next time I'll put him in the hospital."

"The defendant is discharged," broke in the Court sharply. "Officer, you wait right here in court for a moment."

Court Warns Patrolman.

Later he called Patrolman Lavin before him.

"How many merit marks do you get for arresting a suspect?" he asked. Lavin said he knew nothing of merit marks and if he did would pay no attention to gaining them, except in performance of duty.

"Well, don't make any more remarks about putting people in the hospital while you are in this court," Judge Gayer admonished him caustically. "I won't fine you for contempt this time, but the next time a policeman makes a statement like that he will get more than a reprimand."

YOUTH ACCUSED OF KILLING BROTHER TO GET HIS WIFE

Twenty-Two Witnesses, Including Former Friends, Introduced by Prosecution in New Jersey Trial.

DEFENDANT DENIES FIRING FATAL SHOT

Evidence Against Prisoner Includes Pair of Shoes That Fit Footprints at Window.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BRIDGETON, N. J., July 31.—Howard Moore, 19, smiling and boastin gof the 10 pounds in weight he has gained during six month in jail, sat calmly at his father's side before Supreme Court Justice Campbell here yesterday while the State tried to prove that he murdered his brother, Thomas Jr., that he might more easily possess the latter's wife.

The State rested its case late in the afternoon after 22 witnesses had testified. Even when three of his former companions took the stand against him, young Moore remained calm and at recesses frequently joked with friends about his increasing waist line.

A reason for his confidence came when Francis A. Stanger, his attorney, announced that he would produce the written confession of another man, who, Stanger said, murdered Thomas Moore Jr., who was killed with a shotgun as he sat at his sick mother's bedside the night of Jan. 22.

Testifies in Own Defense.

Moore was placed on the stand as the first witness in his own defense. He denied the murder and denied intimacy with his brother's wife. Six months before the murder, he said, he asked his brother if he had heard any gossip about his wife.

"If you think I'm coming here to see your wife, I won't come any more," the defendant testified he told his brother.

"Forget about it," Moore testified his brother answered after saying that he had heard no gossip and wouldn't believe it if he had.

Thomas Breedon and Richard Haines, policemen of Millville, where the murder was committed, were among the chief witnesses. They testified that the day after the murder they obtained a pair of Howard's shoes and that he admitted wearing them the night before. The shoes, they said, fitted footprints found at the window through which the fatal shots were fired.

At the side of the house, they said there were automobile tracks and the tires of Howard's car were found to coincide perfectly with these tracks. Howard, however, they testified, denied that his car had been near the house that night.

Within the house, Haines went on, were three shotguns.

"On examination," he said, "we found that the left barrel of one of the guns was dirty as if it had been fired recently. We called Howard's attention to it, but he insisted it had not been fired since the deer season, a month before."

The State contends that Howard is left handed and emphasizes the fact that it was the left barrel which had been fired.

Three Youths on Stand.

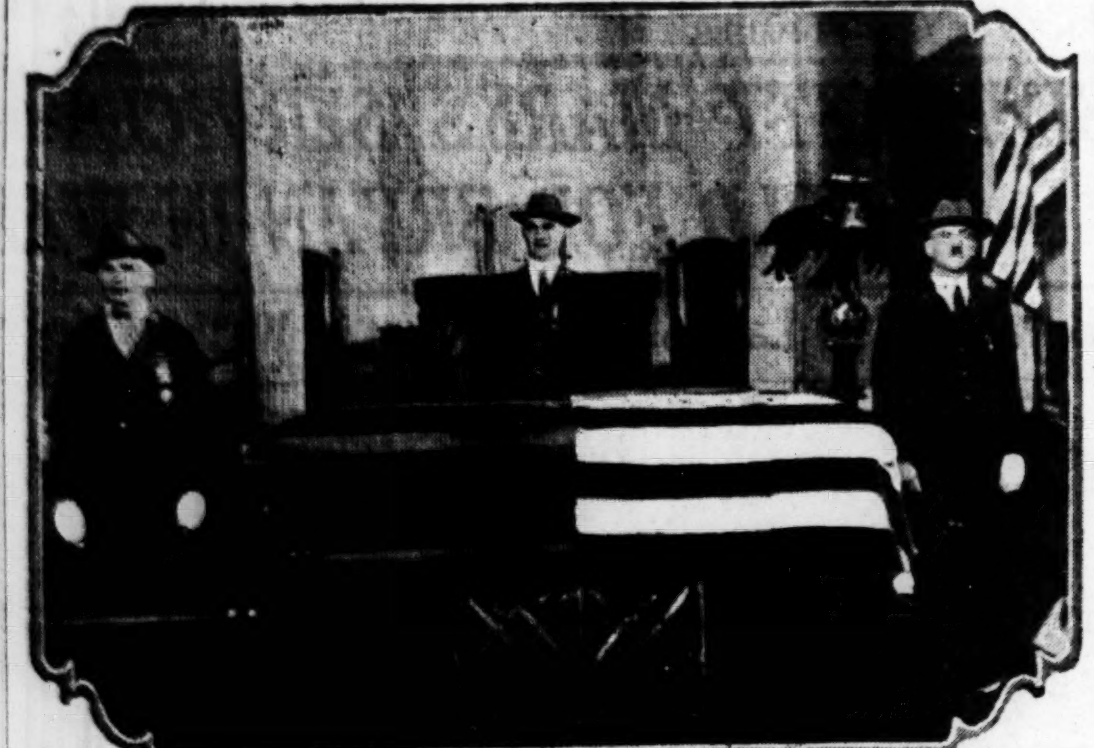

Earlier in the day, Leslie Brown, 18; James Rochat, 19, and Clifford King, 19, testified that on the night of the murder they asked Howard to go to a party with them and that he replied: "I've got a party of my own on tonight."

King also testified that about 18 months before the murder the three had followed Howard one night. King said Howard went to his brother's home and that shortly after he entered the light in the front room was removed to a back one. Howard remained inside for several hours, they said.

Hilda Moore, the widow of Thomas Jr., testified that Howard had never made love to her. She then collapsed on the stand. Then Miss Martha Moore, sister of Howard and Thomas, was put on the stand in an obvious effort by the State to obtain testimony of a love affair between Howard and Hilda, but all of her answers were in the negative.

Body of Bryan Lying in State in Nation's Capital

BRYAN TO BE LAID AT REST TODAY IN ARLINGTON

and gone in an unbroken line, and from the moment the doors were opened this morning the march went steadily on. Many waited long in the rain outside for the privilege of a last tribute. The mound of floral offerings grew until it almost buried the little chancel in a bower of fragrance.

After the church doors were closed shortly after noon today, the American flag was placed as a mantle around the casket. Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, long-time friend of Bryan, helped Mrs. Ruth Owen, daughter, place the floral wreaths about it. On its foot two of the pieces were given places of special favor, one of them the spray of roses sent by President Coolidge and the other a wreath bearing the name of a one-year-old girl—the Commoner's only great-grandchild.

A Cross of Lilies.

At the side of the casket and facing the dimly lighted auditorium was placed a massive cross of lilies, the gift of the family. Four other great crosses, two of lilies, one of pink roses and carnations, and one of red roses found place upon the altar, two against the rear wall with the American flag standing between them, and the other two against the columns supporting the arch, directly above the pulpit.

Banked around the chancel and pressing back to the altar were many baskets, sprays and wreaths of flowers in which lilies and gladiolas predominated. To the right stood a pedestal with the open Bible atop, done in pink and white asters, the gift of the Jackson Democratic Association of Washington.

An hour before the time fixed for the funeral the doors of the church again were opened, and relatives and friends, Government officials and diplomats filed slowly in to await the service.

Veterans of the Spanish-American War still stood sentinel at the bier, immobile in their blue uniforms and gray campaign hats. In deference to their insistence, the flag which draped the bronze casket was moved forward so that the two tributes of flowers selected for the place of honor might rest directly on the bronze, rather than upon the folds of the national emblem.

Church Fills Slowly.

The church filled very slowly. Despite a drizzling rain a crowd stood without, so that the police had to clear the way for those holdin gcards of admission.

When the church was partly filled, the casket was opened that the sisters of the dead man, Mrs. Fannie Baird and Mrs. Thomas Allen, who had arrived only this morning from Lincoln, Neb., might take a silent parting with their brother. Then the cover was restored but after a consultation among those in charge of the funeral plans it again was removed. It had been decided that the casket should remain open during the services.

The widow was joined early in the day by her only son, William Jennings Bryan Jr., from Los Angeles, and another daughter, Mrs. Grace B. Hargreaves, of Beverly Hills, Cal. Arriving here with the son and daughter to complete the family circle, were Bryan's two sisters, Mrs. T. S. Allen and Mrs. J. W. Baird, of Lincoln, Neb.; F. Millson of Lincoln, Bryan's nephew, and Col. P. H. O'Bannon of Sperryville, Va., a cousin.

Gov. Donahey of Ohio, accompanied by Adjutant-General F. D. Henderson and Lieut. J. A. McNamara, arrived from Ohio this morning to attend the funeral, and called upon Mrs. Bryan.

Thousands View Body.

Thousands of persons viewed the body yesterday and last night. At the head and foot of the casket, which lay close against the raised step of the chancel, the motionless figure of an army comrade of the Spanish War kept vigil, a vigil that continued after the doors had closed out the noise from the busy streets.

Among the floral tributes sent to the church today aws one in the form of a cross, bearing a card on which was written "Ku Klux Klan, Realm of Ohio." The piece was about five feet high and was made of red roses. It was placed near the pulpit.

MANY OFFER AID FOR MEMORIAL COLLEGE TO BRYAN AT DAYTON

Financial Assistance Promised in Numerous Messages From Various Parts of Country.

By the Associated Press.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 31.—Dayton and Rhea County's hope of establishing here a great university as a memorial to W. J. Bryan has been much encouraged by the receipt of numerous letters and telegrams from many parts of the country, volunteering financial assistance to such an enterprise and insisting that opportunity for such contributions be given.

While details of plans have been withheld pending the funeral in Arlington today, they are known to include large appropriations by both city and county, all plans, of course, to be subject to the approval of Mrs. Bryan.

From an obscure village in North Carolina a man writes to Mayor Haggard: "I have been ditching today and have not before I do either, I must write to say how I hope a great college will be established where Mr. Bryan fell fighting in Dayton. I am not a rich man, but my check for $1600 will be sent you as soon as the movement is definitely started."

DEBTOR IN JAIL SINCE APRIL 3 GAINS LIBERTY

East St. Louis Grocer Has Been Boarding There at Expense of Former Customer.

A cell door of the county jail at Belleville opened wide today and H. M. Casey, East St. Louis grocer, who has been boarding there at the expense of his enemy and former customer, William L. Pusey, also of East St. Louis, walked out a free man.

Casey gained his liberty when Circuit Judge Crow upheld his application for a writ of habeas corpus. He had been in jail since April 3, under an old imprisonment-for-debt law.

"The statute authorizing imprisonment for debt is out of line with our present day civilization," Judge Crow ruled.

"It is a relic. It will be enforced when invoked, and all its requirement complied with, but it must be strictly construed as a statute against common rights. No one ought to be restrained of liberty under it unless all its terms are strictly complied with. That has not been done in this case and the petitioner is discharged."

Over $9 Grocery Bill.

As has been told, Casey hit Pusey with an ice shaver in an argument over a $9 grocery bill, and a sentence of 30 days for criminal assault and a judgment for $900 damages in a civil suit were returned against him. He refused to pay the damages and was sent to jail for six months to serve it out, with Pusey, as provided by the old imprisonment-for-debt law, paying $1 a day for Casey's board.

The long term began April 3 and the 30-day term began June 24, being served concurrently. Pusey paid the board bill of his enemy for all but the 30 days from June 24, as he figured the State was liable for them. Casey's suit maintained Pusey's failure to pay the $30 canceled the rest of his sentence, and the Court upheld him.

On July 23 Pusey paid $7 in advance for the week. Thus he has no refund coming. Throughout his imprisonment Casey had maintained he was fighting for a principle and would stay in jail forever, rather than pay Pusey a penny. Pusey also was out for a principle, and declared he was only too glad to pay to keep Casey behind the bars.

Casey is 55 years old. Pusey is 74.

ANGLO-FRENCH NEGOTIATIONS ON DEBT COLLAPSE

French Delegates Suggested Annual Payment Far Below That Desired by Great Britain.

BRITISH PROPOSED THAT PARLEYS END

Awaiting of Outcome of Franco-American Negotiations Before Resuming Discussion Is Urged.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

LONDON, July 31.—The Anglo-French debt negotiations have broken down completely, and the Paris delegates are returning home, the New York World and Post-Dispatch were reliably informed last night.

The French experts, according to the New York World and Post-Dispatch's informant, suggested an annuity payment to Great Britain of 4,000,000 pounds sterling ($20,000,000), plus 6,000,000 pounds in German marks, to be taken from France's share of Germany's reparation payments under the Dawes plan.

The French, however, explained that the British Government would have to assume responsibility for the conversion of this 6,000,000 pounds in marks to English currency, and that, in addition, France would hand over that amount of her reparation receipts only after she had subtracted from the latter all treaty charges, such as the cost of the army of occupation.

In view of these two condition, it is understood the British experts told the French this 6,000,000 pounds in German marks would have to be considered not more than 3,000,000 pounds, when actually transferred into pounds sterling, which would make the proferred French annuity, but 7,000,000 pounds. Such a sum, the British argued, would be but one per cent on the capital and sinking fund of the total French debt.

The British have been asking for an annuity of 20,000,000 pounds, and, as the French delegates were not authorized to increase their offer, the British decided there was no use continuing the negotiations.

It was suggested to France that perhaps it would be better to await the outcome of the Franco-American debt negotiations in Washington before resuming discussion of the Anglo-French debt.

BRITISH MINE STRIKE, SET FOR TONIGHT, AVERTED

Premier Baldwin Informs Commons of Provisional Agreement Between Owners and Workers.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 31.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin informed the House of Commons today that a provisional agreement has been reached in the coal industry and that the mine owners have withdrawn their notices for two weeks, thus averting a country-wide strike which was called for midnight tonight.

The notices withdrawn were those posted at the pitheads informing the miners that new conditions would be effective at midnight tonight, in view of the inability to arrive at a new working agreement supplanting the one that expires today.

It was officially announced by the Treasury late this afternoon that the Government's assistance to the coal mining industry will be in the form of a bounty and wages for nine months during which the miners will be paid in accordance with the 1924 agreement which expires at midnight.

It is stated that the Government will insist upon some measure of control or supervision of the coal mines in the country in return for the financial assistance that is to be given the industry.

PRESIDENT PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE AMBASSADOR

By the Associated Press.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 31.—The death of Edgar A. Bancroft, American Ambassador to Japan, "deprived the foreign service of one who had demonstrated the fullest measure of equipment and had won the unqualified confidence of both his own Government and that of the great empire to which he was accredited," President Coolidge declared in a letter sent today to Dr. Frederick Bancroft of Washington, a brother.

"His designation to the highly important position which he held with so much credit to himself and advantage to his country," said the President, "was in an especial degree in recognition of his high character and peculiar fitness for the service. Through a lifetime of devotion to the broadest public understanding, of scholarly concern for the development of high ideals in connection therewith, he had equipped himself for the largest public usefulness and his services have been rendered so unstintedly and effectively as to reflect high honor upon him. Although not particularly ambitious for public place, he was at all times enlisted in causes which looked to the advancement of the true public interests."

CHEMIST WHO HAD TOLD OF THREATS IS KILLED BY BLAST

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Henry C. Schwartz, wealthy chemist, was killed by a terrific explosion in his laboratory, near Berkeley, last night.

Schwartz, head of a cellulose company, had carried far his researches into the manufacture of artificial silk. He had gained publicity through a $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Elizabeth Adams of Oakland and by his court deposition stating that he had given the girl a ring but had not promised matrimony. He had stated that suit was a part of a bigger plot against him by European chemists, whose rivalry he had aroused. He said that they had threatened to "get" him. His wife, who was 29 years old, had stood by him in this matter, and he had telephoned her a half hour before the explosion to say he would return home in half an hour.

Schwartz was a graduate of Heidelberg University and had studied in several other European universities. Miss Adams, formerly a school teacher, is a native of Geneva, Switzerland. Her court action is said to have been supported by the Swiss Consul here, who is reported to have pointed out that Schwartz did not tell Miss Adams during their acquaintance that he was married to an English woman and had three children.

BOMB SET OFF UNDER CONTRACTOR'S WINDOW

Little Damage Done—Former Employe of Vincent Remmers Arrested.

An explosive was set off at 1:30 a. m. today under a bedroom window of the residence of Vincent Remmers, building contractor, at 704 Catalpa avenue, Webster Groves. Remmers and his wife were sleeping in the room.

Investigation showed the charge, believed to have been dynamite or black powder, had spent its force against the foundation of the house, causing damage of about $50. A foot-length of fuse was found on the ground.

Asked if he had any enemies, Remmers recalled that John Kaufman, 50 years old, a laborer he had employed to dig a ditch at Affton, had been discharged Wednesday for "agitating" among other employes. Police went to Kaufman's home at 745 Yale avenue, Webster Groves, and found him in bed with his shirt and socks on. His shoes, on the floor, were wet. Chief McDonnell of Webster Groves announced later that Kaufman had admitted planting the explosive as revenge for his dismissal.

Kaufman, father of four children, had been employed intermittently for the last year by Remmers. When discharged Wednesday he asked, "What for?" according to Remmers, who replied, "You know what for."

Remmers has applied for a warrant.

On the following day a car identified by Coppolino as his was found in possession of Thomas Wright of 3616 Shenandoah avenue. Wright said Niederluecke had sold him the car. The warrant was issued yesterday.

Niederluecke gave his address as 4644 Enright avenue. He was released on $2000 bond signed by his father, who is vice president of the Jefferson Bank.

FOUND GUILTY

JOHN P. LOONEY.

LOONEY CONVICTED AS GAMBLING AID; JAILED ON CONTEMPT

Four Sentenced for Murder.

The investigation also resulted in the conviction of Anthony Billburg, George Holsapple, Dan Drost and George Buckley for the murder of John Connor Looney. Billburg received a 20-year sentence and the others 14-year sentences. They were alleged to have been underworld rivals of Looney.

In the meantime, Looney was found in New Mexico, but county authorities were unable to return him for trial on 11 indictments against him. He was arrested on a Federal warrant charging interstate transportation of a stolen automobile, however, and later, when he went to Peoria to answer this charge, he was taken to Rock Island and arraigned on the indictments. He was charged, among other things, with the murder of Gabel, and with conspiracy to murder.

A week was consumed in selecting a jury to try him on the first indictment, the conspiracy to protect gambling charge. This indictment charged that Looney installed a number of punch boards and that he protected them and that he also installed and protected slot machines.

The defense sought to show that Looney was absent from Rock Island most of the time in which he is alleged to have been a conspirator and that he was not in charge of the Rock Island News during the time in question. It also sought to show that Cy Hazlett, alleged to have been one of his lieutenants, Pegido, and others were the actual conspirators, and that the defendants had nothing to do with the crimes charged against him.

Searched at Every Session.

Looney, during Hadley's opening remarks, produced the first sensation of the trial, when he walked across the courtroom at the prosecutor, shouting: "Liar, do what you please with me, but leave my child alone." Hadley had just referred to the part Looney's son was said to have taken in the conspiracy. A few moments later Looney was searched and a revolver was taken from him. Thereafter he was searched at the opening of every session of the court.

Lawrence Pedigo, the State's star witness, made statements on the stand substantiating many of the State's charges and in several instances gave testimony directly linking Looney with the collection of profits from the punch boards and with the protection of resorts. Pedigo contradicted many statements which he made at his own trial, and when Looney attempted to turn the witness' former testimony against him, Pedigo admitted perjury at his own trial, and added that he had done it on the advice of W. C. Allen, who defended Pedigo and who later acted as counsel for Looney.

Looney, a disbarred attorney, conducted a large part of his own defense, and spent five days in cross-examining Pedigo, without succeeding in making the witness contradict any part of his testimony against the defendant. Looney made one of the closing speeches to the jury.

INSANE PATIENT DIES FROM BLOW STRUCK BY A SECOND

Samuel Fagin Was Attacked in Quarters by Man Who Suddenly Became Violent.

Samuel Fagin, 55 years old, a patient at the City Sanitarium, died at City Hospital last night of a fractured skull suffered last Wednesday, when he was struck on the head with a crowbar wielded by Henry Roques, another Sanitarium patient.

Fagin and Roques, with a number of other Sanitarium patients, were employed in construction work on the grounds of Koch Hospital, south of Jefferson Barracks. The patients, all of whom were considered harmless, were under the supervision of Sanitarium attendants.

Wednesday night, after the patients had been returned to their quarters, Roques suddenly became violent, and wielded a crowbar, which he had secretly brought into the ward. One of his blows struck Fagin on the head before he was overpowered by attendants. Roques was returned to the Sanitarium and placed in confinement.

The attack on Fagin is said to be the first serious trouble resulting from the employment of insane patients outside of the Sanitarium grounds.

INCOME TAX ON PROPAGANDA FUNDS

Treasury Makes Ruling As to Associations Organized for Controversial Purposes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Associations formed to disseminate "controversial or partisan propaganda" have been held by the Treasury to be subject to the income tax law.

Announcement of the ruling was made in the form of an amendment to the income tax regulations and represented a conclusion over which legal experts have argued for a several months.

The ruling says that exemptions from income taxes will be granted to religious, charitable, scientific, educational or literary organizations if organized for certain specified purposes, and, further, if their net income does not inure in whole or in part to the benefit of private shareholders or individuals.

The amended regulation further reads:

"Associations organized and operated exclusively for charitable purposes comprise, in general, organizations for the relief of the poor. The fact that a corporation established for the relief of indigent persons may receive voluntary contributions from the persons intended to be relieved will not necessarily deprive it of exemption.

"An association whose sole purpose is the instruction of the public, or an association whose primary purpose is to give lectures on subjects useful to the individual and beneficial to the community may be exempt as an educational corporation even though such an association has incidental amusement features. Associations formed to disseminate controversial or partisan propaganda are not educational within the meaning of the statute."

LEADS DETECTIVES TO HER HUSBAND AND OTHER WOMAN

Wife Confers With District Attorney and Refuses to Discuss Arrests in Apartment.

Mrs. Amy Smith, residing at 4347 Laclede avenue, led city detectives to an apartment at 4343 Laclede avenue at 12:30 o'clock this morning and caused the arrest there of her husband, Larry R. Smith, 28 years old, a traveling salesman, who gave his address as Marquette Hotel, and a woman who said she was Miss Eileen Eppelsheimer, 21, residing at the apartment.

Smith had retired for the night when arrested, the detectives reported. Today Mrs. Smith was in conference with Distdict Attorney Curry at the Federal Building and sent word to reporters that she would not discuss the affair, which is to be investigated by the Department of Justice. One of the detectives who made the arrests, said that Mrs. Smith had told him she and her husband had separated about six months ago and that she had moved to the Laclede avenue apartment about a week ago in order to watch for Smith.

Complaint has been made to the Prosecuting Attorney's office by Mrs. Smith that her husband has failed to support her, and a hearing on this complaint has been set for Aug. 8.

$50,000 IS NEEDED FOR CAMP JACKSON MEMORIAL

Movements for Monument at Pine-Lawton Cut-Off and to Buy Homes of Grant and Eugene Field Progress Slowly.

Citizens interested in movements to erect a monument on the site of Camp Jackson and to preserve the St. Louis homes of Ulysses S. Grant and Eugene Field have found it difficult to raise the necessary funds. They are not discouraged, however, and plan to renew their campaigns in the fall.

The Pine-Lawton cut-off, at Grand boulevard, marks the center of the western boundary of Camp Jackson, which was captured by Union soldiers from Missouri militia in 1861. In proposing a monument on this site in April, 1924, W. K. Bixby, vice president of the Missouri Historical Society, said:

"The happy circumstance of the creation of the Plaza gives us an opportunity not only to mark an historic spot, but, at the same time, do something to overcome the city's woeful lack of monumental art. We have our beautiful Corinthian Water Tower to the north, and the splendid entrance to Tower Grove Park on the south, but to find striking examples of municipal art elsewhere in the city is like the proverbial hunt for the needle in the haystack."

Grant-Dent Home Bought.

A committee appointed by Bixby decided to take no action until G. A. R. organizations had an opportunity to handle the project. Thereupon, the Camp Jackson Union Soldiers' Monument Association, composed of veterans and their friends, was formed to erect the monument. Former Judge J. Hugo Grimm, its president, estimates $50,000 will be required for a suitable monument. A number of small contributions have been received, but much more is needed.

The Board of Aldermen last April adopted an ordinance designating the triangle formed by the cut-off as Camp Jackson Plaza and authorizing the association to erect a monument there.

A campaign begun in April, 1924, for a $10,000 fund to preserve the Grant-Dent home at the southwest corner of South Fourth and Cerre streets, as a memorial to the famous General and his wife, has brought in slightly more than $5000. Henry Giessenbier, treasurer of the Grant-Dent Memorial Association, said. The association now owns the building, a two-family flat; has reduced the mortgage to $1000, paid back taxes of $1200 and has about $700 in the bank. Additional funds to complete payment of the mortgage and to renovate the building for opening as an historic museum will be sought.

The flat in which Grant and his wife lived is now unoccupied, but the other flat is tenanted and brings a steady income to the association. The Grant-Dent flat is tax-exempt.

No Memorial to Sherman.

A block away, at 634 South Broadway, near the northeast corner of Broadway and Cerre, is the brick flat which Eugene Field called home. A tablet unveiled there by Mark Twain in 1902 says, "Here was born Eugene Field, the poet, 1850-1895." Records, however, show Field lived in this house for five years after his infancy, but was born in a house on Collins street, since destroyed.

Friends of Field, including John F. Storm, who worked with Field on St. Louis and St. Joseph newspapers, announced in June a movement for organization of a corporation to purchase the site and convert the structure into a memorial library and museum. The present owner contemplated wrecking the flat to make room for a warehouse. Contributions to this fund have been few, but Storm hopes for a revival, this fall, of interest in the home of the author of "Little Boy Blue."

Suggestions for a civic memorial to Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman have been made in the past, without result. Sherman, hailed by Grant as "the greatest soldier living," died in 1891 and is buried here in Calvary Cemetery, a stone monument marking his grave. The old Sherman residence is on Garrison avenue near Locust street. The city parks have no memorial of the soldier who marched his army through Georgia to the sea, and who is credited with the saying, "War is hell."

STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED 24 HOURS AFTER ROBBERY

Detectives Arrest Two Men in Pawn Shop When They Attempt to Dispose of Loot.

Stolen goods valued at more than $1000 were recovered yesterday by detectives of the pawnship detail less than 24 hours after they had been taken by burglars from a home in North St. Louis. Two men found in possession of the goods were arrested.

Detective Sergts. Sippel and Werner were in a pawnshop at 805 Market street when two men entered at noon yesterday. One of the men, who said he was Jack Nelson, 23 years old, was carrying a pair of field glasses and the other, who identified himself as Edward Baker, 20, had two clocks, two rings and a watch. A search of their rooms at 911 Market street revealed other household articles and pieces of jewelry.

Later in the day the Rev. J. George Reess, pastor of the Independent Evangelical Protestant Church, identified the material as having been stolen from his home at 4015 Fair avenue, Wednesday night by burglars. Virtually all the loot, valued at $1033, was recovered. Nelson and Baker said they had bought it from a man on Market street.

SAYS PROPOSED ZONING ACT WOULD BE INVALID

H. S. Caulfield Points Out Measure Contains No Compensation Provision.

Henry S. Caulfield, former City Counselor, as cousel for the Real Estate Exchange, has rendered an opinion to the exchange, to the effect that the proposed city zoning ordinance, to be placed before the Board of Aldermen in September, would be invalid if enacted. The reason is that it contains no provision for compensating property owners who may suffer damage or loss by reason of the restrictions imposed.

The State Supreme Court, in declaring the former zoing law unconstitutional last year, made the point that the ordinance made no provision for compensation. The new ordinance, while having no compensation clause, has a provision for a board of adjustment, to pass on appeals of property owners from rulings made by the Building Commissioner, in enforcing the ordinance.

Caulfield's Opinion.

Caulfield, in his prepared opinion, says:

"In compliance with your request, I have examined the draft of a proposed zoning ordinance which you sent me to determine whether it lacked provision for compensation of persons who suffer damage or loss because of restrictions imposed by such ordinance, and if so, whether that would render the ordinance void.

"I find that the ordinance contains no such provision. In order to determine whether the absence of a compensation provision would render the ordinance unconstitutional, it was necessary to examine the regulations imposed by its terms on private property.

"The proposed ordinance prohibits within certain districts the erection of buildings and the use of premises and buildings for purposes that are not dangerous or constitute nuisances. This being the case, such regulations cannot be sustained as a valid exercise of police power, nor can such regulations be sustained on the ground that they are enacted in the exercise of the power of eminent domain. Nowhere in the ordinance is there any provision for the compensation of owners of property whose right to use property for some lawful purposes is taken away by the ordinance.

"Besides Other Frailties."

"Do not understand that, by the foregoing, I mean that the ordinance would be valid if it contained a provision for such compensation. I am of the opinion that besides other frailties it may possess, which may render it void, it is invalid for the reasons I have indicated."

The proposed ordinance conforms to the provisions of the enabling act passed by this year's Legislature, the purpose of which was to give authority to this and other cities to pass zoning laws for the protection of residence districts against commerical and industrial invasion.

John M. Atkinson, who was author of the measure passed by the Legislature, and Attorney Caulfield will meet at 3 p. m. Monday with the Zoning Committee of the exchange for a discussion of the proposed ordinance. O. J. McCawley is chairman of the committee.

SON of famous British statesman, who has called Capt. Peter Wright, author, a "liar," a "fool" and a "coward," as the result of an article written by Wright in which he declared that the late Commoner observed the highest principles in public, while in private he pursued every sort of woman.

"TOM-TOMING MUSIC IMMORAL"

Washington Woman Police Official Says It Is Suggestive.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—"Much of the jazz music being played here is immoral. It puts thoughts in the minds of the listeners that shouldn't be there. I refer to that tom-tommy sort of Orienta' music that makes men forget home and the babies. I have listened to dance music in Egypt, India and other Eastern countries, but this modern jazz has it beaten for suggestiveness."

That is part of what Mrs. Mina Van Winkle, lieutenant and head of the woman's bureau of the Washington Police Department, replied when someone, chancing to read the District of Columbia's police regulations, unearthed a regulation banning "music of an indecent character." Corporation Counsel Ringgold Hart was asked to say what kind of music was referred to and Hart asked Mrs. Van Winkle for the answer.

COLLAPSIBLE RIM COMPANY FOLDS UP

Judge Miller Grants Petition for Dissolution of Dressel Concern.

Stockholders in the Dressel Collapsible Rim Co., whose collapse was completed yesterday when Circuit Judge Miller granted a petition for its dissolution, will receive 10 to 11 cents on the dollar, it was stated today by Henry Trares, president.

The company was incorporated in 1918 with an authorized capital stock of $500,000, but only 2716 shares of the stock, with a par value of $100 each, were issued, according to the petition. Trares said about $40,000 of the stock was held by the general public, the rest having been issued in exchange for the patents on collapsible rims for pneumatic tires, the invention of the late Dr. W. E. Dressel of Edwardsville.

The corporation has no creditors and its property is unincumbered, the petition stated. Total assets were listed at $271,000, of which patents were appraised at $258,186. For several years the company operated a plant in the 5600 block of Delmar boulevard. The plant was recently sold. At a meeting of stockholders April 6 last it was voted to dissolve the corporation and distribute the assets, rather than continue an unprofitable business.

Trares testified yesterday that the patents will be turned over to trustees, who will seek a market for them. He added the company will make no effort to resume business, explaining:

"It was too collapsible."

Officers besides Trares, who is chairman of the board of the Bank of Edwardsville, were: E. C. Ferguson, vice president; J. W. Gonterman, secretary, and Curtis Pag, treasurer.

BOY TRYING TO SCALE CLIFF IS HURT IN FALL

Companion Rescued When His Cries Bring Men Who Lower Noosed Rope.

Two 15-year-old boys, attempting to scale a 75-foot cliff along the Iron Mountain Railroad tracks, about 4700 south, last evening, met with grief when one of them fell half the distance, suffering a fractured skull, while his companion was rescued only after his cries brought two men, who lowered ropes and drew him to safety.

The youths were Thomas Dodenhoff, who lives with his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Willie of 1332 Seventh boulevard, and Edward Hanke of 1231 South Sixth street. Returning after a walk along the railroad tracks, they attempted to climb the steep bluff at that point, in order to take a short cut to Broadway.

About half way up the cliff the Dodenhoff boy missed his footing and fell back on the railroad right-of-way. The Hanke boy, clinging to a precarious hold, abandoned further climbing efforts and shouted for help. His cries were heard by August H. Quest, 4734 South Broadway, and Harry Bachus, 4521A Nebraska avenue. Quest obtained a rope and lowered a noosed end to the boy, who was then drawn up.

The Dodenhoff boy was picked up unconscious. At city hospital it was found he had suffered a fractured skull, fractured nose and multiple lacerations on the head and body.

FATHER AND CHILDREN IN LAWSUIT OVER PROPERTY

Son Repudiates Signature on Deed Involving East St. Louis Office Building.

Thomas L. Fekete Sr., former Postmaster of East St. Louis, suing his son, Thomas L. Fekete Jr., attorney and member of the Illinois Legislature, and other children, contends in the trial, which began yesterday before Circuit Judge Bernreuter in Belleville, that he was deed an East St. Louis office building, valued at $70,000, by another son, Forrest Fekete, who died last March. The children contend the deed of trsut was invalidly signed and witnessed.

The building, at 224 Collinsville avenue, was originally the property of Dr. Alexander Fekete, a well-known East St. Louis physician and father of Thomas L. Fekete Sr. Dr. Fekete deeded the property to his son's first wife, who, in turn, conveyed it to her son, Forrest.

Forrest Fekete, it is contended by the plaintiff, then executed a declaration of trust, setting forth that he held the property for Thomas L. Fekete Sr. The instrument purports to bear the signatures of T. L. Fekete Jr. and A. K. Young as witnesses. They have repudiated the signatures. About 20 witnesses, including bankers, attorneys and handwriting experts, have been summoned to testify.

NET GAIN OF 400 CLAIMED FOR IGOE BY DEMOCRATS

A claim that William L. Igoe, Democrat, has made a net gain of 400 votes in the recount of votes cast at the April mayoralty election is made by Democrats in touch with the progress of Igoe's contest of Mayor Miller's election. Mayor Miller won on the face of official returns by 3129 votes.

The Election Board has completed a recount of 181 of the 624 precincts in the city, which includes the first eight wards and 15 precincts of the Ninth Ward.

A Democrat asserted today that Igoe had gained 62 votes in the Seventh Ward and 102 in the Eighth Ward. These are the most material gains made in any two wards.

Republicans decline to concede that Igoe's gains amount to more than 125 votes. Each party makes its tabulations from the same data, but the difference in statements as to Igoe's gain is accounted for by the fact that Republicans designate as doubtful votes which Democrats regard as having been intended by the voter for Igoe.

CLOSER WATCH ON SMUGGLERS PLANNED

Treasury Authorizes Appointment of 100 Additional Guards on Northern Border.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury has begun repairing the fences against smugglers along the Northern border of the United States.

As a first step he has authorized the appointment of more than 100 additional customs inspectors, to be assigned between the Atlantic seaboard and the western line of North Dakota.

Convinced that the Federal Government is losing from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 annually in revenue as a result of customs evasion, the Assistant Secretary has set about development of a program with which he hopes to combat the smugglers of merchandise, livestock, dairy and other farm products, as well as liquor, narcotics and aliens. Orders authorizing the increases in personnel went out last night, and many of the men will be put to work before Monday.

"Do not get the idea," he said, "that this job of guarding against smuggling is concerned only with liquor. That would be a wrong impression, for while the patrols will immeasurably strengthen our efforts to curb liquor running, they will pay their cost several times over in forcing payment of tariff duties on many shipments across the border that now pay nothing."

MEXICO HIGHWAY CONTRACTS

Chicago Firm Getting Work to Advance $500,000 for Machinery.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 31.—The National Highways Commission has signed a contract for the construction of three main highways in Mexico with the Byrne Bros. Construction Co. of Chicago. The company, which is to begin work before Aug. 30, is to be paid 10 per cent of the total cost of the highways.

The Chicago concern will grant a loan of 1,000,000 pesos (about $500,000) which will be used by the Government for the purchase of machinery. The Highways Commission undertakes an expenditure of 500,00 0pesos monthly from gasoline and tobacco revenues. If the revenues do not amount to this sum, the commission will draw on the Treasury Department for the deficit, in accordance with a decree issued by President Calles authorizing such procedure. The highways specified in the contract are the Mexico City-Laredo, Mexico City-uPebla, and Mexico City-Chiapas.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES

A criminal information charging embezzlement of $372.75 was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday against George D. Komar, defaulting clerk and collector of Maplewood, whose shortages are said to total more than $20,000. The information is directed at one alleged phase of his transactions while in office. It was filed in an effort to speed up prosecution. The grand jury which will consider the case will not meet until September.

Diseased Cattle to Be Killed.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON AND PARIS AT ODDS ON REPLY TO GERMAN NOTE

Briand May Confer With Chamberlain on Arbitration Feature of Security Plan.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—Difficulties which have arisen between the French and British Governments concerning a reply to Germany's second security note may necessitate an early personal interview by Foreign Minister Briand with Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary. The question at issue is the arbitration feature of the eventual security pact. The French insist that arbitration must be obligatory, and, in the case of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, should have a guarantor.

The British Government, it is said, in well-informed circles, appears inclined to treat Germany on an equal footing and to consider her word equal to that of the allies. The French, however, are not ready as yet to rely on promises which are not amply guaranteed. This is said to be the only feature of the security negotiations on which Paris and London are at odds.

M. Briand is expected to take advantage of an early meeting between Finance Minister Caillaux and Winston Spencer Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, in London and accompany M. Caillaux to the British capital in an endeavor to reach an agreement on a common reply to Berlin.

PACKARD ANNOUNCES—

Packard announces that already more than 15,000 new Packard owners have found in their cars the most notable improvements since the introduction of the electric starter.

These improvements are (1) the chassis lubricator, (2) the motor oil rectifier. Together they double the life of Packard cars.

The Chassis Lubricator

With the exception of six points that must be oiled by hand once every 10,000 miles, the chassis points requiring regular attention, 45 in all, may be oiled in less time than it takes to sound the horn.

The pull of a plunger, a second of time, and every part is bathed in oil.

How much would your car be worth today if it had no electric starter? How much will your car be worth two, three or four years from today if it has no chassis lubricator and motor oil rectifier?

These improvements, found together only in Packard cars, are among the most important ever made in motor car design.

While the electric starter increased the sale of cars—the chassis lubricator and the motor oil rectifier double the life of cars—cutting depreciation in half and making the Packard the most economical car in its class to own, to operate and to maintain.

The Motor Oil Rectifier

The motor oil needs to be changed but once in every 2500 miles. The lubricating qualities are preserved through a complete and automatic purification once every hour while the motor is running.

The result—longer life of parts, lower costs for oil and quietness of operation.

First by ten years or more to protect the interests of owners through retaining standardized appearance and in offering no yearly models, Packard is now first to make it easily possible for owners to get out of their cars the long and desirable mileage life built into them.

HOW FAT I WAS

And How I Lost 50 Pounds in 8 Weeks With Marvelous New Parisian Discovery Which Causes Sensation in New York.

Simple, Easy—Does Away With Exercises, Worthless Reducing Creams and Garments

No one can ever believe that once I weighed over 190 pounds. Those who knew me then and meet me say I look 10 years younger. I never could get clothes to fit me. All my friends called me FATTY and even my own family thought I was a most unattractive woman. For years I suffered, until one day in Paris I discovered the real cause of excess fat—I found out exactly what to do to reduce, and I safely and easily lost 50 pounds in about two months. I have never regained one pound and never felt or looked better. I have given out my secret to hundreds of people who have obtained the most astonishing results. If YOU have tried everything known to reduce and have not succeeded—if YOU feel so discouraged that you have decided to remain fat, NOW THERE IS HOPE FOR YOU. I suffered so much for years with this burden of fat that I am glad to be able to help all fat people by giving them a real way of reducing. Go to any good drug store, get a package of the latest French discovery called SAN-GRI-NA (remember the name), take two small tablets before each meal and watch a steady decrease take place in your weight. SAN-GRI-NA not only reduces you, but it acts as a general tonic—the moment you start taking it you will feel your entire system filled with strength and energy. SAN-GRI-NA IS GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS. It is the only thing I ever found to reduce me after I had tried diets, exercise, drugs, worthless reducing creams and garments. Remember that with SAN-GRI-NA I took off 50 pounds in two months. I have never regained a pound since, and my health is envied by everyone.

On sale at any good drug or department store. If your druggist does not carry San-Gri-Na in stock he can get it from his wholesaler or you can send a money order or check for $1.50 direct to the Scientific Research Laboratories, 1841 Broadway, N. Y. C.

GREATEST PADLOCK DRIVE TO START IN NEW YORK MONDAY

Dry Agents to Go After "Bigger Men," Any Bootlegger With 500 or More Cases of Liquor.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The greatest effort in the history of the local prohibition department to padlock resorts alleged to be violators of the dry laws and to bring to trial "men higher up," will be launched Monday, United States Attorney Buckner announced today. Plans for the arraignment of 1000 padlock cases before Federal Judge Hand next week have been perfected.

Attorney Buckner defined the "bigger men" as those caught in possession of "500 or more cases of liquor."

The campaign will be launched with the closing of the present "bargain session" of the padlock court. Co-operating with Buckner in the move will be 20 new prohibition officers assigned to local divisional headquarters by Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. "Bargain week" continued its accelerating program yesterday before Judge Hand. More than 200 additional defendants appeared and accepted the special consideration offered those who pleaded guilty. Fines collected since Monday aggregate $65,000.

G. A. BUDER FIRES TWICE AT TWO PORCH CLIMBERS

Publisher Sees Them Scurry Down Pillar as He Is Entering His House.

Gustavus A. Buder, lawyer and publisher of the St. Louis Times, fired his revolver at two porch climbers whom he saw leaving his residence, 3137 Lonugfellow place, at 10 o'clock last night. The men got away, apparently unwounded.

Buder saw the men scurrying down a pillar as he was entering the house, after having put his automobile away. He stepped inside and got his revolver, and fired the first shot in the air, calling on the men to halt. He saw them in a yard to the east, and fired again as both were climbing over a fence. They disappeared on the other side of the fence.

The men had begun to ransack an upstairs room when they were interrupted, but it does not appear that they took anything of value.

HIS LIFE EMPTY AT 78, MAN TAKES POISON IN ROOM

Doctors Hold Little Hope for Recovery of Auguste Allard, a Widower.

At 78, Auguste Allard, a widower, found that for him there was nothing further in life, so he took poison in his room at 3812A Enright avenue yesterday. He was found unconscious, the empty bottle beside him. At City Hospital doctors held little hope for his recovery.

A note on a dresser in the room explained.

"I do not want to live any longer," the note read. "I am 78 years old. I can work no more. Life is no good to me. I am alone in the world."

In his room police found $37.85.

Silver Taken From Busch Home.

The theft of silver valued at $450 from his home at 5577 Lindell boulevard was reported to the police yesterday by August A. Busch Jr., general superintendent of Anheuser-Busch, Inc. Busch discovered the theft yesterday, but could not explain how the thief entered the house.

THREE EAST ALTON TRUSTEES ARRESTED

Each Give $500 Bond on Charge of Preventing Quorum of Village Board.

Warrants issued yesterday by Justice Dale at Edwardsville, charging W. A. Hale, R. E. Ford and R. P. Thompson with omission of official duty in failing to attend meetings of the Village Board, thereby preventing the presence of a quorum to transact business, were served, and the three members of the Village Board of East Alton were taken to Edwardsville, where bond of $500 was given for their appearance at a preliminary examination.

Friends of the absenting Aldermen have said they remained away because the majority—with the Mayor voting—forestalled new efforts they made in the Council.

After the return of the accused members of the board last night, Hale said that, so far as he was concerned, there was no agreement to prevent a quorum. He said he stayed from the meetings as a protest. He was dissatisfied, he said, with the way the village affairs were being conducted. "The village of East Alton," he said, "is not wealthy, and must be careful in spending its money. For some time the village has been maintaining two policemen, and they have been devoting their time to policing the country districts outside of the village, making raids there instead of staying in town and policing the town. When Chief Haws resigned they wanted to appoint another man in his place, and I was not satisfied, so I did not go to the meetings."

It is understood that all three of the village trustees will deny there was any conspiracy to prevent the having of a quorum in the Village Board.

President Sanders had the warrant issued by authority of State's Attorney Brown. The offense, if cases are made against the Village Board members, would call for a penalty of not more than $1000 fine and removal from office.

Asked whether he would attend the meeting of the board the next time one is held, Hale said he was not ready to say, as he did not know what the circumstances might be.

There is no doubt that if the meeting is held, the Village President, Sanders, will be able to appoint a man to take the place of Haws, who resigned as Police Chief, as he has three votes and can cast the deciding vote himself.

NICARAGUAN DEMONSTRATION AGAINST AMERICAN MISSION

Police Save Buildings From Damage by Mob and Three Missionaries Escape Injury.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Another demonstration against American missionaries at Granada, Nicaragua, the second within two weeks, is described in a dispatch from the Nicaraguan capital, Managua.

A church belonging to the Central American Mission was surrounded by a mob Monday night, being saved from damage by the intervention of the police. A native woman who was in the building was injured. The police arrested 11 of those believed to have been responsible for the outrage.

In the previous attack, on July 19, which prompted the Americans to request the aid of the Nicaraguan Government and of the American Minister, the residence of the missionaries was stoned and the mission was bombed. The lives of the three missionaries—two women and one man—were endangered, but they escaped without injury.

Several days ago it was reported from Managua that President Solorzano had sent a commission and 50 soldiers to Granada to settle difficulties that had arisen there between American missionaries and Catholic authorities.

The Central American Mission, a Protestant institution, began activities four years ago, but its headquarters in Granada were opened only recently against the opposition of the Bishop of Granada.

DRUG SMUGGLING INDICTMENTS

Five Men Accused in Atlanta Prison Plot.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 31.—Five men were indicted by the Federal grand jury here yesterday on charges of smuggling narcotics into the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary. None of the men is said to have been arrested and names are withheld pending their detention by authorities.

The indictments followed a seizure of $5000 worth of narcotics several weeks ago by Warden John W. Snooks. The drugs had been consigned to the penitentiary. An investigation inaugurated by the seizure led to the indictments. Virtually all of the indicted men are said to live in other states.

731 AUTOMOBILES BUILT DURING THE MONTH OF JUNE

Production 60 Per Cent Greater Than During Corresponding Month in 1924.

The number of automobiles produced in the United States during June was 60 per cent greater than the number produced in June, 1924. The figures—364,731 last June, compared with 222,966 for June, 1924 are given in the monthly report public today by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

Most agricultural crops in the Eighth Federal Reserve district survived one of the hottest Junes on record and went into July in good condition, the report states. The weather has been good corn weather and the prospect is that the district will yield 441,000,000 bushels compared with 346,000,000 last year.

Business in general fell off slightly from May, but still remains markedly ahead of June, 1924. The building "boom" which St. Louis is enjoying seems to be general through the district, the sum of the dollar value of permits in five large cities of the district, including St. Louis, being nearly double that of June, 1924.

Railroads operating in the district, continue to accommodate an enormous volume of freight traffic. The St. Louis Terminal Railroad Association interchanged 198,277 loads in June, compared with 175,412 in June, 1924. Passenger traffic decreased 6 per cent during June as compared with the same month a year ago.

NEW BILL TO BE FILED IN WASHINGTON EVOLUTION SUIT

Case Withdrawn, Due to Objections Filed by Government, Will Be Revived.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Washington's evolution suit has been withdrawn but its sponsors assert it will be revived.

Among objections raised, the Government, in its motion to dismiss, cited precedents which it held denied Loren H. Wittner's right as a taxpayer to sue to prevent payment of salaries to school officials here responsible for certain biological teachings in the schools. The complaint held such instruction to be in violation of a provision of the District of Columbia appropriation bill against teaching "disrespect for the Holy Bible."

To strengthen his case, Wittner said he not only would file his next suit as a taxpayer in the District of Columbia instead of a Federal taxpayer, but also would seek to have a local taxpayer, with children attending public schools here, join as co-plaintiff in the action.

Wittner, who as an avowed atheist, brought his suit to test the "disrespect" clause of the appropriation bill in the interest of free teaching of scientific subjects, is being assisted in drawing up his new suit by the Rev. H. M. Lawson, pastor of the Maryland Avenue Baptist Church. Lawson, who is a former New York attorney, explained that he was lending his advice in the case in the interest of "complete separation for church and state."

FISTIC CLASHES IN REICHSTAG

BERLIN, July 31.—The Reichstag during the last few days has been the scene of heated encounters on the question of church taxes. Violent clashes between Communists and members of the Centrist party, in which many blows were exchanged by the members, necessitated repeated suspension of the meetings.

Members are rapidly succumbing to the strain of heated debating and the oppressive atmosphere of the Chamber. Eight or nine fainting spells have occurred daily and one Deputy, who is a physician, is kept busy rendering first aid.

Paris Bank Clerks Fight Police.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 31.—Street fighting between the striking bank clerks and the Paris police occurred yesterday and one bank employe was slightly wounded. Several bank clerks were arrested, but later released. In two collisions with the police, several striking bank clerks, men and women, were thrown to the ground. The clashes occurred when strikers endeavored to form a procession and stage a manifestation before the National Park Bank of Credit and the Credit Lyonnais, chanting "Our hundred francs."

COMPLAINS WIFE STOLE $200 HE WAS PAID AS MURDER FEE

Man Admits Killing in Which Woman Gave $400 to Middleman to Have Husband Slain.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A strange tale of murder in which a wife paid $400 to have her husband slain, the hired assassin in turn employing another to do the shooting for $200, and the subsequent filching of the money from the slayer, was unfolded at the Detective Bureau last night.

The widow of Louis Noddle, slain last December, said she had paid $400 to have her husband slain, claiming that he had abused her daughter by a former marriage. The daughter corroborated her story.

James Salino said he collected the money, but claimed he was only the middleman, keeping $200 for his share and having "the job done for the $200 that was left."

Andrew Capa, who admitted the shooting, said his wife had taken the $200 and gone to Milwaukee, where she was arrested. Mrs. Capa's comment was "What's $200?"

New Dutch Cabinet Formed.

THE HAGUE, Holland, July 31.—A new Dutch Cabinet, succeeding the one which resigned on July 29, has been formed by the former Minister of Finance, H. Colijn, who becomes Premier and also holds the portfolios of Finance and the Colonies in the new ministry.

ST. LOUIS TAX ON OUTSIDE PRODUCTS VOID, COURT SAYS

Division No. 1 of Supreme Bench Orders Levy of $76,871 Against International Shoe Quashed.

JURISDICTION OF CITY HELD LIMITED

Decision, Holding Ordinance Cannot Enforce Tax on Goods Made Elsewhere, Will Slash Revenue

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31.—Merchants and manufacturers' tax, levied by the City of St. Louis on manufacturers there for that part of their production from factories outside the city, is not authorized by law, Division No. 1 of the State Supreme Court held yesterday in a suit brought by the International Shoe Co. of St. Louis against City License Collector Chapman and the St. Louis Merchants and Manufacturers' Board of Tax Equalization.

The Court quashed an assessment of $76,871 in taxes on $76,870,650 in shoes manufactured by the company in its 36 factories outside St. Louis. The attempted levy was for 1924 taxes.

A tax of $18,428 on $18,427,768 in shoes manufactured in St. Louis or sold in Missouri, irrespective of the point of manufacture, still stands. The latter tax was not contested.

Material Loss to City.

This decision will result in a material tax loss to the city, due to the effect on assessments on other companies under similar circumstances.

An assessment of $95,299 in taxes was ordered against the International company by the Board of Equalization in assessing the merchants and manufacturers' tax. This tax, established by city ordinance, imposes a levy of $1 on the license of manufacturers for each $1000 in goods manufactured.

The company protested that $76,870,630 in goods manufactured in its factories outside St. Louis was not subject to the tax, even though the goods were shipped from the factories to warehouses in St. Louis and sold from those warehouses to customers. It was contended these shipments were interstate commerce, and not subject to a city tax. No protest was made against the tax on products of the seven factories in St. Louis.

City's Jurisdiction Limited.

Commissioner James Lindsay, who wrote the opinion, held that for the purpose of levying a tax on the company's privilege as a manufacturer, "the ordinance did not authorize a computation of the tax upon the value of shoes manufactured beyond the jurisdiction of the city." The ruling, he stated, applied only to the tax upon shoes made outside the city and sold to customers out of the State.

Major Held for Attack on Girl, 13.

By the Associated Press.

HICKORY, N. C., July 31.—Maj. Wade Bowman of Hickory, commanding officer of the second squadron of the North Carolina Cavalry, is held without bail following his arrest on a warrant charging him with criminal assault upon a 13-year-old girl, the daughter of a prominent Hickory citizen. The alleged crime was committed last Tuesday night. On the statements of two physicians, the original charge of a felony was amended to that of assault, and he was released on bond. To this charge he pleaded guilty at a hearing Wednesday morning and prayer for judgment was suspended until Aug. 20, when he was to return from Fort Oglethorpe. However, at the instance of the child's mother, Maj. Bowman was rearrested on the original charge.

700 WOLVES KILLED BY HUNTING BAND

Five Men, Working for Canadian Government, Covered 150-Mile Circuit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
EDMONTON, Alberta, July 31.—After a winter spent in the barren lands about Artillery Lake shooting and poisoning wolves for the Canadian Government, Bruno Loranger, ex-sniper of the Canadian forces in the World War, has arrived in Edmonton.

The number of wolves dispatched by Loranger and his three companions, J. Robert and Frank Wood, hunters, and Joachim Dion, who acted as hunter and camp man, will be the subject of a report to be made to the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, but unofficially it was said the bag was around 700.

Loranger made a circuit of the barren lands, covering about 150 miles. Carlton Bay, at the eastern extremity of Great Slave Lake, was the first headquarters of the wolf hunters. The country through which they had to operate was scrubby bush, difficult to work through.

On Aug. 1, 1924, the party arrived at the old Indian encampment at Pike's portage on Carlton Bay. There they found a number of Indian dogs, which had been left to starve. They took four and the remainder they shot. The four were brought back to health, augmenting their four dog teams to a total of 18 animals.

Headquarters ultimately were made in Poor Fish Bay, Great Slave Lake, so called by Loranger on account of its lack of good fishing.

While poisoning and shooting wolves, the party on Dec. 10 saw a large flock of ravens in the sky, heralding the caribou migrating to the south. Hours later came the big herd, following both sides of Artillery Lake, bound south from Victoria Land to winter in the timber southwest of Chrystie Bay. In April the great herd moved to the Arctic regions.

CHICAGO LIQUOR TOLL, 212

Number Five Times Greater Than Total for 1919.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 31.—Deaths from alcohol in Cook County (Chicago) in the year ended July 1, were five times greater than the total for the year ended June 31, 1919, the year before prohibition became effective. The figures were announced today by the Coroner's office and based on finding of Coroner's juries. In the year ending July 1, deaths from alcoholism totaled 212, and in the year ending July 1, 1919, the deaths from the same cause totaled 40.

"When a man drinks cheap liquor nowadays," Coroner Oscar Wolfe said, commenting on the report, "he is committing suicide. If the liquor doesn't get him, perhaps a speeding automobile will."

Liquor Found in Florist Shop.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 31.—An odor similar to that of Four Roses, a widely known brand of whisky, late yesterday attracted two detectives as they were passing a florist's shop at 3508 Troost avenue. After a brief investigation in the shop they found 13 pints of liquor in a sample case and a brief case. Joseph Gardner, proprietor, and J. C. Brown, salesman, were arrested.

[K]ATO LIKELY TO BE ASKED TO FORM A NEW CABINET

Prince Regent Sends Lord Chamberlain to Seek Advice of Saionji, Former Premier.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, July 31.—The Prince Regent has dispatched Count ...ya, Lord Chamberlain, to Got...a to seek the advice of Prince ...onji, ex-Premier and noted statesman, on the reorganization of a new Cabinet.

The Cabinet resignations, tendered today, have been accepted, but the Regent has ordered the re...ing members to remain in office until a new Ministry has been appointed.

It is generally believed that Premier Kato will be reappointed and requested to form a new Cabinet in which persons of Kenseikai party allegiance will predominate. Because of the crisis the Prince Regent has postponed his projected trip to Sakha lien.

Tax adjustment proposals were responsible for the resignation of the Ministry, which followed upon a serious split between the Kenseikai and Seiyukai parties, both of which supported the government of Premier Kato.

When Premier Kato asked for the resignations of three Seiyukai members of the Cabinet, it was decided by the party that it would not accede to the request. The ...essitated the resignation of all the Ministers.

William Beebe, who headed the dition, said the Arcturus was ing back "tons and tons" of life specimens which the ists had preserved for further ification and study. All of this rial is interesting—vivid hued fragile deep sea creatures hundreds of luminous spots glow until the owner is "all lit like Broadway;" transparent smalls with wings in place of —and some of it comprises ieties new to men of science.

But the thing that is "perfectly nishing" to Beebe was that in last four days of his cruise, ich were spent dredging the pre- oric sunken gorge of the Hud- in the vicinity of its one-time foot waterfall—larger than any the world today—finds were ds which matched any of the sters discovered in the vicinity the storied Galapagos Islands.

Many Forms of Luminous Fish.

"It is amazing," he said. "the y sea things our nets and dges brought up from this sunk- and untouched storehouse of ntific marvels at the very door- of New York, barely a hun- d miles from the city hall. We d lantern fish and other lumi- forms of submarine life of al- every variety and shape. We ed this gorge 'The Original son Terminal,' as this was re the river emptied into the antic some 2,000,000 years ago, re the coast subsided.

Geologists have known of the ken valley with its tremendous erfall for years, but no one be- has sought to bring up its se- ets.

her way up from quarantine the Arcturus, dressed in all the pennants she could muster and with a 178-foot "homeward bound" streamer trailing from her rear mast to the water, used up all her steam answering salutes from every river craft she met and depended on two convoying tugs to get her to the foot of Seventy-ninth street, where she docked.

The homeward-bound pennant measured a foot for every day the Arcturus was away and bore a star for each of the expedition's 33 members. It was made by the women aboard, who ran out of material toward the end and were forced to fashion the last stars out of pink lingerie.

Eye Weighing Ten Pounds.

All agreed a giant eagle ray, 18 feet across the "wings" and weighing 2400 pounds, furnished the most exciting episode of the trip when harpooned by Dr. Donald W. Cady, surgeon, and Dwight Franklin, artist and assistant in fish preparation. It towed their boat in a half-mile circle, charging and nearly wrecking it three times and actually jumping clear of the water in its fury.

Killed at last, the ray was photographed and weighed on the Arcturus and then disposed of because it was too big to bring back. Its eyes, however, weighing 10 pounds each, and a 40-pound embryo found inside it, were preserved.

Among the specimens brought back are a fish with a transparent pane over its stomach, through which its whole internal mechanism can be seen; a fish that walks with eight hands; a fish illuminated with thousands of pin points of light, and a devil fish 18 feet across.

Beebe attributed his failure to locate the Humboldt current, an icy stream which flows up from the Antarctic between South America and the Galapagos, to recent earthquake and volcanic disturbances in different parts of the world.

Other members of the expedition were: Dr. Charles J. Fish, Plankton expert from the Bureau of Fisheries; his wife, an expert on larval fishes; Dr. William Gregory, ichthyologist of the American Museum of Natural History and professor of comparative anatomy at Columbia; William H. Merriam, assistant in field work; Miss Ruth Rose, historian and technician; Miss Isabel Cooper and Mrs. John Tee-Van, artists; Jay F. W. Pearson of the University of Pittsburg, assistant in biology; Miss Lillian Segal, chemist, and Serge Chetyrykin, preparteur.

The Arcturus was in charge of Capt. James Howes and 36 men.

$23,108 ON HAND AS LAWYERS SEEK $30,000 BANK FEE

Report on Night and Day Expenditures Ordered After Francis and Miller's Firm File New Bill.

ACCOUNTS STILL OUT TOTAL $461,262

Deputy Finance Official's Letter Says Mayor's Firm Used More Than One Man on Case.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31.—A report on all expenditures thus far in liquidation of the wrecked Night and Day Bank of St. Louis, not available in State Finance Department records here, has been requested of the special liquidating officer by the new Insolvent Bank Division of the department. This division is seeking to expedite liquidation of closed State banks in Missouri.

Loss of the depositors and stockholders originally was estimated at approximately $1,000,000, after failure of the bank Jan. 6, 1922. Aside from that estimated loss is a $167,000 shortage of a former liquidating officer, large attorneys' fees and liquidation expenses for three and one-half years, all charged against assets of the bank.

Total Shortage $921,000.

Cashier Arthur O. Meininger's shortage was placed at $754,000 and the later shortage of former Special Deputy Finance Commissioner Donald W. Ross, assigned to the task of untangling Meininger's accounts and liquidating the bank, was found to be $167,000. Ross' shortage involved further drain on the remaining assets, as an audit by special accountants was in progress for months to determine the amount of his shortage.

As told in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, a bill for $30,000 in additional legal fees has been presented by Thomas E. Francis and the law firm of Case & Miller, composed of Clarence T. Case and Mayor Victor J. Miller, all of St. Louis, for services in the liquidation. This is in addition to $30,000 in fees already paid the three attorneys, plus $1368 to Case & Miller only in percentage fees for collection of certain notes. Attorney-General Otto, to whom the $30,000 bill was referred by the Finance Department for approval, declined to take action and said the bill would be returned to the Finance Department.

May Pay 67 to 70 Per Cent.

Not all the numerous services listed in a lengthy statement accompanying the bill were performed by the special counsel, it appears from a letter by Special Deputy Finance Commissioner C. N. Gilles, suggesting allowance of $15,000 of the $30,000 sought. Discussing the services, Gilles said the firm of Case & Miller had found it necessary to detail one man from their office, who had been constantly engaged in handling the work, "and many times we have called on other members of the firm." He said Francis had been called in many times for consultation on more important matters.

Thus far the Finance Department has paid $1,610,579.26 in dividends, representing 62 per cent of the approximately $2,600,000 in approved claims of depositors. The probable recovery has been estimated at 67 to 70 per cent.

Cash now on hand totals $23,108, slightly more than two-thirds of the additional bill for legal services. Accounts still uncollected in the liquidation total $461,262.

Monthly Liquidation Reports.

Finance Commissioner C. E. French, who was appointed April 16, last, established the Insolvent Bank Division last month, to exercise central control over liquidation of closed State banks. The purpose of the division is to speed up liquidations and reduce the costs. Reports on progress of all liquidations, heretofore not kept in the department, are being compiled, and special liquidating officers will be required to submit monthly reports on progress and expenses.

20 HURT IN FIGHT BETWEEN FASCISTI AND REDS IN LONDON

Black Shirts Attack Meeting in Hyde Park, Tearing Up Flag on Speaker's Soap Box.

Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, July 31.—Twenty Communists and Fascists are nursing wounds here today as a result of a free-for-all fight in Hyde Park Wednesday night, when Fascisti attacked a Communist meeting there and captured and tore up the red flag over the speaker's soap box. Police broke up the battle. Several bystanders were cut and bruised.

The Fascisti retired to their headquarters, where they posted black-shirted guards at a door, with drawn swords. These guards were prepared for any attempt at reprisal by the reds. One of the Fascisti officers sat inside with a revolver on the desk.

The Fascisti involved call themselves "the national" Fascisti, an offshoot of the original British "Fascisti," which, Commander General Howard, leader of the new organization, said talked too much and did too little.

"Our motto," he declared, "is 'hats off to the past—coats off to the future.'"

MELLON DENIES ANY INTENTION TO RESIGN FROM CABINET

NEW YORK, July 31.—Secretary Mellon, who is spending the summer here, denied any intention to resign from the Cabinet. A statement issued by his secretary said:

"Mr. Mellon authorized me to say that he cannot understand these repeated stories about his leaving the Cabinet. He would have preferred to ignore this latest one, but takes occasion to deny its truth so that the public will have no doubt about his intention to remain as head of the Treasury Department."

:: A UNIQUE CHAPTER OF AMERICAN HISTORY ::

"The Rise and Fall of Jesse James"

By ROBERTUS LOVE

A Survivor Describes the Otterville (Mo.) Train Robbery by the James-Younger Gang—For the First Time Jesse James and His Followers Are Positively Identified in a Holdup—A Detailed Account of the Bandits' Actions While They Cowed Trainmen and Passengers With "Overgrown Colts" and Cleaned Out the Baggage Cars.

CHAPTER XVII.

WE reach now the apogee of the James-Younger confederation's outlaw supremacy in Missouri. Ossa on Pelion piled makes perihelion at last. Also. Alpha climbing step by step reaches Omega and takes a tumble—that being the end.

The last affair in freebootery from which "the boys" of both families rode away unscathed was a success measurably brilliant. Boys they were no longer, nor even youths. Frank James and Coleman Younger were past 32. Robert Younger, youngest of them all, had reached his twenty-third year. Both the Jameses had become married men—family men—and both were what moralists are apt to describe as "good family men." It is a remarkable fact that not even the most shameless fictionists have insinuated the slightest deviation upon the part of either Jesse James or Frank James from the straight path of marital faithfulness. In the matter of being true to their wives they appear to have been of such quality as to satisfy the most exacting advocate of the so-called single standard. Freebooters they were, upon occasion, but philanderers never, so far as the record runs.

All of the outlaws were, as any strict stickler for conventional comportment might suggest, old enough to know better than to rob trains or banks as a means of livelihood. For men of their years they had enjoyed—if one may say it thus—an extraordinary wide and varied experience in active life. Much had they traveled, many states and cities had they seen, and many successful campaigns had they carried out in their own peculiar fashion. But the border bandits had been riding to a fall, though the fall was not quite yet. One more victorious campaign was to be theirs.

As the Rocky Cut holdup this affair was known for some years, but we shall call it simply the Otterville train robbery. Not long after this high tide of riding out of Nowhere, robbing, and riding back into Nowhere, the two-family confederacy was to split in twain upon crimsoned shards in a distant State, the Younger section retiring permanently from the field. The robbery of the Missouri Pacific train near Otterville, Cooper County, Mo., July 7, 1876, was exactly two months before the violent smashup. This campaign is important in the chronicle because for the very first time we are able to say definitely who were the eight men composing the raiding force. Here at last do we hammer in the brass tacks of fact. Rumor, suspicion, probability—all these take to the winds now. Names leap forth from Rocky Cut which we may hang as crimson rosettes upon the tablets of authentic history.

Personnel of the Band.

The men who robbed that train were Jesse Woodson James, Alexander Franklin James, Thomas Coleman Younger, Robert Younger, McClellan Miller, William Stiles, Samuel Wells and Hobbs Kerry. Stiles has appeared heretofore as Bill Chadwell and Wells as Charlie Pitts. It is high time that their real names be bestowed upon them for permanent recollection, if that be in any wise desirable; for the Messrs. Wells and Stiles shortly are to disappear forever from this narrative and from the living herd of humans. Fortunately we have with us a man who saw that train robbery from the inside. Make the acquaintance of Mr. Louis Peter Conklin of Chicago, "Pete" Conklin to his friends, for more than half a century a faithful baggagemaster on railroad trains in the Middle West. He is a native of St. Louis. For nearly 50 years Pete Conklin has passed amongst trainmen as "the man who was held up by Jesse James." Jesse James, everybody admits, held up many men; but our Mr. Conklin gets the honor of the definite article when he is introduced as, presumably, the sole survivor of the Otterville holdup.

In a recent interview Mr. Conklin told the author the story of that affair as he remembers it—and his friends aver that his memory is of letter-file accuracy. Passages in Peter Conklin's own words will be used in telling most of the story of this high-tide train raid:

"How do I know it was the James and Younger gang that held up my train away back there in '76? Well, it's a rather long story, but if you care to listen I think I can convince you that it was they who robbed our train and rode away. I doubt if people of this generation know anything about Hobbs Kerry. Nevertheless, it was Kerry who supplied the names of the other seven, after having confessed his part in the job. From his testimony, and from what I have learned since 1876 about the Jameses and the Youngers, and also from what happened to the Youngers and to Clell Miller, Bill Chadwell and Charlie Pitts a couple of months after the Otterville affair, I have no doubt as to the identity of the eight robbers.

"The train left Kansas City at 4:45 o'clock Friday afternoon, July 7, for St. Louis. I came along as baggagemaster. We carried a combination express and baggage car, a smoker, several day coaches and two Pullman sleepers. All the coaches were fairly well filled with passengers. At Sedalia, 13 miles west of Otterville, we took on an express car from the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, or 'Katy' road, and it was coupled in next to our express-baggage car. The Katy car was locked, nobody riding in it. The car in which I worked had front and rear platforms, and both side and end doors.

The Messenger's Story.

"In the car with me was John B. Bushnell of St. Louis, messenger for the United States Express Co. Bushnell had two safes in his care. One belonged to his own company, the other to the Adams Express Co. Both of course, were locked, though Bushnell had no key to the Adams safe, which was simply being carried through as special express.

"It was a beautiful moonlit night, rather hot. After I finished handling the baggage taken on at Sedalia, I sat down in a chair near one of the side doors, to cool off. I was admiring the scenery when, rather suddenly, about 10 p. m., the train came to a stop near the western end of the wooden bridge across the Lamine river, a mile or so east of Otterville. This was in a place called Rocky Cut, the name of which explains its character. First thing I knew, somebody fired a shot. Later I found that the bullet had struck the door frame a few inches from where I had been sitting. I jumped out of my chair and took to cover. Outside were several men, shouting and shooting.

"Pretty soon three men climbed into my car. Bushnell, aware that a robbery was on the impediate program, went back in the train and handed the brakeman the key to his safe. The safe had no combination lock. When the robbers entered the car they searched me for weapons and told me to stand up to one side, which I did. Their big guns didn't look nice to young Pete Conklin. They brought in the engineer and fireman and lined them up with me. Some of them had climbed into the cab and got the drop on the engine crew.

"Each of the three robbers in the car, and also one who stayed just outside and fired a shot now and then, to scare us, wore a red bandanna handkerchief tied around the lower part of the face. All had sixshooters; looked like those big old Colt's navies that were in such general use then.

"I have always believed that the man just outside the car was Frank James and that two of those who came into my car were Jesse James and Cole Younger. I saw Frank James frequently in St. Louis. After he came in and was acquitted, and from descriptions of Jesse and Cole, I formed the belief that they were two-thirds of the trio that worked in my car for an hour that night. The third probably was Bob Younger.

"One of these three men demanded that I give him the key to the safe. I told him I didn't have the key.

"Get it, then, young fellow"—I was 21—"and be quick about it, or you'll get hurt," he said.

"At the same instant he shoved the muzzle of his gun against my ribs. That gentleman, I think, was the renowned Jesse James.

"'Where's the express messenger, then?'

"'He's back in the train somewhere.'

"'Come with me and find him.'

The Samuel Home

Cabin into which bomb was thrown by detectives. The explosion tore off Mrs. Samuel's arm.

"I went with him, for he still held his Colt in a threatening position. Bushnell was found, but he told the bandit he didn't have the key.

"'Find it,' was the sharp order.

"Bushnell was taken into one of the sleepers, where the brakeman sat. Threatened with death, the brakeman handed over the key. The man with the big gun then marched us all back to the baggage car. As we walked through the train we found that several other armed men were posted outside, on each side of the train. Now and then one of them fired a shot. From time to time they uttered loud oaths.

"The newsboy, or train butcher, as he would be called today, was a lad from St. Louis named Lou Bales. Lou was a nervy little cuss. He carried a little firearm that made a squeaky sound when it was fired off. He was game—probably had more courage than discretion. When he saw a large man standing up the rocky side of the cut, shouting and shooting, Lou turned loose at him, firing two shots.

"'Say, boys, just listen to that little feist pup bark at me!' laughed the big bandit.

"The feist pup barked no more, for Lou Bales was taken in hand by some passenger whose discretion exceeded his valor.

"As the robber was marching Messenger Bushnell up front, the negro porter in one of the Pullmans remarked to the passengers who happened to be awake:

"'If any o' yo' gents got a weapon, now's the time fo'yo' to take a crack at that fellah in the back o' his haid.'

"'Hush up, you black fool! Do you want to get all of us killed?' admonished a passenger.

"The porter hushed up instantly. Once back in our car, the robbers got busy. The U. S. Express safe was opened with the key, and the cash was taken out and placed in a long wheat sack by one of the outlaws. Then the leader of the gang—Jesse James—say, I—turned to the Adams Express safe.

"'Here—where's the key to this?' he demanded, looking fiercely at Bushnell. We could see only his eyes and forehead, but those eyes were fierce, all right; they were blue eyes, and blinky eyes.

"'I don't know,' the messenger replied, explaining in some detail that the safe was being shipped through, locked. Finally the robbers seemed to conclude that he was telling them the truth, as in fact he was.

The Youngers in Action.

"One of the men, a wiry fellow of medium size who seemed to have a lot of initiative, skipped ahead to the engine tender. I think he was young Bob Younger. He got the fireman's coal hammer, or pick, and brought it into the car. He tried to break the hinges of the safe door with the hammer, but failed. Then he gave the door several sharp, digging blows with the pointed end of the pick. This had little or no effect.

"A bigger bandit, with a fist like a ham, seized the pick and dealt several blows. This man, from his superior size and strength, I have no doubt, was Cole Younger. At last he made an opening in the metal. After a dozen or more of hard licks he stopped and tried to thrust his hand through the ragged hole. I fancy he lost some of his skin.

"The smaller fellow brushed him aside.

"'I wear a No. 7 glove and can get my hand in where yours won't go,' he said.

"The fellow stuck in his hand as far as he could and found a leather pouch containing money. He had to take a knife and cut open the pouch, it being too big to pull through the hole. He got the money, though, and it went into the wheat sack with the packages of currency from the United States express safe.

"All this hard work on a hot night made the robbers thirsty. One of them asked me where the drinking water was kept. In those days water aboard trains was served from buckets. I indicated the location of our water bucket. The bandit ordered me to sample the water. I took two good swigs of it myself, for I—well, my mouth was feeling what you might call kind o' dry. The robber, satisfied that we had not poisoned the supply, drank heartily. His companions did likewise. They all seemed to be fond of the innocent drink.

"The man guarding the outside of my car—or Frank James, to be personal—was getting impatient.

"'Hurry up, in there!' he would call out. 'What's the matter? Won't that fellow give you the key? Shoot the son-of-a-gun, then!'

"But the inside workers continued about their business, calmly enough to keep their heads. The man who seemed to be the leader of the gang—Jesse James, as I figure—asked me what was in the other express car. I explained that it was a car from the Katy and I didn't know what was in it. He insisted that I unlock the door and take him into that car. The key to my car fitted the lock, so I opened it on demand and threat—oh, that overgrown Colt! We went in, and the robber looked about. Satisfying himself that there was nothing the gang could use to advantage or get without too much delay and danger, he returned to the other car—with me.

"The robbers now were about through with their work, but one of them suggested that they go back and hold up the passengers. 'I want to get me a good super,' he said, meaning a watch. 'No,' said the leader, 'we've been here long enough. Other trains will be along soon. We must get away now. All out!'

Advice From the Robbers.

"They loped out and were off in a jiffy. But just before they left one said to me, 'Now, young fellow, you'd better go to the rear of the train and remove some ties we put on the track there; might cause trouble if you don't.' With others I went to the rear and lifted off a few ties they had placed there after the train stopped.

"I could hear their horses stamping, but I could not see the animals out in the trees. After a parting shot they all disappeared, and the night became as silent as a tomb. They had been there just one hour, by my watch.

"But hold on—I've forgotten something important, I guess. Just as they were getting away, the leader turned around and called out:

"'Well, if you see any of Allen Pinkerton's men, tell 'em they'd better come and catch us.'"

It was the defi of Jesse James.

According to contemporary accounts there were but three firearms aboard the train, other than those borne by the bandits. These were the "feist pup" of Lou Bales, a revolver carried by the brakeman and appropriated by Jesse James just before Jesse got the safe key, and a "four-shooter" in possession of a gallant girl from Texas whose name is lost to fame. She is said to have flourished her weapon and to have announced:

"If anybody tries to rob me I'll put four bullets through him quicker'n he can say Jack Robinson"

Eli Lewis, traveling agent for the Santa Fe Railroad, was in the rear Pullman with J. D. Brown, general ticket agent for the "Katy" line. The porter woke Lewis up in the midst of the melee. Lewis, in the lower berth, was pulling on his boots—those old long-tom fellows such as grandpa used to wear—when the bold bandit was passing through the aisle looking for the brakeman who had the safe key. His head came in sharp contact with the robber's elbow.

"I thought I was shot, sure," confessed Lewis, later.

There was a preacher aboard—the Rev. J. S. Holmes of Bedford, Westchester county, New York. He prayed loudly that all might be spared, and that if any must be killed, the unfortunate one or ones might repent in time to be saved. Then he sang church hymns. Jesse James probably would have liked to join in the singing, for he was familiar with all of the oldtime church songs. He had sung them fervently him-

CONTRACTS LET FOR 120 MORE MILES OF ROADS

State Highway Body Awards $2,320,000 Work After Announcing Record Construction.

1100 MILES OF ROADS TO BE OPEN IN 1925

$1,000,000 Worth of Work Done Last Week; $2,500,000 a Month to Be Spent Remainder of Year.

The Missouri State Highway Commission, meeting at Hotel Jefferson yesterday, awarded contracts for 120.634 miles of road and bridge construction, to cost $2,320,571.

The contract lettings followed announcement of Chief Engineer B. H. Piepmeier that $26,000,000 road construction is under contract, that last week alone more than $1,000,000 worth of work was completed and that in the current year at least 1100 miles, possibly 1200 miles, of hard surfaced roads will be open to traffic in Missouri. Piepmeier's report on the progress of the $60,000,000 highway program in the State was in explanation of a resolution, adopted by the commission, requesting the State Fund Commission to put on the market, at once, $7,500,000 of Missouri highway bonds.

Last week was the record week in road-making construction in Missouri, Piepmeier explained. For the remainder of the year about $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 a month will be expended. Of the $7,500,000 in bonds sold last month at 4¼ per cent, with a premium of about $40,000, all will have been expended by September. Piepmeier also announced that next month about $5,000,000 in road contracts would be let.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Bonuses for Tyranny.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I MIGHT have written this sooner, but I've been busy dodging the police. Not that I've done anything to be legally arrested for. Right there seems to lie my misfortune, and now, since Chief of Detectives Kaiser has put a "price" on my head, I assume that it will be worse than ever. Any of his "mugs" who will pick me up, bring me in, force me to lie in a lousy holdover for 22 hours, or compel me to pay a professional bondsman whatever it is he agrees to credit with one "point." Murderers, when convicted, 30 points. But murderers, understand, are elusive and hard to pick up. They are valueless to the professional bondsman. It is much easier to arrest 30 "suspects" like myself, and merely turn them loose after the "dick" has received his 30 "points," and the professional bondsman has received his'n.

Under the present police regime, about the only defense for the average citizen is to turn bandit. Then the police will not bother him.

I have lived for a quarter of a century in St. Louis, and never remember another such outrageous outbreak of Puritanism and lawlessness on the part of the police. Nearly everybody, save only murderers, bandits and thieves, seems to be under police espionage. We read of an entertainment of a sort, attended by several hundred people, and a lot of "bulls" lined along the wall, threatening arrest to anyone who might play an innocent game for a trifling prize. Judge Dayer has most forcibly let it be known that the law will not permit the conviction of a person for vagrancy or gambling against whom there is no evidence. The police pay no attention to the law, and daily arrest persons on these charges. Both the law and Constitution declare that an officer of the law cannot invade a man's home without warrant. The police laugh at both law and Constitution. The most offensive espionage is common.

The marvel is that we, the people, tamely submit to such outrages. That the people of this country have changed greatly in the last generation is indicated in this docility.

In their love of liberty our forefathers were better than we. To commit such outrages against the people's liberties as those now practiced by Baker, Miller, Ortick, Gerk and company might have caused hell to upheave in that elder day. Our forefathers were decidedly ticklish on such things as arresting innocent citizens, the invasion of domicile and police espionage. But we of today are like lambs. ALEXANDER FAIRBANKS.

Bryan's Work.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WANT to congratulate Mr. Jeff Mackay on his letter to the Post-Dispatch of today, July 29. How easy it is for some people to forget. Mr. Bryan did one of his greatest services to this country at the Baltimore Democratic convention. He caused the nomination of Woodrow Wilson, who was twice elected President and who died fighting for the common people and world peace. If the Democrats at the convention in New York City last year had heeded Mr. Bryan's advice when he said John W. Davis would not do, Mr. McAdoo would now be our President instead of Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Bryan had the ability to see too far in advance of the times, and as you say, "was feared by Wall street and the big interests."

JOS. J. CHAPPIE.

The Passing of Bryan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

OUT of respect to the sentimental amenities of life, there can be only tears for the wife and children of this prominent American.

But the ending of a career of a man whose later days were being energetically directed toward a propaganda for the restriction of the fundamental principle of religious freedom gave emphasis to the statement in a commemorative editorial in the Post-Dispatch.

That statement read as follows:

Mr. Bryan's mantle of leadership was his own. If there is a man living whom it would fit, we do not know one. If no successor is found to take up his leadership of intolerance, and his appeal in this case to ignorance, passion and prejudice, the country will be the gainer.

It was, indeed, unfortunate that Bryan's later life should have inclined him to the path of a religious zealot even to the point of fanaticism with all of its terrible possibilities.

Modernism is coming into life; clear religious thought, and constructive ethical thinking seem to be, at last, coming into their own, and all of these without any rancor or religious bitterness, and, just at this moment there was injected by Bryan the spirit of intolerance, and a demand for the credulous acceptance of dogmas that no longer appeal to men and women of unfettered intellects.

Unfortunately the man who could have swayed the masses away from the maelstrom of religious strife chose to champion the other side; and thus was a career, in so many ways brilliant, robbed of a luster that might have remained undiminished when this man—Bryan—went to his grave.

B. FRANKLIN HUNTER.

Paris, Tenn.

WHEN THE LIGHT IS TURNED ON.

Champions of tolerance have reason to feel encouraged when any single item of news suggests that the wave of fanaticism which has threatened to engulf the national life is receding. When two such items appear on one day there is ground, indeed, for rejoicing.

This is the state of mind induced by reading that the Georgia Legislature has refused to approve an antievolution law similar to the famous Tennessee statute, and, in a column hard by, that the much-advertised klan parade set for Aug. 8 in Washington has dwindled to a prospective 5000 marchers, as against the 150,000 that the kluds and kleagles had expected.

The action of the Georgia legislators is the more impressive because of the reputation of that State as a hotbed of kluxism. Justified or not, the impression had gone forth that the State was steeped in klan-mindedness. Consequently, when we read that Georgia has rejected an intolerant dogma accepted by the supposedly more enlightened State of Tennessee, we feel that fanaticism has received a deadly blow. The Menckian vocabulary with respect to the "Cracker" State, we submit, is due for a revision.

Hardly less heartening is the news that the "big" klan parade at the national capital will probably simmer down to a few marchers from nearby communities. Not that there was any occasion for alarm over a possible 150,000 in a night-shirted procession. If the various klaverns and klonklaves felt the urge to expose themselves to sunstroke by parading through the August heat of Washington, why that, we have always felt, was their own business. Let them go to it! We had a certain sympathy for the horses that might be in the parade.

Now it appears that the demonstration will be no more productive of thrills for the jaded capital than a parade of the annual convention of retail druggists. Not even the members of the order from the District of Columbia will be in line. Rather than disclose their identity by marching without masks they will leave the whole show to the brothers from nearby towns.

The rule against masks helped to kill the parade. Ridicule of the Tennessee monkey law helped to kill the proposed statute in Georgia. All of which proves again that the way to dispel the vapors arising from darkness and ignorance is to turn on the light—and keep it turned on.

CRIME DECREASE IN ENGLAND.

Without prohibition crime is decreasing to such an extent in England that more than 20 prisons in that country and Wales, practically a third of the total, have been closed since 1914, according to figures made public by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

With prohibition, bootlegging and "blind pigs," crime in the United States has reached proportions "terrifying beyond all expression," according to the citizens' anticrime conference called by Judge Gary in New York. Conditions are so bad, and the growing number of youthful criminals so ominous, that we must establish a crime commission, a criminal laboratory, and take nation-wide action to fix the responsibility and find the remedy.

The Englishman, young or old, enters his "public house," his "poor man's club," and drinks what he pleases, without any feeling that he is committing a crime. He may or may not suffer ill effects from his action, but if he makes drink his excuse for lawbreaking, those he may injure have their recourse. If he commits crime he is subject to the penalty.

The American, to the contrary, has been deprived by law of what was his right and pleasure. To drink as was his custom, sanctioned by the ages and in accord with the principle of liberty, is now made criminal, unless he belongs to the wealthy class and has a pre-prohibition stock or the means to go abroad and indulge.

Deprived of his liberty, the free-born American may rebel against an unjust sumptuary law. If he should break it, by that act he puts himself in the criminal class, according to the framers of Volstead legislation.

The effect of this on thousands of youths is to make them reckless and lawless. And so, while crime in countries not cursed with prohibition decreases, we have made it almost hopeless to look for relief in the United States, because we encourage lawlessness and manufacture criminals.

YOUNG BOB'S CANDIDACY.

Victor Berger, Wisconsin Socialist, refuses to be enthusiastic over young Bob La Follette's candidacy for his father's place in the United States Senate. Mr. Berger confesses himself impatient with the "crown prince" idea, and says he knows of no case in history where a great sire was succeeded by an equally great son. Of course, Mr. Berger not only overlooks such instances as Philip of Macedon and Alexander and William Pitt, father and son, but he adopts an argument which is beside the point.

Young Bob La Follette, in addition to the possession of a celebrated name, has much to commend him. As his father's secretary he became fully conversant with the Senate. In fact, his knowledge of that body is declared by one observer to be surpassed only by a few who actually hold seats. He is Republican State chairman of Wisconsin. As the manager of his father's last campaign he ought to have an excellent understanding of practical politics. He has a winning personality and great earnestness of purpose. He has an abiding love for the memory of his father and a desire to carry on the policies for which he stood.

If numerous cases recently American voters have shown themselves disposed to follow what Mr. Berger refers to as the "crown prince" idea. The widow of the late Congressman Rogers of Massachusetts has just been chosen to occupy her husband's seat in the House. Gov. Nellie Ross of Wyoming was chosen to succeed her husband. Gov. Miriam Ferguson of Texas was elected as a vindication of her impeached husband. Mrs. Winifred Huck of Illinois was chosen to fill out the term of her father, Congressman Mason. Mrs. Mae Nolan of California won a congressional seat left vacant by the death of her husband.

In a good many cases of this kind the person succeeding to the office of a dead relative had far less claim by reason of training or ability for the place than young Bob La Follette has for Wisconsin's vacant seat in the Senate. Wisconsin will get plenty of advice as to what to do about the La Follette candidacy, because, after all, it is of more than State significance. But it is to be doubted that Wisconsin will need any outside pressure to convince it of young Bob's fitness for the office. At the present time reports from Wisconsin indicate that his victory is in the cards.

THE POLICE ARE ABSOLVED.

Twice within the last few weeks Judge Miller has granted injunctions preventing the Police Department from interfering with bean-estimating contests. One of these contests was promoted by the Tuberculosis Society as a part of its general program to raise funds for the benevolent work in which it is engaged. The other is a private contest to be held next Saturday night.

In each case the Police Department, represented by Commissioner Kortjohn, strenuously contended that the bean game is a gambling device and is, therefore, contrary to law. After a great deal of argument the Judge gravely held that the bean game is a game of skill.

The Police Department's determined fight to stop the bean game, whatever the purposes for which it is held, is part of its general campaign to stamp out public gambling of any nature. This campaign has put the police in conflict with philanthropic agencies, church societies and the like, and produced a situation which is not without its ridiculous aspects. One church society has announced its intention to take to the river to prevent police interference with a thoroughly harmless prize party.

The adverse court decisions, it is to be hoped, will absolve the conscience of the Police Department from meddling in such innocent affairs. In its zeal to enforce the law conscientiously the department has been straining at gnats if not swallowing camels. If courts of law repeatedly forbid the police to interfere with bean games and other similar contests, surely that should be enough to lighten the feeling of responsibility that the police seem to feel about the public morals of church and philanthropic circles.

There is only one form of gambling which should engage the concern of the police, and that is the games of professionals who engage in them as a business. If the police succeed in eradicating the professional gambler, their duty will not only be fulfilled, but they will be kept too busy to consider raids on private persons, churches and benevolent societies.

A PLAINSMAN IN PARIS.

James Oliver Curwood, master trailsman, according to his books, became lost in Paris at the corner of the Rue de la Paix and Rue Daunou. He applied to the police for assistance.

Any hero of the American Expeditionary Force who spent four days in Paris on two days' leave could have told Mr. Curwood what to do. Standing on that corner, if he move down the Rue Daunou about half a block he would find the New York Bar, conducted by an Englishman. The barroom would be filled with American tourists. Just across the street from this bar is Ciro's, also largely populated by Americans. Anglewise from the corner, Mr. Curwood could have seen an American banking institution, and, across the street from the banking institution, the Paris office of Cook & Sons, whose employes spend most of their time dispensing information to Americans. If he had gone around the corner and proceeded up one flight of stairs he would have found the Paris Bureau of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which he surely could not have entered without being greatly enlightened.

If a man is determined to get himself lost, the intersection of the Rue de la Paix and Rue Daunou is almost the ideal place. Let him stand there for a few minutes on any day of the week in summer time and a friend from the old home town is sure to come past and offer to buy a drink.

Maybe the new swimming courses the police are taking will come in handy in seeing that the members of the Mary and Martha Society stick to the law on their river party.

ANOTHER STAB AT ROMANCE.

We are filled wth melancholy to read of the change Mr. Ford has made in what was once a risky and ribald adventure—going to sea. His fleet, which now sails the bounding main, flies at its masthead an ensign whose principal marking is a bluebird, a Maeterlinckian bluebird, nothing else than the symbol of happiness. What a change from the time when the Jolly Roger, with its white skull and bones on a black field, proclaimed the murderous intentions of many a crew!

Under the bluebird ensign of the Ford fleet is a ship's list, not the least of whom gets less than $100 a month, chow and a bunk. Need it be said that the chow is not prepared in a greasy galley, or that the bunk is not in a dark and blood-stained hold? Hardly. About the Ford ships there is a depressing sweetness and cleanness. No old sea parrot emits its raucous blasphemies. No surly scullion covets the first mate's blood. Even knives and forks are used at mess, and the air, instead of being charged with mutiny, carries the same hum of efficiency that distinguishes the plant at Dearborn.

Many a skipper of the old swashbuckling days would turn in his grave at the idea of the Bluebird fleet. Two years before such a mast as this surely quickens the blood no more than the prospect of two years tuning up engines at Detroit. Ford has attacked romance in one of its ancient and best-loved strongholds. Gone are pirates, train robbers, frontiersmen and Indian scouts. The boy of today, athirst for adventure, is in a sad plight.

Another footnote to Mr. Hoover's recent statement on the nation's prosperity: Two New England plants, employing 6400 workers, have announced a 10-per-cent cut in wages.

THE POLICE BONUS SYSTEM AGAIN.

To the Post-Dispatch's criticism that Chief of Detectives Kaiser has encouraged police tyranny by offering rewards to his men for bringing in suspects, even though they may be later released, the Chief has replied, in effect, that the public can trust him to see that the system is not abused.

"You can depend on me," he says, "to see that no unjust arrests are made."

It is a large responsibility that the Chief takes on himself. We prefer to believe, with Judge Gayer, that there is grave danger in offering the police "special inducements" to make arrests.

Nothing that the Chief has said lessens our conviction that the bonus system of one point for each "ordinary suspect" and three points for each ex-convict is a direct invitation to increased official lawlessness.

If the Chief wants his men to keep within bounds, why hang up rewards that encourage overstepping?

The fundamentalists will have to find another war song than "Marching Through Georgia."

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

Socrates: I suppose you young men read Mr. Bryan's plea for the Bible.

Glaucon: Yes. Didn't you think, Socrates, that it was very well done?

Socrates: I did, indeed. He had Darrow, wouldn't you say, in that part of his answer where he dealt with the delinquency of Leopold and Loeb?

Thrasymachus: Gads, yes!

Socrates: However, it was not against evolution merely that Mr. Bryan made so effective a plea but against all education. That is, we cannot have education if we are to deny the truths it reveals. If we did that we would just as well close the universities and abandon all education beyond those elemental forms in which it does no violence to what the Bible teaches.

Polemarchus: Which of course we cannot do.

Socrates: No. This seems not to disquiet a great many people, who find it quite possible to make a good and beautiful use of religion without requiring that it be as dogmatic as others would have it. It must be as plain to these people as to anyone else that as education advances religion is bound to seek a more spiritual and less authoritative plane than it has occupied.

Glaucon: Truly.

Socrates: The trouble with people who resist this transition is that they have conceived religion to be a means rather than an end in itself. This has been the trouble from the outset. It was not that religion cared one whit whether Galileo were right or wrong that he was imprisoned, but that what he revealed threatened the power of religion and questioned its authority.

Thrasymachus: Isn't that a kind of bread and butter view of religion?

Socrates: Precisely. That is why it is steadily losing ground. Truth is mighty and will prevail, but make-believe is bound to lose. People who do not take the Bible literally do not revere it less, but more. Because they do not construe its folklore literally they are not insensible to the beauty and inviolability of its precepts. Mr. Bryan says science cannot make morals. That is true, and it should be equally true that the church cannot make laws. Laws are social; religion is spiritual.

Thrasymachus: Don't you think that what has happened will damage either education or religion?

Socrates: Not if religion is willing to be educated. We owe ourselves only intelligence, and to discharge that obligation we must take to school with us everything we espouse.

Polemarchus: You have it, I think.

Socrates: Very well. Now let us buy a paper and learn more of how the nation, in honoring Mr. Bryan, also honors itself.

FOX HUNTING IN MISSOURI.

(Centralia Fireside Guard.)

The joke is on a lot of hunters in Audrain and Monroe Counties. A short time recently they went out on a wolf hunt and when on the farm of J. A. Parks, the dogs got on the trail of an animal and they finally rounded it up and after a battle royal dispatched it and loaded the carcass in a sack and started toward Paris, it is supposed, to claim the bounty. Mr. Parks heard about the wolf story and got on his horse and followed the hunters and overtook them. He wanted to see the wolf. They opened the sack and Jock began to cuss. He said: "You tarnal ignoramuses, that's my dog, that's no wolf." And sure enough, it was his dog. Mr. Parks wanted a settlement and they gave him $13 for the dog. He said the dog was worth at least $100 and he would have refused that sum for him when the animal was alive.

Since doing something inevitably leads to the complexities of a high-powered civilization, with everybody caught up in the headlong rush and nobody quite pleased with it, it must be that we shall ultimately proclaim as the greatest among us the person who serenely and happily does nothing at all. There is a suggestion of this in the visit of John Edwin Hoag, who has been around town for several days. John Edwin is making an almost-all-water trip from the Pacific to the Atlantic. He started at the mouth of the Columbia River, and wound his way up into the Snake River to Lewiston, Idaho. There he made a portage across the continental divide, which brought him to the headwaters of the Missouri. He is now going up the Illinois and out through the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence. You will wonder if he hasn't anything more than that to do, but let us assure you that doing nothing is an art. You have to work at it to get any happiness out of it, and no doubt when more of us try to do it we will find John Edwin a person to envy. This was what happened in the case of golf. Most of us came in time to envy the first people who played it, though at the outset they seemed to have no more to do than John Edwin.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

From the Modern View.

WE ARE enjoined to speak no ill of the dead. This does not mean that we should shun the truth.

The Post-Dispatch has the boldness of heart to be veracious, even in the presence of an idol-worship induced by an unexpected death, an idol-worship that is only partly justified.

No good can come from over-emphasis of Bryan's virtues. No harm accrues from pointing out defects, or possible shortcomings.

In William Jennings Bryan (as in every other human being) merit and defect existed side by side.

We may dismiss with disdain all the violent and prejudiced attacks of those who called him "hypocrite" and "ignoramus."

To view him, reversely, as akin to Moses or to Jesus, is to topple the scales to the extremest folly on the other side.

Somewhere between the two extremes the truth is to be found, if it be in the power of any mortal to judge truly of another mortal's inner soul.

Estimates of all that men may do, or give. Judgment consists mainly of surmise and conjecture. Only the Supreme Brain of all life can know that which our finite minds strive vainly to discern.

That William Jennings Bryan acted in accordance with his light, we do believe, but that his light had all the radiance and fulgence of the ripened sage we doubt most seriously. His light was dim although it dazzled him.

Most men of strong convictions lack judicial balance. The more we learn, the less we feel inclined to think we know the truth infallibly or fixedly. Not knowing all—how can we judge?

Mr. Bryan was not anti-Jewish. He respected the Jewish contribution to religion in his address before the New York Y. M. H., reprinted in this issue above.

When the Russian cruelties against the Jews were at their height in 1903, he wrote a letter to the editor of the Modern View (also reprinted) in which he definitely justified and favored an official protest on the part of the United States against the Russian atrocities.

Bryan stood by the story of "Genesis" as given in the Hebrew Bible, in his debate against evolution, although Jewish scholars and the Talmud reconcile the scientific and the scriptural conceptions of creation.

Fulsome flattery of Bryan must, though he may have been fond of public admiration, he would himself resent any unjustified canonization.

Bryan erred insofar that he not only believed that he was right, but he deemed his view was the only one to be held correct. Is anyone, be he an advocate of evolution or of science, so supremely sure of his view that any opposite idea is a heresy or blasphemy? Such attitude has its root in intellectual pride, a mortal self-confidence, a super-certainty of self that is a sin of the most deplorably unsainthy. It is at discord with humble knowledge of mortal limitations.

William Jennings Bryan and his followers mistook blind faith for proof and consequence for argument.

In William Jennings Bryan the world loses a man whose intentions were good, in whose over-confidence in his own conceptions of religion, politics and life there was the grave danger that he might present when the mind grows sick in doctrine.

FUND CAMPAIGN PASSES $2000 MARK

Neighborhood Show Nets $50 for Relief of Children in Tenement Districts.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged	$1,947 00
Show, 6625 Washington bl.	50 00
Show, San Francisco av.	3 75
Bebe Carolyn Levy, Shirley Rauch	1 00
Total	$2,001 75

Yesterday's contributions to the Post-Dispatch Free Ice for Babies' Milk Fund amounted to $54.75, boosting the fund past the $2000 mark in the season's campaign for $2500. The ice bills for the month of June alone approximated $2000, and July bills for nearly the same total will be payable within a few days. It is hoped that friends of the babies will respond to their need and make up the deficit in the fund before the work for tenement children is seriously curtailed.

A show given at 6625 Washington boulevard on July 22 and 23 netted $50 for the Ice Fund. It was given under the direction of Geraldine and Abner Rosenblatt and consisted of 15 acts. Refreshments were sold following the performance. The cast included the following children: Edna Haverstock, Betty and Celia Molasky, A. Kemp, Virginia Scott, Virginia Scherer, Genevieve Smith, Sanford and Robert Rederer, Ruth and Marvin Rosenblatt, Estell and Minerva Schapiro, Alice and Mary Louise Wheatly, Albert Goldman, George Cappe and Edward McLain. Donations of refreshments were made by the following firms: Tivoli Fruit Shop, Sansoni Fruit Market, University Fruit Market, Connor-Egan Grocery Co., Kopman's Market, Boro's Cafe, St. Louis Ice Cream Co., Merchants' Ice Co., Nack Candy Co., Kahn's Delicatessen, Rovic's Delicatessen, Cohn Candy Co., Robbins Drug Co., West-Del Drug Co., Mrs. Godt, Mrs. Galliger, J. A. Osborn and Gus "of the University Fire Department."

Neighborhood children gave a show on San Francisco avenue which earned $3.75 for the fund. The performance, which was given July 23, was produced by the following boys and girls: William Ledl, Raymond Fisher, Earl Zellick, Rosemary Dale, Mildred and Esther Scharf, Artis Sasman, Raymond and Robert Corneal and Robert Staggie.

Bebe Carolyn Levy, Branscome Motel, and Shirley Rauch sent $1 to the fund.

ILLINOIS AID TO REBUILD 17 SCHOOLS IN TORNADO AREA

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 21.—State aid will be extended to 17 schools demolished or badly damaged in the tornado in Southern Illinois last March, a joint committee of the House and the Senate announced today on its return from a tour of the devastated area.

The schools will be rebuilt or repaired in the usual manner and the State will endeavor to cover any expense that insurance will not take care of, the committee announced. An appropriation of $275,000 is available and this will only be used to absorb losses that insurance does not cover.

Members of the committee report that the State still has large quantities of equipment and supplies in the district, although the emergency period ended some time ago. These supplies are being withdrawn as fast as possible. In the opinion of committee members not more than half of the $500,000 emergency appropriation, rushed through the Assembly immediately after the tornado, will be used.

DEAN SCARLETT MENTIONED FOR MISSIONARY BISHOP

Vacancy Expected to Occur This Fall in Arizona District of Episcopal Church.

A vacancy, expected to occur this fall, in the office of Bishop of the Arizona missionary district of the Episcopal Church, may be filled by election of the Rev. William Scarlett, dean of Christ Church Cathedral, St. Louis. Decision in this matter will rest with the House of Bishops, at the church's General Convention in New Orleans in October.

Bishop Atwood of the Arizona district is to ask the House of Bishops to accept his resignation from active service. Dean Scarlett, who came to St. Louis in 1922, served previously in Phoenix, Ariz., under Bishop Atwood, and it is believed that the bishop would favor him for the succession and that the laity of the district would approve. This would have weight with the House of Bishops, though it would not necessarily decide the election. Dean Scarlett is now on a vacation tour.

YOUNG LA FOLLETTE IN RACE

MADISON, Wis., July 21.—Formal announcement of his candidacy to succeed his father in the United States Senate was made yesterday by Robert M. La Follette Jr., 30 years old, the elder son of the late progressive leader.

There are three other candidates actively in the field, and a convention of Republicans opposed to the late Senator is to be held at Oshkosh shortly to name a candidate to run against La Follette's son.

Gov. John J. Blaine has announced that a special election to fill the vacancy will be held this fall.

SAYS NEWSPAPERS QUIT THE MAILS BECAUSE OF HIGH COST

Attorney for Association Tells Congressmen This Is Factor in Postal Deficit.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—The purported excessive cost of delivering newspapers by the United tSates mails, as compared with the cost of private agencies, was asserted yesterday before the special congressional joint subcommittee, sitting in hearing on the new postal rates, to be an important factor in the alleged postal deficit.

"Newspapers prefer to use the Post Office to private distributing agencies," Elisha Hanson, attorney for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, told the Congressmen, "but the cost since 1917 has increased so everwhelmingly that publishers have withdrawn their mail deliveries as far as possible."

The average cost of delivering 100 pounds of papers by mail, said James P. Considine, speaking for the local metropolitan dailies as chairman of the Philadelphia Newspaper Publishers' Association, has been $1.85, whereas similar service has been obtained from baggage, motor truck and trolley lines at 45 cents.

"Philadelphia publishers are no longer seeking circulation beyond the third zone because of the excessive cost," Mr. Considine told the committee. "But if the 1920 rates were restored we should attempt to regain our readers in distant points."

KINGSHIGHWAY BUS DETOUR

New Paving to Require About Two Months.

During the laying of new pavement on Kingshighway between Arsenal street and Devonshire avenue, which is expected to require at least two months, the Kingshighway Line No. 5 of the People's Motorbus Co. will be detoured, beginning today, via Arsenal street and Morganford road to Bevo Mill, from where the line will return to Kingshighway via Delor street.

The detour adds a mile and a quarter to the Kingshighway line, but traverses a neighborhood not heretofore served by the People's Motorbus Co.

Officials to Test Immigration Plan.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Immigrants from Great Britain and the Irish Free State arriving in third-class cabins at the port of New York will be permitted to disembark at the piers instead of proceeding to Ellis Island for examination, providing they have been examined by the United States Immigration Inspectors and health doctors newly stationed at points of embarkation, it was announced today. Inspectors and doctors assumed their duties July 20 at London, Southampton, Glasgow, Cork, Dublin and Belfast for an experimental period of three months to test the plan to examine aliens at the ports of embarkation, so that fewer immigrants will be turned away when they come to America.

MISS RUTH AND ERROLLE TO SING IN 'NAUGHTY MARIETTA'

Miss Yvonne D'Arle to Appear in Role of Sonia in "The Merry Widow" in Final Week.

Arrangements for the final two weeks of the present Municipal Opera season have been completed. As will be recalled, the present al fresco series was originally scheduled to close next Sunday night, with the final performance of "Martha," but the withdrawal of the Fashion Show from the Municipal Theater permitted the Municipal Theater Association to extend its season until Aug. 16.

For the eleventh week, beginning Monday night, Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," a work that attracted the second largest audiences last summer, will be revived with Miss Joan Ruth in the title role. Ralph Errolle will appear as Captain Warrington. Miss Ruth and Errolle are Metropolitan Opera singers appearing in the principal roles in this week's presentation of "Martha."

Franz Lehar's light opera, "The Merry Widow," with Miss Yvonne D'Arle in the role of Sonia, the merry widow, is to be the offering for the twelfth and final week. Miss D'Arle is not in the cast for "Martha" or "Naughty Marietta."

Subjects Covered Include Contents of Museum and Decorations of Public Places.

A 56-page book on "Public Art in St. Louis" has been issued by the public library as its bulletin for the months of July and August. It was compiled by Miss Mary Powell, supervisor of education of the Art Museum, and formerly head of the art department of central library.

The subjects covered include the museum's contents and the sculpture, notable architecture, mural decorations and stained glass to be found in public or semipublic places in St. Louis. Various buildings, parks and institutions are classified alphabetically, and their art contents listed. The illustrations are several drawings by A. B. Chapin, former newspaper artist here. They show the Artists' Guild, Compton Hill water tower, East Grand avenue tower, St. Francis de Sales and St. Pius Churches and the Art Museum facade.

NEW PAYS TRIBUTE TO RETIRING ST. LOUIS POSTMAN

Writes Ernest A. Docter His 33 Years' Service Is Kind That Puts Reliance in Mails.

Ernest A. Docter of 2937 Sullivan avenue, a city letter carrier since 1892, will retire from the service Aug. 23, when he will be 65 years old. His present route is University and Dodier streets between Glasgow avenue and Twenty-fifth street.

In a personal letter to Docter reviewing his 33 years' service, Postmaster-General New said:

"Such service as employes of your type render day after day has caused the people to consider the work of the Postoffice Department as an activity upon which they can depend utterly. It forms the strength which enables the postal service to continue as a great human enterprise. As you relinquish your duties, the officers of the department join me in the sincere hope that, in addition to the personal satisfaction which must be yours as you look back over the years of faithful service, you will find new and interesting experiences in the leisure you have earned."

THREE NEW WORDS COINED

Quacktitioneer Is Defined as "One Who Practices Rain-Making."

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—David Starr Jordan, chancellor emeritus of Stanford University, has coined three new words: Sciosophy, quacktitioneer and pluviculture.

The word sciosophy, Dr. Jordan defined as "A term from the Greek word skia, meaning shadow, and sophos, meaning wisdom, hence 'shadow of wisdom.'" Among the industries which he defines as sciosophy are: Astrology, palmology, horoscopy, kleptomania and pluviculture. Pluviculture is defined as "one breed of sciosophy." Quacktitioneer means "one who practices rain-making."

POST FOR FRENCH SOCIALIST

Commotion in Party Over Acceptance as Indo-China Governor.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21.—A commotion has been caused in Socialist circles by the appointment of a prominent Socialist, Alexandre Varenne, to the post of Governor-General of French Indo-China, and there is little doubt that he will be expelled from the party at its congress next month.

Leon Blum, the Socialist leader, does not disguise his vexation over accepance of such a high office by a Socialist without consultation with the members of the party. He says that M. Varenne either will have to resign the office or quit the party.

THE RISE AND FALL OF JESSE JAMES

self, where he was a Baptist good standing.

In the smoker rode a long, lank Hoosier. Emulating the example of some other passengers, he got under the seat. His legs were too long to be accommodated altogether in hiding. One foot stuck out into the aisle. Harding Bushnell, the brakeman, and Pete Conklin to the rendezvous up front. Jesse James stumbled over the Hoosier's big and booted foot.

"Oh, Mister" pleaded the gentleman from Indiana, his voice issuing from beneath the seat like a wail from a grave, "please don't shoot me! I didn't mean to trip you up, Mister. I swear I didn't! I wouldn't 'a' did it for anything! I beg ten thousand pardons, Mister!"

Jesse James, having righted himself, laughed heartily, and marched on with his captives.

The train again in motion and the outlaws gone, passengers began retrieving their valuables from the places where they had hidden them. One man had reached through a ventilation aperture and laid his money and jewelry on the roof of the coach. He complained loudly that he had been robbed; but it was only the midsummer night's breeze that was the bandit in that instance.

Conductor Tebbets wired news of the robbery from Tipton, Mo., to the St. Louis police and to the Missouri Pacific officials at headquarters in St. Louis. Posses promptly went in pursuit from several points in mid-Missouri. As usual, nobody was caught. Several weeks afterward, the major excitement having subsided, Detective Sergt. Morgan Boland of the St. Louis Police Department asked permission of Chief of Police James McDonough to go down into Southwestern Missouri on a still hunt for one of the men who had robbed the train in Rocky Cut. Boland had been doing some quiet investigating. The chief gave him leave of absence. Boland proceeded to Granby, Mo., where lead mines had been operated for many years. It was from the Granby mines that Gen. Sterling Price's army of Missouri Confederates got lead for molding into the bullets used on more than one great raid from Arkansas far up into Missouri. Boland became friendly with a few of the lead miners and learned many things about one of them, Hobbs Kerry, who recently had been doing some high living. Kerry seemed to have come into some sudden cash. Boland met him, got chummy, and the man with the homely Celtic name and the simple mind boasted of having taken part in the train holdup with the great bandit, Jesse James. Kerry's part, he stated, was the modest task of minding the horses while the other fellows robbed the train.

Hobbs Kerry was taken to Booneville, capital of Cooper County, and he made a full confession. In consideration of his having named all of the notorious Missouri outlaws save Jim Younger, who was not in the Otterville affair, Kerry got off with only two years in the penitentiary.

Hobbs Kerry was a raw recruit and considerably much of a crackbrained simpleton. The bandit confederation made a mistake of judgment in enlisting him. On their next raid, which was the most sensational and one of the most sanguinary in the world's annals of outlawry, they took along only tried men, true to their criminal cause.

SECOND DRY CHARGE AGAINST MAN IN WEEK

Police Seize 1160 Quarts of Liquid in His Garage—82 Arrests Made.

Harry H. Spies, who says he is a Deputy City Marshal and former keeper of the city dog pound, was arrested yesterday, for the second time this week, after uniformed policemen had found 1160 quarts of what they declare is home brew in a garage in rear of his home and confectionery, at 4047 Marine avenue. In a raid there earlier in the week a quantity of alleged home brew was seized and a State warrant issued against Spies.

The police made 82 arrests yesterday, including 32 police characters, who were ordered held for 20 hours. Thirteen saloons were raided and two men arrested, charged with carrying concealed weapons.

A dismantled still and a gallon of whisky were found yesterday in a basement at 1414 North Tenth street. Tony Knipmski, occupant of the first floor, denied knowing that the whisky and still were there. He was arrested.

At the request of Constable Knight of Carondelet Township, detectives last night arrested a man who said he was Earl Stine, 23 years old, of 2627 Locust boulevard. Earlier in the day Deputy Constable Fassler had stopped a speeding Ford coupe on Lemay Ferry road. One of its occupants escaped on foot under fire and the other was taken to Clayton, where he gave his name as Harry Gates of the Locust boulevard address. He said Stine was the man who had fled. The Ford driven by Gates was identified as the property of Benjamin Roberts of Cora, Ill., stolen in St. Louis July 17 last. Neither Stine nor Gates made a statement.

Uniformed policemen found marked racing forms in five establishments yesterday and arrested the man in charge in each instance. The raids were made at 111 North Eighteenth street, a shoe repair ship, and at cigar stores at 1817½ Market street, 1814 Chestnut street, 1829 Market street and 923 Chestnue street.

The second skull was found by searchers yesterday in Dead Man's Canyon. Both skulls were pierced by bullet holes. A Coroner's jury last night held that the youths were "murdered by a party or parties unknown."

Mrs. William O. Wilkinson, a sister of the boys, will depart today with the remains for Newton.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

J. W. M.—Address Henry Ford, Dearborn, Mich.

B. L. — The last Thursday of May, 1916, fell on the twenty-fifth of the month.

H. V. M.—Priests of the Roman Catholic Church are forbidden by the church laws to marry.

E. H.—Inquire among the Protestant ministers for the information you desire concerning a Protestant corresponding club.

OLDSMOBILE.—The Dyke Hill in Dyke, Mo., the Maxwell Hill on the Lemay Ferry road and the Art Hill in Forest Park are considered three difficult hills for an automobile to climb.

A. B.—The burnt taste of scorched milk may be partially removed by taking the milk at once from the stove and placing the pan in a basin of cold water. Add a pinch of salt and stir.

R. A.—The public school system originated in Massachusetts and Connecticut shortly after the settlement of those States.

G. A. N.—There was only one original Ferris wheel; it was erected in Chicago at the World Fair and later was brought to St. Louis for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

L. H.—Request your Congressman to send you a copy of the "Congressional Directory." This contains a description of the duties of the members of the President's Cabinet.

MRS. R. A.—A widow always should continue to use her husband's Christian name or his name and another initial engraved on her visiting cards. In business and legal matters, however, a woman is necessarily addressed by her own Christian name, because she uses it in her signature.

C. P. A.—A verb must always agree with its subject in number. The sentence "One of these apples is rotten" is correct, because the verb "is" must agree with its subject "one," and does not agree with the principal word of the prepositional phrase, "apples," which merely modifies the subject "one."

BANQUET.—There is one rule that is fairly safe to follow in dress. It is always better to be underdressed than overdressed. If you do not know whether to put on a ball dress or a dinner dress, wear the dinner dress. Or whether to wear cloth or brocade to luncheon wear the cloth.

IGNORANT. — No answer to a wedding invitation to the church only is necessary. However, an invitation to the reception or breakfast should be formally acknowledged. One form of acceptance is as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith accept with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jones' kind invitation for Tuesday, the fifteenth of July." The wedding gift is sent soon after the receipt of the invitation.

DUMB.—Black Sea is an inland sea lying between eastern Europe and Asia Minor and connected with the Mediterranean by the Bosporus, the Sea of Marmora and the Dardanelles. It is bounded on the north by European Russia, on the east by Caucasia, on the south by Asia Minor, on the west by European Turkey, Bulgaria, Rumania and Russia. It has a length from east to west of about 750 miles, a greatest width of 380 miles, and covers an area (not including the Sea of Azov) of about 165,000 square miles.

INQUIDER.—In order to remove oil stains from marble, saturate Fuller's earth with a solution of equal parts of soap liniment, ammonia and water; apply to the greasy part of the marble, keep there for some hours, pressed down with a smoothing iron sufficiently hot to warm the mass, and as it evaporates occasionally renew the solution. When wiped off dry the stain will have nearly disappeared. Some days later when more oil works toward the surface repeat the operation. A few such treatments should suffice.

M. D.—Following is a list of names of boys and girls, with their meanings: Aaron, lofty and inspired; Alfred, good counselor; Arthur, high or noble; Daniel, divine judge; Donald, proud chief; Edward, guardian of property; Elmer, excellent; Frederick, abounding in peace; George, a land holder; Jacob, a supplanter; John, the gracious gift of God; Louis, bold warrior; Robert, bright in frame; Agnes, chaste or pure; Alice, of noble birth; Beatrice, making happy; Dorothy, the gift of God; Edith, happiness; Margaret, a pearl; Mary, bitter; Rebeca, enchanting beauty; Ruth, beauty; Vivian, lively; Stella, star.

DISCOURAGED.—To keep ferns in a healthy and growing condition, to prevent and to kill insects and diseases, a proper condition of atmosphere should be carefully maintained at all times. Extremes in moisture, heat or dryness should never be allowed. In potting ferns after they pass the four-inch pots a potting stick should always be used, as the potter cannot very well firm them with his fingers, and it secures evenness in potting. Ferns should be potted tight, especially old plants. They should be shifted into larger pots whenever necessary. Once a day is often enough to water a fern.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

REX.—What kind of palsy? There are about 15 different forms.

WALKER.—A girl 18 years old, 5 feet 4 inches high, should weigh 131 pounds.

VAN.—We think the rumor, a wild one, but you may call the hospital and ask.

THANK YOU.—Diarrhoea may be a dangerous condition in a child, especially a very young child.

MRS. C. A. E.—Do not use sulphur. The Health Department will fumigate under such circumstances with formaldehyde.

ELVINE. — There is no such remedy as mentioned in your letter for freckles. Susceptible skins will always freckle upon exposure to strong light.

LUCILLE.—Eat freely of fats, sugars and starchy foods. Exercise in the open air but do not overdo it. Get all the sleep possible.

HERBERT. — We do not know what you mean by dry head catarrh. We advise your consulting a first class nose and throat practitioner and being guided by his advice after he sees the condition. Hospitals do not confine themselves to any one operation, all kinds of operations are performed in every hospital.

PROTEST AGAINST OIL STATION ON SKINKER ROAD IS FILED

Brod Says He Was Unable to Avoid Issuing Permit for Structure at McPherson.

Protest against the erection of a gasoline filling station at the northeast corner of Skinker road and McPherson avenue, now occupied by a house, was filed with the Board of Public Service today by the Skinker Road Association, through its attorney, Daniel Bartlett.

Director of Public Safety Brod said he had issued the filling station permit after trying for two months to find some way to avoid doing so. He said that Marion C. Early, an attorney, owner of the property, had threatened a mandamus suit to force issuance of the permit, declaring that property owners in the vicinity would prefer a filling station to a store.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service pointed out that this section of Skinker road has so changed that the projected zoning ordinance makes Skinker a commercial district between Delmar boulevard and the Rock Island tracks.

WED 46 YEARS, BELLEVILLE WOMAN SUES FOR DIVORCE

The Kleins were married in 1879. Mrs. Klein asks alimony and a share of property owned by her husband.

LAW REGULATING MANNER OF DRIVING ON STREETS UPHELD

Supreme Court Affirms Verdict for Auto Victim Under Statute Attacked as Unconstitutional.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31.—Constitutionality of a State law regulating the manner of operating motor vehicles upon highways and streets was upheld yesterday by Division No. 1 of the State Supreme Court in affirming a verdict of $8500 obtained by Aloysius W. Lauck against Michael J. Reis for personal injuries in an automobile accident in St. Louis.

Lauck was struck and seriously injured by an automobile driven by Reis, while the former was waiting for a street car at Lafayette avenue and Dolman street, on March 14, 1922. In his suit for damages, Lauck charged Reis with negligence under ordinances prescribing regulations for safe operation of motor vehicles.

Upon appeal, defense attorneys attacked constitutionality of a State law passed in 1921, contending one of the jury instructions in the case was given erroneously. That instruction told the jury that it was the duty of a person operating an automobile upon the public streets to exercise the highest degree of care, and to proceed at such a rate of speed as not to endanger any person.

The State law was attacked on the ground it was not within the scope of the Governor's call for the first special legislative session of 1921, at which the law was passed, among others. It was contended that under the Constitution the Legislature in special session may enact legislation only on such subjects as are set out in the Governor's call for the session. Commissioner Alfred M. Seddon, who wrote the opinion, held the Governor's call included the subject of "regulating or licensing motor vehicles" and that the act attacked came within the scope of "regulating" motor vehicles.

Fined for Assault and Battery.

Joseph Ripplinger of Centerville Station was fined $5 and costs on a charge of assault and battery and placed under a $500 peace bond in Justice Grossman's Court, Belleville, after warrants had been sworn out against him by Louis Harris, a neighbor.

COAL RATE HEARING CONTINUED

In order to give the defendant railroads an opportunity to collect additional evidence, a hearing before the Illinois Commerce Commission at East St. Louis brought by Illinois coal shippers and operators applying for a reduction of freight rates, was postponed until Sept. 8. The continued hearing will be held in East St. Louis.

Three cases are to be heard. The first asks for a reduction in the prevailing rate of 91 cents a ton fo coal shippers within a 20-mile radius of East St. Louis. The other two cases, brought by operators outside the 20-mile area, are based on the first case and ask a proportionate decrease in rates.

Woman Appointed Postmaster.

Miss Elizabeth Titter, who for 20 years has been assistant postmaster at Glen Carbon, a town of 1200 in the south part of Edwardsville township, was yesterday appointed postmaster. She ranked highest in a competitive examination recently held. The office pays $1600 annually.

RUSSIA DEMANDS REDRESS

Copyright, 1925, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

BERLIN, July 31.—Polish-Russian relations are at a dangerous tension following shooting of a soviet commandant by Polish soldiers. Both countries are dispatching representatives to form a mixed commission to investigate the incident. Meanwhile the soviet Foreign Office has protested to Poland and demanded redress.

Apparently the soviet officer was shot on the Russian side of the border, dragged over the line, and then delivered to soviet authorities as a trespasser.

BECK LOOKING FOR MAN WHO CALLED HIM "HELUVA JUDGE"

Believes He Was an Alderman—Orders Court Bailiffs to Conduct Search.

Police Judge Beck today ordered Deputy Marshals in his court to bring before him a man who insulted him this morning when he refused to break his rule against discussing court cases before going on the bench. Judge Beck said he believed the man was a member of the Board of Aldermen.

He could not name him, however, and it was not made clear just how the courtroom bailiffs are to know the man they are to seek.

The Judge related that the man stopped him this morning as he left his chambers and asked to speak to him.

"I do not discuss cases before going on the bench," said Judge Beck.

"You're a heluva Judge," responded the man, who strode down the corridor.

After he had taken his seat Judge Beck told his bailiffs he wanted the man brought before him to discuss the matter further in court. He instructed the deputies to enlist the aid of the police, if necessary, to find the man. A member of the Board of Aldermen is said to have been seen near the Judge's chambers this morning before court opened and the bailiffs will question him.

BELLEVILLE WOMAN SWINDLED

Carl Ford, 1000 West Main street, Belleville, reported to the police yesterday that a negro, described by his wife as 6 feet tall, swindled Mrs. Ford out of $21 by representing that her husband had won $460 in a weather lottery and that it would take $21 to collect the winnings. Ford was at work at the time, and the negro declared the husband had sent him to the home. The same swindle was recently worked by a negro in St. Louis.

FEES DON'T PAY ENOUGH

So Alton Justices of Peace Will Send Bills to City.

Two Justices of the Peace at Alton, Dan Gorman and Frank Ford, have decided that they should receive fees for trials when the city loses a case and in the future will present bills to the City Council for their services.

No salary is attached to the office of Justice, as their operations are on a fee basis. It is the custom to assess the costs of a case against the party losing the suit, but when the city loses it has never paid the costs, and there is no provision in the city ordinances providing for the payment. The city's cases are initiated in Police Court, but many times a change of venue is taken.

ASKS FOR RECEIVER FOR CONCERN THAT RAN BUSSES

Man Who Says He Started Wellston-St. Charles Line Brings Suit; Another Company Now Operates Line.

Raymond L. Wheeler, who says he started the present Wellston-St. Charles bus line, today sued for a receivership and accounting of the affairs of the Inter-City Transit Co., which operated the busses until last May. Another company now owns and runs the 19 busses, and the receivership suit does not seek in any way to interfere with its operations.

Wheeler names as defendants in his suit Joseph G. Louis, president of the Inter-City Co., and other directors, and the American Trust Co., where it is alleged that Louis has funds on deposit. Wheeler charges that he was persuaded to place his stock in the bus company in the hands of one S. T. Ball, and that Ball transferred the stock, 1266 2-3 shares, with no nominal or par value, to Louis, for $700. Louis, in selling out to the present owners, received $25,500 in cash. Wheeler alleges, and Wheeler charges that no accounting has been made to him for the value of his stock. He wished the Court to determine how much is due him, and to have the trust company restrained from paying out money to Louis before the matter is decided.

DAZZY VANCE TO PITCH AGAINST CARDS IN SERIES FINAL TODAY

Reinhart Twirls 4-Hit Game to Beat Dodgers; Toporcer and Bell Star

Shortstop Fields Brilliantly, While Third Sacker Has Another Good Day at Bat, With Two Doubles and a Single—Haines or Dickerman Likely to Oppose Vance.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Dazzy Vance, who struck out 17 Cardinals in 10 innings and yet was lucky to beat Walter Mails in a hurling duel in Brooklyn when the Cards were in the East recently, will pitch against Hornsby and his men this afternoon in the final game of the series. Vance will try to check the descent of the Dodgers, who have slipped down to the .500 mark and are only three games ahead of the Cardinals, who climbed to fifth place.

The last time Vance pitched against the Cards, his appearance followed doleful tales of the worst sore arm in baseball. It was said that Vance's throwing wing was black and blue from elbow to shoulder and that it gave him such extreme pain to flex the muscles that he didn't even tip his hat to the ladies, and was doing his eating left-handed. Then Vance went out and struck out 17 Cardinals.

Yesterday's announcement by President Sam Breadon of the Cards that he had been advised that Vance would pitch followed news that Vance was suffering from one of the most severe cases of sore stomach ever known in gastronomical circles. And so the Cardinals prepared to take extra batting practice today. If his sore tummy does as much for Vance as his sore arm did, he'll strike out the whole Cardinal team this afternoon.

Several Hurlers Ready.

Hornsby will have to pick and choose to name his pitcher. He can send Jess Haines to the hill. Jess has had a long rest. Or he can send Long Leo Dickerman against his former teammates. Dickerman wants to work. He was a bit wild in his last few starts, but some day he should be one of the game's great pitchers, and he'll never develop that way sitting on the bench. And so Rogers may give the stringbean right-hander a chance.

Perhaps Hornsby will decide to make an even 10 left-handers in succession for the Dodgers. They have looked over left-handed pitchers in their last nine games. In that case, it will be either Eddie Dyer, who has done relief work mostly, or Walter Mails, who was treated roughly in the first game of the series. However, Mails indicated in that game that if he were given a day or two more rest he would be invincible. For five innings he was master and then he faltered. He had gone to the hill with only two days' rest. He's willing to do that. He would work every day, but muscles won't stand such treatment. The chances therefore are strong that Haines or Dickerman will twirl.

Reinhart Hurls Fine Game.

Arthur Reinhart came through with a brilliantly pitched game in the third contest of the series with the Dodgers. He made the visitors resemble tail-enders, so helpless were they before his slow curves, his tantalizing slow balls and his vexing cross-fire.

The more one sees of Reinhart the more favorably impressed one becomes. He has the poise of an Eddie Plank and he certainly has acquired pitching cunning during his years of work for a big league berth. And he has toiled with that arm until his control is excellent and he constantly feeds batters with pitches which they know are in the strike zone, but at which they hate to take a cut.

Brooklyn made only four hits off the southpaw and one of the four was a hopper straight at Toporcer which took a high bounce over his head. That was after Mitchell, first up in the opening inning, had drawn a pass. The scratch single put Mitchell on third and he scored on Wheat's sacrifice fly. The second hit off Reinhart was in the sixth inning, when Stock doubled to left with nobody out. Stock advanced on an infield out and scored on a sacrifice fly. Johnston led off with a single in the seventh, but Reinhart was giving no more than a hit in any inning, and the next three batters were retired on infield grounders. In the ninth, with one out, Eddie Brown singled to left for the fourth and final Brooklyn hit.

A Fine-Looking Pitcher.

Reinhart walked five men, but he was trying to cut the corners. He never gives a man a good strike, even when he is behind in the ball and strike count. And he proved yesterday that he could pitch with or without men on the bases.

The left-hander was supported brilliantly. Toporcer made numerous fine stops and throws at short, and the outfielders also chased hither and thither and turned potential extra base hits into putouts. Even Heine Mueller limped to the foul line for a clever catch. Shinners made a great running catch in deep center to get the first Brooklyn batter in the ninth.

Wilbur Hubbell issued two passes in the first inning and both resulted in runs. In the same inning Toporcer doubled, Bottomley sacrificed and Mueller bounced a single off Mitchell's shins, and the session produced three runs. In the fifth Jack Smith doubled, advanced on Toporcer's safe bunt and scored on Hornsby's sacrifice fly. The fifth run was produced in the eighth on Bell's double, Mitchell's fumble and an infield out.

Bell had another good day with two doubles and a single in four chances.

Hornsby went hitless, but he was at bat only once officially. He drew two passes and sacrificed twice.

Fournier's hitting streak was stopped. Jean Jacques Francois had hit safely in 17 straight games. The big Frenchman always is a threat, however. He makes that right field fence appear to move in 50 feet.

Have a Heart, Reinhart!

Eddie Goldberg and Sammy Schnemann, featherweights, are the headliners. Interest has been stimulated by the fact that the bout will involve city championship honors. Jack Horner of the South Broadway club meets Howard Crito of Springfield, Mo., in the star bout of three lightweight events which round out the special program. Another lightweight feature will bring Frank Krall, the district titleholder, against Werner Kranz of Sherman Park. Charley Zone of the Business Men's A. C. and Samuel Burns of Kirkwood are also booked for a 135-pound duel.

Preliminary boxers will draw for pairings one hour before the tournament starts. Harry Sharpe will referee.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Plenty Boxing.

THE boxing game, which for several months has been in a comatose state due to the knockout suffered at the hands of Promoter Jim Mullen and the old Boxing Commission, is beginning to take on a "Where-am-I-at?" stare, as if threatening a comeback.

To begin with, the Jefferson Barracks promoters have already gone over the top, with one professional show.

Tonight will see the return of that dear amateur game wherein the boys have been accustomed to battle for watches by night and sell them back by night.

Then, too, we have it on authority that the new City Boxing Commission will be announced soon, and several official heads that once gummed up the works will be axed and new ones substituted.

Besides this, subterranean activities reveal two factions working hard to line up control of bouts at the Coliseum this season.

Both promotion groups consist of business men, and one of these includes officials of the Coliseum Athletic Association.

The word has gone abroad that the pastime, if properly conducted under club auspices and supervised by the City Commission, will be noticed only by the official wink; and that the manly art of self-defense will be with us in full career shortly.

East Side, West Side, Etc.

TO make matters still more merry, the East Side will soon be a fight Mecca. Boxing was restored by State law in Illinois on a local option basis. East St. Louis will put the matter to a referendum at the next election, and the result in East St. Louis is a certainty in favor of boxing.

When that comes, the Mound City will see more fighting than in all its history, not even excepting the days when Tom Allen and Mike McCoole were popular heroes and Bloody Island the battleground.

A Word to the Wise.

IF the amateur boxing game is to be reopened here, it is up to the Western District A. A. U. officials to take charge of the sport in earnest.

In the past the A. A. U. has been very neglectful. It has violated its own rules as frequently as have the promoters and boxers. Far be it from us to kick at any sort of boxing that is interesting, or to interfere with promoters who desire to make money out of it. But if a sport is advertised as "amateur," in all conscience it ought to BE amateur.

Boxing is supposed to be sanctioned and supervised by the A. A. U. and duly inspected and ticketed strictly simon pure by the Western District Committee. The control therefore should cease to be a farce and become a reality. The pretense of supervision that has existed here in the past reflects no credit on the organization.

If there is too much work connected with the task for the men in charge let others who and have the time to do it, undertake the job.

And if the A. A. U. feels that it cannot find men willing to do this, the City Boxing Commission is enpowered under city ordinance to take charge. Perhaps that's where its control properly belongs.

A return to the pretense of giving medals to the boxers in public and slipping them $125 behind the scenes would certainly make a dunce out of the great Amateur Athletic Union of America.

Same Thing Over Again.

IS racing headed for the rocks that wrecked it 20 years ago?

In 1905-6 the game collapsed in every state in the union, with the exception of Kentucky, where breeding interests were so heavily interested financially that the State's prosperity was involved.

The cause was greed of racing associations in rolling up huge profits. Cheating became common and pool rooms flourished everywhere. The money-grabbing of the handlers of wagers and track promoters ultimately reacted and stopping betting—and, therefore, the game.

Now it is coming back, how far few realize.

Today there are more than twice as many race tracks as in 1905, when reform set in.

The purses paid are from twice to three times as great as the best purses of 20 years ago.

The handbooks and "clearing houses" of today outnumber the pool rooms of two decades ago many times.

The amount of money wagered during each year surpasses even the wildest dreams of those who 20 years ago handled public wagering.

This year, in the United States alone, there are 39 major race tracks operating.

The total number of alloted racing days was 1132, or—not counting Sundays—almost the equivalent of FOUR YEARS' CONTINUOUS competition.

Grown Despite Laws.

THE queer part of it is that this growth has been achieved in the face of legal statutes against betting in nearly every instance. There are only four states in the Union where parimutuel betting is tolerated, yet no fewer than 40 out of the 54 meetings sanctioned this year operated under parimutuel conditions.

At the remaining 14 meetings the oral system prevailed, which is a variation of the old "slate" system. But no State in the Union countenances "the slate" bookmaker.

Race tracks grew almost overnight in some states. Ohio, for example, has produced half a dozen in the last two or three years where none was tolerated before.

Illinois has come back to life at Aurora and Hawthorne and will presently blossom at Fairmount Track on the East Side. The pastime is sprouting in Florida with Miami track already built and two new tracks contemplated.

And all this is on a basis of "bootleg" betting—through winking at the law violations by officials.

CHARLEY GRIMM MAKES GOOD RECOVERY AFTER TURNING $3000 ERROR

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Charley Grimm, Chicago Cub first baseman, was credited yesterday with a $3000 error, but it did not get into the box score.

Before yesterday's game, Grimm called for his wife's jewels, valued at $3000, at a jeweler's, where they had been left for cleaning. He tossed them into the back seat of his automobile, took it to a garage and let his mind concentrate on improving his batting average.

Mrs. Grimm's query regarding the gems at supper time sent the first baseman hotfooting to the garage. The gems were gone.

Detectives found a garage employe had hidden them under the back seat of the automobile. They recovered them and gave them to Grimm.

Charlie made a home run—but not in the box score.

Champion Awaits Suitable Offers From Promoters

Title-Holder Will Not Report to New York Commission on Aug. 4.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—While Jack Dempsey is not definitely planning on any title bout except the Harry Wills fight, next year, he still is willing to meet Harry Greb at Michigan City, next September, "providing Floyd Fitzsimmons and I can come to an agreement on the financial end of the deal," Dempsey admitted this here today.

"I agreed some time ago," the champion said, "to meet a suitable opponent at Michigan City, but no articles were sent me to sign and nothing definite was done about a guarantee, so I had about given up thinking of a September bout with Greb or anyone else.

Can Get in Shape for Greb.

"However, if Fitzsimmons can sign Greb and we can reach an agreement when he comes out here to sign me, as I suppose he will, why I am ready to go ahead with the bout. I am continuing my light training and will be in shape for the fight if it goes through."

Dempsey said he was planning to wire the New York Boxing Commission that he could not possibly be in New York within the two weeks limit allowed him for signing articles for the Wills bout, but would be willing to meet the negro next July Fourth or any date thereafter.

"Jimmy de Forest was in to see me, today," he added, "and offered me a substantial guarantee if I would sign Wills for him next July 4.

"I told him Tex Rickard had the first call on my services and that I did not doubt Rickard would make me a satisfactory offer; but that if for any reason Rickard dropped out then we might talk business."

Property Division Worries Jack.

What is most on the champion's mind just now, he admitted, was the task of straightening out his business affairs with Jack Kearns, his former manager.

"There is still a lot of detail to be gone through in connection with the division of our property," he explained, "none of which would interest the public but will keep me busy for weeks.

"Roughly speaking, Kearns takes the Wilshire Apartments here, and I take the Barbara Hotel; and I do my own managing."

The Wilshire Apartments is a piece of property valued at $300,000 and is unencumbered. The Barbara is said to be worth more than half a million, but there is a $200,000 mortgage on it.

About the possibility of other bouts besides the Greb and Wills fights Dempsey had little to say.

GREB'S MANAGER TO MEET MICHIGAN CITY FIGHT PROMOTER ON MONDAY

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., July 31.—Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, and his manager, James Mason, will meet Floyd Fitzsimmons at Kansas City Monday to sign articles for a 10-round title match with Jack Dempsey at Michigan City, Ind., Mason stated today. The match will be held Sept. 19 or 25, Mason believes.

Greb, here for a no-decision bout tonight with Otis Bryant of Chicago, will complete his barnstorming tour of Kansas and Oklahoma Tuesday at Kansas City, when he meets K. O. Smith. After the Kansas City engagement, Greb plans to go directly to Pittsburg to start training for the Dempsey match.

Mason announced, however, that Greb would appear in a benefit bout for crippled children at Atlantic City, Aug. 12, against Pat Walsh of Chicago, the middleweight king donating his sevices.

"Just a Breeze" for Hoyt After Brownies Donate Four Tallies

Huggins' Righthander, Always a Great Front-Runner, Masters Sislerless Sislermen and Yankees Win Third Straight Game for First Time This Year.

By G. W. Daley
Of the New York World Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The critic who said that one man couldn't make or unmake a ball team never saw the Browns play in New York on Wednesday and yesterday.

With their manager, George Sisler, out of the lineup the Browns kicked away a game on Wednesday in 12 innings that never should have gone over nine, and yesterday their continued their stumbling and bobbling and gave away another battle in the very first frame. The result is a three-game deficit while here and the loss of a golden chance to climb in the race while the Athletics are manhandling the Detroit Tigers.

Knowing full well the weakness of Hoyt, the temperamental youngster who was selected by Miller Huggins to pitch for the Yanks, in that he is a notorious "front runner" and wilts when pressed, the Brownies tossed him just what he needed to keep him in the game—a big lead. Between Harry Rice, struggling to play first base in the absence of Sisler, and "Stubbles" Hargrave, who couldn't gauge the fast-ball pitching of Milton Gaston, the Yanks received a present of four runs in this inning before a man had been retired—though there had been chances given to retire three.

That was all Hoyt needed. He is a curly wolf when not pressed, and he staved off three determined rushes by the Brownies and came through a winner. Had the four runs in the first been erased there'd have been a far different story to tell, for had the Brownies ever tied the score, as they would have by matching the one run the Yanks made in the second, Hoyt would have received short shrift from Huggins and there would have been a new pitcher in the box and perhaps an entirley different result.

Jake May Move to First.

But the Browns feel the absence of their manager. After the exhibition by Rice in Wednesday's game it was thought that Jacobson might be sent to first by Jimmy Austin, or that Williams might be able to play the bag, but Rice went back for another try at it. On the very first play in the game Lamotte was given an error on a hurried throw that Sisler would have gobbled with one hand. Later in the game, after Gaston had fanned Earl Combs and Hargrave had continued his specialty of dropping the ball, Rice squarely muffed the throw to first. The runners coming toward him seemed to make him nervous. The New York fans will subscribe to the claim that he is the season's best outfielding find, but they reserve decision on his first base play.

Marty McManus isn't hitting a lick or the Brownies might have made it interesting for Hoyt, big lead or no. In the sixth Lamotte singled and took an extra base on a wide throw by Shanks. Tobin singled, Lamotte stopping at third, and Rice doubled. One run, men on second and third and only one out. The faint-hearted bleacherites began to moan and Hoyt to get red around the ears as he always does when flustered. But Marty helped him out. He wouldn't wait out the worried pitcher and hit a tiny bounder straight back to the box while off balance. Nobody moved an eyelid, and all hands were left when Jacobson's solid liner went straight to Combs.

Record Winning Streak.

The town is mildly excited at the winning of three straight by the Yankees for the first time this season. Fourteen times the Yanks won two games in succession only to fail on the third try.

The infielding of the Browns was ragged and the catching wobbly and the pitching only so-so, but the outfielding was superb. Jacobson went back almost to the flagpole beyond the running track in dead center to make a stunning catch of one of Ruth's mammoth hoists and at another time robbed Combs of a triple and the Yanks of a run by a running catch in left center.

Browns Game Postponed

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The fourth and final game of the series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns, scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed on account of rain, and will be played off on the Browns' next trip here in September.

Had Bennett allowed Jake to take Ruth's pop fly in the first all of the trouble in that frame might have been avoided.

But the smartest capture of all was made by Johnny Tobin, who raced over to the edges of the boxes in right in the fifth, reached over and executed one of the neatest backhand stabs at a falling ball ever seen on the stadium. A moment later Bennett made a nice catch of a liner by Shanks.

Two Stars Eliminated.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 31.—Yesterday's play in the Inter-Mountain Tennis Tournament resulted in the elimination of two out of State contenders for the singles title. Phil Milstein, the youthful Denver city champion, found Ralph McElvenny of Salt Lake too strong for him while Lee Buttle, of Provo, accounted for Les Coleman, former Rice College, Texas, net captain. Milstein was defeated, 6—4, 6—2, and Coleman succumbed to Buttle's perfect back court play, 3—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Leo Diegel in Lead in Canada's Open Golf Event

Walter Hagen's 71 Is Two Strokes Over Leader—Brady Has 72.

TORONTO, Ont., July 31.—Having smashed the course record with a 32-37—69, Leo Diegel, professional from New York's metropolitan district, this morning was out in front of the field of 150 or more players seeking the Canadian open golf title, now held by himself.

Leo has a habit of starting tournaments well, but he is not such a good finisher. He had a great lead at Worcester for the American open title, only to crack in the end.

Two strokes behind Diegel after the first 18 holes was Walter Hagen, with a par 71. Mike Brady of New York was among the next with a 72, while Willie MacFarlane, American open champion, had a 74. Several other Americans also were in the running. The tournament is at 72 holes medal play. Another round of 18 holes today, combination with yesterday's, will serve as a qualifying round and scores for the two days will be added to the scores of 36 holes tomorrow to determine the champion.

'Slicker' Too Fast, Owner Suspended

Sudden Burst of Speed Causes Coney Island Stewards to Act.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, July 31.—Stewards at the Coney Island race track announced today the temporary suspension of Jess Spencer, horse owner, and Jakey Heupel, jockey. The suspension followed the sudden victory of the horse Slicker in the seventh race, Wednesday. The horse ran such an improved race the stewards immediately started an investigation. Pending final decision, they announced no more entries would be taken from Spencer.

Slicker, in his previous start, ran an ordinary race, but considerable money showed for the horse Wednesday and he showed a burst of speed.

Spencer and the horse Slicker once before figured in a turf sensation.

Slicker showed sudden improvement in a race at Latonia last spring. He was ruled off by Latonia stewards. After a hard fight Spencer won reinstatement at Latonia and other recognized tracks.

His fight was so fierce that some believe it cost Charles F. Price his job as racing steward for the Kentucky Jockey Club.

Spencer was reinstated by the Kentucky Racing Commission, but Price would not permit Spencer to race his horses at the Windsor meeting, where Price also presided. This decision, it is intimated, caused a war on Price.

CAREY 5 UP AFTER 18 HOLES IN WESTERN JUNIOR GOLF FINAL

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Emerson Carey, Hutchinson, Kan., youth, was five up on Fred Lyon, 15-year-old Pontiac, Ill., star at the end of 18 holes in the 36-hole final round of the Western Junior Golf Tournament at Big Oaks today.

Carey was driving beautifully and his putting was steady and sure.

Lyon, competing in his first big tournament, was nervous and a bit erratic. He held fast to the Kansan to the seventh hole out, when Carey dropped a birdie 3 for one up. They halved the eighth, and Lyon picked up his ball on th ninth after Carey dropped a par four.

FRENCH GIRL TO TRY TO SWIM THE ENGLISH CHANNEL TOMORROW

By the Associated Press.

BOULOGNE, France, July 31.—Jane Sion, the French woman swimmer who will attempt to negotiate the English Channel tomorrow, starting from Cape Gris-Nez at 2 a. m., arrived at Calais this morning. She will be accompanied by the tug Champion, which followed the Argentine, Tiraboschi, on his successful channel swim in 1923.

The French swimmer says if the present weather holds for 18 hours she is confident of success and of earning the distinction of being the first woman to swim the 20-mile waterway between France and England.

Meanwhile the American and Anglo-Argentine entrants in this year's women's channel swimming derby are hard at work training for their attempts scheduled for the middle of August. Miss Gertrude Ederle, the American champion, is practicing daily in the waters off Cape Gris-Nez, and Miss Lillian Harrison of Buenos Aires, who has made three unsuccessful assaults on the swirling channel currents, has gone to Paris to compete in a marathon swim in the Seine tomorrow.

Mlle. Sion holds the woman's channel record, having stayed in the water 14 hours and 45 minutes in 1923, abandoning her swim owing to bad weather when she was only four miles from Dover.

AMERICAN OARSMEN WIN IN CANADIAN ROWING REGATTA

By the Associated Press.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 31.—Nine out of 16 heats which comprised the opening day's card in the forty-third annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen, went to United States entrants yesterday afternoon. Of the remaining seven, two were carried off by W. Burns, of the Toronto Dons, and one by Maurice Brett, a St. Catharines rowing recruit.

Knight's 140 special four and Ingham in the junior singles brought the Dons' total victories up to four. Hamilton, Ottawa and Lachine failed to secure a first position.

The Buffalo West Side Club landed in first place in three events, while the other six were divided between clubs from Philadelphia. Detroit was unable to supply one heat winner.

CHARLEY GRIMM MAKES GOOD RECOVERY AFTER TURNING $3000 ERROR

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 31.—Charley Grimm, Chicago Cub first baseman, was credited yesterday with a $3000 error, but it did not get into the box score.

Before yesterday's game, Grimm called for his wife's jewels, valued at $3000, at a jeweler's, where they had been left for cleaning. He tossed them into the back seat of his automobile, took it to a garage and let his mind concentrate on improving his batting average.

Mrs. Grimm's query regarding the gems at supper time sent the first baseman hotfooting to the garage. The gems were gone.

Detectives fouad a garage employe had hidden them under the back seat of the automobile. They recovered them and gave them to Grimm.

Charlie made a home run—but not in the box score.

BROWN AND NORTON FAVORED TO MEET IN VALLEY TENNIS FINAL

Mrs. Baehr in Title Round of Women's Event

St. Louisans Oppose Des Moines Players in Semifinal Round Matches Today.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 31.—Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex., and Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, Ia., defeated H. H. Bancroft, Pasadena, Cal., and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., for the junior doubles championship of the Missouri Valley tennis tournament here today. The score was 6—3, 6—3, 6—3.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 31.—Brian I. C. Norton, the St. Louis tennis star, will meet Harry Coggeshall Jr. of Des Moines in the feature match of the Missouri Valley championship on the Wakonda Club courts here this afternoon. The two players will battle in a semifinal round singles contest with Norton favored to win and reach the finals.

Coggeshall has been playing excellent tennis all week. Although handicapped by playing in both the men's and junior events, he is in the semifinals of the men's singles and doubles with Paul Bennett, another Des Moines player, and paired with Berkley Bell of Austin, Tex., is also in the semifinal round of the junior doubles. Coggeshall won the junior singles by defeating Bell in the final round yesterday.

It is quite possible that the local youth may be tired from the strenuous play of the past week, but close observation of his abilities indicates that he should extend Norton when they meet today.

Brown to Play Bennett.

In the other semifinal match Wray Brown will meet Paul Bennett. The St. Louis player is expected to win this contest in straight sets. There is unusual interest in the semifinal matches. The Des Moines enthusiasts want to see what their players can do against Norton and Brown.

The final round of the Missouri Valley singles for women will be played early this afternoon. Mrs. Melicent Baehr, the St. Louis district champion, will oppose Miss Lottie Fuller of Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., for the title.

Miss Fuller reached the final round by eliminating Lottie Hagemeyer of St. Louis in one semifinal yesterday, while in another Mrs. Baehr defeated Miss Marjorie Mace of Des Moines. Miss Hagemeyer put up a great battle against Miss Fuller, forcing the match to three sets, the score being 3—6, 6—3, 6—2. Steadiness finally won for the Kansas player, who is the present Missouri Valley woman champion. Mrs. Baehr had some difficulty in the first set against Miss Mace, but won the second easily. The score was 8—6, 6—3.

Doubles Semifinals.

In the semifinals in the men's doubles Brown and Norton will play Howard Bancroft and John Doeg, the Californian juniors. Brown and Norton reached the semifinals by defeating Louis Kamber and Roy Simmons of Des Moines in straight sets, 6—0, 6—2, 6—1.

The St. Louis team of Woodward Brown and Ed Sarrano went down to defeat before Bennet and Coggeshall in a third-round match. The first two sets were close, but the Des Moines team won the third set easily, due to better placements. The score was 6—4, 7—5, 6—2.

The junior singles final, in which Coggeshall defeated Berkley Bell, was the main attraction on the grand stand court. It went the limit of five sets, the time of the match being two hours and 50 minutes. The contest, from the standpoint of playing ability, was one of the best ever seen in a Missouri Valley junior tournament. Better physical condition enables Coggeshall to win the final set. The score was 6—0, 0—6, 10—8, 5—7, 6—3.

White Sox Hand Coveleskie a Jolt

Veteran Hurler's String of 13 Straight Triumphs Is Ended.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Third place teams are perking up in the major leagues, Cincinnati in the National and Chicago in the American, as the result of spurts, have a good chance to break up the team fights for the flags.

Scoring a clean sweep in their Philadelphia series for the sixth straight victory, 6 to 2, the Reds bore down on the Pirates and Giants in the senior league while making their own grip in third place more secure against the challenge of Brooklyn. Five and one-half games from second place, the Reds, who have been playing good and bad baseball, receive Boston in Cincinnati today with hope of getting into the thick of the pennant hunt.

Having fenced off Detroit and St. Louis after a close fight for third place, the White Sox today are after another victory over the champion Senators. Washington, which has been struggling with Philadelphia for the lead, is eight and one-half games ahead of Chicago, which has just won three victories in four starts.

Meanwhile the Athletics hammered Whitehill out of the game and beat the Tigers, 9 to 0, with Gray pitching.

Cleveland kept pace with the Yankees by making it three straight over the Red Sox, 7 to 2. Buckeye, in addition to brilliant pitching, turned in a home run.

The Giants cut Pittsburg's lead to a game and a half as Hank Gowdy, veteran catcher, rose with a mighty stick to dispute rumors that waivers have been asked on him by the Giants. Hank's homer and a sacrifice fly scored three of the Giants' runs in a narrow squeak with the Cubs, 4 to 2.

Pittsburg made the New York climb possible by tossing off a game to the tail-end Braves, 5 to 1, Genewich holding the leaders safely all the way.

Johnny Mostil, speed fly chaser of the White Sox, had a perfect day at bat with four hits, including two doubles in four times at bat. His hitting so inspired his teammates that they all hit one or more blows for a total of 18 safe knocks.

"Lightning" Sheely of the White Sox, one of the slowest baserunners in the major leagues, stole a base in the game against the world's champions.

Hollis Thurston, White Sox twirler, got back to a winning stride yesterday. He was touched for 10 hits, but he pitched wonderful ball in the pinches. His teammates also gave him great support when the Senators threatened, three sparkling double plays breaking up budding rallies.

"Gabby" Hartnett of the Cubs is making a strong bid to catch up with Rogers Hornsby for the home-run honors of the majors. "Gabby" slammed out his twenty-fourth circuit drive with the veteran Jack Scott of the Giants on the hill. The blow was a tremendous wallop which cleared the wall in left field and bounded out on the street.

GOLF by J. Roy Stockton

Junior Golf Tourney.

THE annual junior golf tournament of the St. Louis District Golf Association is the next competition on the local program. The youngsters will hold their tourney at the Bellerive course, Sept. 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Next will come the second annual Missouri open championship. The date has been tentatively set for Sept. 18, 19 and 20, but the course has not been selected. Last year the tourney was held at the St. Louis Country Club.

Late in September the women will hold their annual district championship at the Westwood Country Club, and then the next week, running into October, the St. Louis Country Club will hold the national women's championship.

New Club Is Improving.

JIMMIE MANION and Clarence Wolff, district and Trans-Mississippi golf champions, will play Art Longworth and John Manion, St. Louis Country Club and Sunset Hill professionals, in a special exhibition match at the new Creve Coeur Golf Club, Sunday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. The public is invited to witness the match and inspect the new course. The club is on the Olive Street road, at the Ballas road, and is 15 minutes from the city limits.

Monday there will be a professional tournament at Creve Coeur, a 36-hole affair. The Creve Coeur fairways are progressing satisfactorily and the greens are in good condition considering the short time since they were built. Roy Hartnett is pro at the new club.

The National Amateur.

AT least half a dozen St. Louisans will journey to Philadelphia in September to compete in the National Amateur Championship at the Merion Cricket Club. Clarence Wolff, Jim Manion, Eddie Held, Dick Bockenkamp, Donald Anderson and Lawson or Frank Watts are planning to make the trip.

The tourney at Merion will be the first in which a field of only 16 will qualify for match play. There has been much adverse criticism of the change and perhaps it will be the last national with a field of only 16.

Held to Go to Western.

EDDIE HELD is the only St. Louisan planning to take in the Western open tourney this year, which will be held at the Youngstown (O.) Country Club, starting Aug. 15.

The $10 Golf Fee.

THERE hasn't been much change in the amount of traffic at the public courses in Forest Park, since the $10 a year or 50 cents a round fee went into effect. The only difference reported by Starter Craig is that there are not so many juveniles on the course.

Watchmen are stationed at points along the course to see that there is no cutting in. Players are given cards punched with the starting time and whether it is a twosome, threesome or foursome.

Here's a suggestion: Let the players be prohibited from playing holes out of order. Many players have complained because they have started early enough to play 18 holes, but have had to go home in the dark because of late starters, instead of playing straight ahead as far as they could, jumped to the last few holes, thus congesting the course at the finish. This is not fair to those who start early enough to play a round and if the late starters are not good enough sports to play straight ahead, the watchmen might take a hand.

COURSE IS SELECTED FOR TITLE BIKE RACE

The course over which the national bicycle championship races will be contested has been selected. The start is about 200 yards east of the Jefferson Memorial, in Forest Park, with the finish line opposite Deer Lake. The complete course measures seven-tenths of a mile around, with an intersecting road, which gives a smaller course measuring five-tenths of a mile.

The large course will be used for the 10-mile race only, the shorter events being contested over the smaller course. The course was chosen by J. B. Freeman, who will referee the national meet.

The State championship races, which serve as eliminations for the national title races, will be held in the following cities Sunday: Little Rock, Ark.; Los Angeles, Cal.; Denver, Colo.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Washington, D. C.; Miami, Fla.; Savannah, Ga.; Kewanee, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind., Davenport, Ia.; New Orleans, La.; Baltimore, Md.; Springfield, Mass.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Rochester, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Bayonne, N. J.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Charlotte, N. C.; Findlay, O.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Providence, R. I.; Waco, Tex.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Seattle, Wash., and La Crosse, Wis.

The new Delmar Recreation Bowling alleys at 5029 Delmar boulevard will be officially opened tonight, according to an announcement by Manager Ed Schaefer. There are 16 alleys, all in a row on the first floor, and pocket and snooker tables. Because of the lack of practice of the bowlers at present, there will be no special matches. The opening is set for 7 o'clock.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., July 31.—Charleston and Dexter withdrew from the Southeast Missouri League at a meeting held in Dexter last night. Shoots 18 Holes in 60.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., July 31.—Harry Cooper, young golf professional, established what is believed to be a world's record, when he made a score of 60 over the 18-hole Tenison course yesterday. The previous record of 62 for a course of this length was made by Walter Hagen in Florida last spring. Cooper putted just 23 times on the 18 greens.

Weissmuller and Laufer to Meet

"Human Fish" to Oppose New Rival in Mile Event Today.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 31.—In an attempt to break his own world record of 52 1-5 seconds for the 100-yard free-style event, Johnny Weissmuller, Illinois A. C. marvel, will stage an exhibition swim in the Lake Washington canal here this afternoon in connection with the national A. A. U. meet here, he announced this afternoon.

The "flying fish" from Illinois is confident that a new mark will be set this afternoon. It is also entirely possible that the world record for the free-style mile may be browen this afternoon when Weissmuller will compete against Walter Laufer, brilliant young Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. star, and 11 other able competitors.

With 16 points the Illinois Athletic Club this morning retained a lead established yesterday in the national championship meet.

Sets World Record.

Laufer set a world's record in the 220-yard back-stroke race yesterday, making the distance in 2 minutes 50 seconds. Paul Wyatt of the Uniontown (Pa.) Swimming Club finished second in the event and Conrad Mila of the Illinois Athletic Club, Chicago, third.

Johnny Weissmuller won the 880-yard free-style, but his time was 16.4 seconds slower than the world's record of 10:43:6, held by Arne Borg. Harry Glancy, Cincinnati, finished second and Carl B. Stevenson, Stanford University, third.

Ranking after the Illinois A. C. team at the end of yesterday's events were Cincinnati Y. M. C. A., 11; Roman Pool, Miami, Fla., 5; Stanford University, 4, and Swimming Club, Uniontown, Pa., and the Chicago A. A., 3 each, and Olympic Club, San Francisco: Griffin Natatorium, Chicago, and Crystal Pool, Seattle, 1 each.

Referee Hurls Boxer Through Ropes and Then Counts Him Out

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.

SPORT writers here today credited Referee Joe Gorman with administering the knockout last night in the boxing combat in which Frankie Campbell, San Francisco light heavyweight, was declared winner over "Race Horse" Roberts of Oakland.

As the reporters described the affair, Campbell had been leading for several rounds and in the ninth floored Roberts for a count of nine. In the tenth, the final round, Roberts, still groggy, decided to endure the prescribed three minutes through one prolonged clinch. The referee, balked in verbal and physical efforts to separate the men, finally gave Roberts a terrific tug, the Oakland batter went whirling through the air and landed outside the ring. The referee then counted him out. Roberts, badly bruised, made no effort to climb back.

The hall was in an uproar. Fans rushed to the ring. Somebody threw a bucket of water at Roberts, in an effort to revive him, but it landed on the referee. The State boxing inspectors ruled that it was a valid knockout and will so report to the California Athletic Commission.

Richards Meets Australian Star In Tennis Final

James O. Anderson Forced to Three Sets to Win From Holman.

By the Associated Press.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31.—Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., will meet James O. Anderson, chamion of Australia, in the finals of the men's singles, and Miss Helen Wills of Berkeley, Cal., national champion, will face Miss Elizabeth Ryan of England, formerly of California, in the finals of the women's singles today in the Seabright bowl tournament at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club.

Richards, America's second ranking star, reached the final bracket by defeating R. Norris Williams II of Philadelphia, a former national champion, 7—5, 6—4, while Anderson, No. 1 man on Australia's Davis cup team, eliminated 18-year-old Cranston Holman, Leland Stanford University crack, 7—9, 6—1, 6—4.

Miss Wills gained the final bracket with an impressive triumph in which she required only 26 minutes to defeat Mrs. Molla B. Mallory of New York, No. 2 on the women's list and a former national champion, 6—1, 6—0. It was the most decisive victory the youthful champion ever scored over her rival. Miss Ryan reached the finals by coming from behind to outplay Miss Mary K. Browne of Los Angeles, 4—6, 6—2, 6—4.

Kinseys in Final.

The finals in the men's doubles will pit Johnston and Griffin against Robert and Howard Kinsey, national doubles champions. The Griffin-Johnston combination today eliminated the newly organized team of Vincent Richards and Raymond Casey, 6—2, 3—6, 6—3. The Kinseys took the measure of Williams and Washburn, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4.

Richards' victory over Williams, while expected, was a battle from the opening service. Richards took the first three games of the first set, then Williams won the next three to tie the count. They divided the next four and Richards won the following two to win, 7—5. Only four games in the entire set went to deuce. Richards scored 43 points to but 34 for Williams.

In the second set, games went with service until the score stood 5—4 for Richards. Then the Yonkers youth broke his rival's service after getting within match point four times before he finally pulled out the match.

The Anderson-Holman contest was the feature match of the day. Against Holman, Anderson found the most daring exponent of tennis he ever has faced. There was nothing that Holman did not try in those three torrid sets and as long as his control remained with him the Leland Stanford star proved a worthy and dangerous foe. He took the first set, 9—7. But then his drives began to go astray. His smashing service found the net or crashed beyond the lines. His lobs dropped short, and his back-hand drives frequently looped out of bounds or within easy reach of the lanky Australian. Anderson won this set with the loss of only one game.

Holman Makes Fine Stand.

Then Holman pulled himself together and rallied desperately, inviting disaster with every daring smash. Here the Australian champion relinquished his back-court game and carried the play to the net.

Three times Holman skywarded off the match point, but Anderson finally scored a sizzling placement to end the contest.

Helen Wills' victory over Mrs. Mallory was without thrills. The former national champion won only one game against her youthful opponent, the fifth game in the first set on her own service. Then Miss Wills took eight games in a row, the match going to her at 6—1, 6—0.

The national champion played a consistent, accurate, driving game, covering her court with a speed which left few openings for Mrs. Mallory to score placements.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan was extended to the limits of her game to defeat Miss Mary K. Browne, ... former California star, who has been making her home in ... for 12 years, lost the opening set, 6—4. Then Miss Ryan came back to take the second, 6—2. The third set, a thriller with nearly every game going to deuce, found Miss Ryan's endurance the deciding factor.

SUMMARIES.

MEN'S SINGLES, semifinal round: Vincent Richards, Yonkers, defeated R. N. Williams II, Philadelphia, 7—5, 6—4. J. O. Anderson, Australia, defeated Cranston Holman, Leland Stanford University, 7—9, 6—1, 6—4.

LOWER RANGE TO HOG PRICES AT NATIONAL YARDS

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., July 31.—Receipts today, estimated: Cattle and calves, 1500; hogs, 8500; sheep, 1000; horses and mules, 20.

HOGS—Although receipts in the hog department were modest, prices took a lower trend today, general market ruling 10c to 15c off, with spots on butchers 25c under the best time yesterday. Offerings were estimated at 8500 head, with 750 on through and direct billing. Quality was good. Trading opened slow, with a few light hogs moving at 10c to 15c lower values than early yesterday. A few shippers furnished the outlet for these hogs, taking weights from 160 to 220 lbs., average at $14.10 40, $14.20, the latter figure the opening top. There was a limited inquiry from butchers for medium-weight averages at $14 to $14.10, packers also bidding these figures for supplies, few moving, however, early. Pigs were in good demand at prices generally steady with the Thursday session. Strong-weight kinds from 130 to 150 lbs., average found outlet in a spread of $13.75 to $14.15. $13 to $13.75. Light and peewee pigs from 110 lbs. and down at $12.50 to $13, when natives. Southern stock, ranging 15c to 25c lower prices today. Packer sows sales on this class at $12.25 mostly. Stags sold at $10.50 to $11.50 mainly, according to weight and quality.

Bond Market Review

NEW YORK, July 31.—A spectacular rise of 12 points in Florida, Western & Northern 7 per cent bonds to a record high at 139 enlivened today's bond dealings. Retirement of these obligations through the sale of new bonds for the Seaboard all-Florida Railway will result in the immediate distribution to holders of each $1000 bond of 10 shares of Florida Land Co. stock, the value of which has been enhanced by the recent boom in Florida real estate. Additional interest was aroused by the ready oversubscription of the $25,000,000 Seaboard All-Florida 6 per cent issue which was offered at a price of 98½ to yield the investor 6.20 per cent. Other price movements in the bond trading were narrow and irregular with most of the public utilities, industrials and semispeculative rails following a downward course.

JULY WHEAT UP [illegible] GOING OUT AT [illegible]

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 31.—July [illegible] nished all the excitement [illegible] of trade today, advancing [illegible] deliveries were higher, [illegible] ularly by the jump in July.

Highest prices for the [illegible] wheat were reached in the [illegible] use of trading, but for nearly [illegible] vious the market had [illegible] 1c of the apex. Right at [illegible] had been a jump of 3 [illegible] $1.60, and then after a [illegible] July price leaped to $1.6[illegible] figure it remained until after [illegible] Garry began in earnest [illegible] hour, and reached the [illegible] closing gongs drove the [illegible] pit.

Assertions that a "corner" [illegible] July wheat were unverified [illegible] ment grain futures [illegible] that any formal complaint [illegible] in the July wheat market had [illegible] to him. Traders generally [illegible] a belief that some other [illegible] a "corner" was more or [illegible] for the sensational advance [illegible]

July wheat closed [illegible] day 6¾c to 9c higher than [illegible] sales were made at $1.6[illegible] with longs letting shorts [illegible] Late months encountered [illegible] trading, due to selling [illegible] and lack of new demand. [illegible] to 1⅛c were made. [illegible] ½c to 1c lower. July, $1.0[illegible] $1.03⅛ to $1.04⅛; [illegible] 55⅜c. Oats were ⅜c to [illegible] 41⅜c; September, 41⅝c; [illegible] 44⅛c. Lard closed unchanged [illegible] er. Ribs, 5c to 30c lower [illegible] to 20c higher. Local cash [illegible] 000 bushels wheat, 28,000 [illegible] ats, 3000 rye, 3000 [illegible] board reported 300,000 bushels [illegible] 60,000 rye taken for export.

The principals in the [illegible] hard to designate. Arthur [illegible] clared that he had no [illegible] market, and information [illegible] Hable said that another [illegible] is even up one. One [illegible] sional admitted to the writer [illegible] long July but stated that [illegible] exporter. In the pit one [illegible] buying the wheat, but when [illegible] too high the same house [illegible] were deliveries of 617,000 bushels [illegible] wheat this morning and for [illegible] 3,478,000 bushels have been [illegible] longs.

Deferred futures were traded [illegible] A little buying was inspired [illegible] French cable telling of further [illegible] tion of the crop there due to [illegible] weather, but the real factor [illegible] in July. This caused longs [illegible] buying side. Cash wheat did [illegible] the bulge in July as buyers [illegible] on a July basis with September [illegible] at about 11 cents discount. [illegible] sold at July prices for [illegible] No. 2 hard at half to 1 cent [illegible] ers are offering little wheat [illegible] because unwilling to accept the [illegible] when July is several cents higher [illegible] porters were indifferent. [illegible] favorable and though much [illegible] dian Northwest temperatures [illegible] freezing.

Corn trade was quiet. July [illegible] on buying credited to brokers [illegible] tries which wanted cash corn. [illegible] months were lower because of [illegible] over Illinois and sections east [illegible] in wheat caused a recovery. [illegible] corn to arrive more freely than [illegible] time.

Oats were lower at the start [illegible] had a fair recovery when cereal [illegible] bought on the break. There was [illegible] evidence of hedging pressure and [illegible] liquidation.

Provisions were lower early and [illegible] with grain.

COTTON PRICES INFLUENCED BY REPORTS ON [illegible]

NEW YORK, July 31.—[illegible] by rain news from the Southwest [illegible] ton market opened easy today [illegible] of 8 to 21 points and later sold [illegible] points under the previous close [illegible] tiber at 24.15 and December [illegible] private reports it was learned that [illegible] area in Texas had moved further [illegible] than yesterday, considerably reducing [illegible] drouth area. Liverpool also reflected [illegible] rain news from this side and [illegible] here, as did Texas interests who [illegible] were working on the improved [illegible] crop outlook over the entire [illegible] Other early sellers were Wall street [illegible] commission houses operating on the [illegible] that the forthcoming Government [illegible] which will take account of [illegible] should be decidedly better than the [illegible] issued last week.

Business in the local print cloth [illegible] was quiet yesterday. Fall [illegible] were estimated at 85,000 pieces.

[illegible] of Profit Taking [illegible] Short Selling — [illegible] Most Popular on [illegible] Hardest Hit [illegible] Day.

[illegible] YORK, July 31.—The Evening [illegible] in its copyrighted financial [illegible] today says:

[illegible] reaction was extended [illegible] on the Stock Exchange [illegible] the day with virtually all [illegible] being subjected to heavy [illegible] both in the form of profit-[illegible] and selling for speculative [illegible] Naturally those shares [illegible] had been most popular on [illegible] such as the industrial [illegible] the utilities, motors and [illegible] merchandising shares were the [illegible] hit, but substantial losses [illegible] suffered throughout the general [illegible] which sagged badly at [illegible] The trend of prices was [illegible] throughout the session, [illegible] there was a feeble rally [illegible] the close, early sellers [illegible] to repurchase. It was true, [illegible] that the final prices [illegible] about the lowest of the day. [illegible] of the market yesterday [illegible] on Wednesday was responsible [illegible] for the bulk of the selling, [illegible] as traders were disposed [illegible] to hold their extensive [illegible] over the week end. The [illegible] element, realizing the opportunity [illegible] for a quick profit, added [illegible] weight of their offerings. The [illegible] in the call money rate to [illegible] per cent after renewals had [illegible] fixed at 4 per cent exerted [illegible] influence, inasmuch as some [illegible] had been expected with [illegible] and for month end requirements [illegible] in force.

[illegible] Selling Heavy All Day.

[illegible] taking was indulged in [illegible] the opening and the reaction [illegible] accelerated by the activities [illegible] speculators for the decline [illegible] put out substantial new short [illegible] all around. After moving in [illegible] irregular manner during [illegible] forenoon, with sharp declines [illegible] some extent by strength [illegible] few directions, the general [illegible] slumped badly in the afternoon. [illegible] were freely sold, impending [illegible] cut announcements worked [illegible] the motors, and notwithstanding [illegible] the better outlook for the [illegible] industry, those shares were [illegible] heavy pressure. Steel common [illegible] was supplied freely, losing [illegible] than a point, while American [illegible] selling ex-dividend, after reducing [illegible] the amount of the deduction [illegible] early in the day, reacted [illegible] Havana Electric broke [illegible] sharply and Mack Trucks declined [illegible] rather easily. Cast Iron Pipe [illegible] a spectacular spurt lost a [illegible] of its gain. International [illegible] was among the few really [illegible] spots. Several of the rails, [illegible] notably Atlantic Coast Line, which [illegible] a new high, Louisville and [illegible] Nashville and one or two others [illegible] against the trend, but the [illegible] rails as a group were heavy [illegible] throughout.

The Reserve Statements.

[illegible] ease in money rates, notwithstanding the preparations made [illegible] month end requirements, was [illegible] adequately explained by the weekly [illegible] statements showing the ratios [illegible] the reserve system and the [illegible] bank above the levels of a [illegible] ago, the improvement in the [illegible] York figure amounting to 2 [illegible] This was due in a large [illegible] to the heavy movement of [illegible] toward this center through [illegible] settlement fund and a drop of [illegible] proportions in rediscounts, [illegible] circulation of the system [illegible] a further contraction.

[illegible] Exchange Movements Mixed.

[illegible] rates as a group moved [illegible] a narrow range in the foreign [illegible] exchange market. Demand [illegible] was a shade better, though, [illegible] withstanding that nothing has [illegible] to brighten the labor [illegible] Polish currencies made [illegible] recovery from the recent low [illegible] rebounding quickly to parity [illegible] offerings disappeared. On the [illegible] hand, Scandinavian rates [illegible] pronouncedly weak with Denmark [illegible] dropping almost ½ cent and [illegible] Norwegian exchange about 30 [illegible]

[illegible] buying by speculators [illegible] contracts to fill for July de-[illegible] sent wheat for that month [illegible] rather spectacularly today. [illegible] were scarce and buyers [illegible] quently were forced to bid for [illegible] requirements. July deliveries [illegible] up over 5 cents a bushel, and [illegible] months were stimulated, ad-[illegible] 1 to 2 cents a bushel. Corn [illegible] oats started lower under con-[illegible] and favorable weather reports [illegible] recovered to the previous day's [illegible] in the course of the day. JULY WHEAT UP 9C, GOING OUT AT $1

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 31.—July wheat furnished all the excitement on the board of trade today, advancing 8 cents. Other deliveries were higher, influenced particularly by the jump in July.

Highest prices for the day for July wheat were reached in the very last minute of trading, but for nearly an hour previous the market had hovered around 1c of the apex. Right at the opening there had been a jump of 3 cents a bushel to $1.60, and then after a little hesitation the July price leaped to $1.62½, near which figure it remained until after midday. A flurry began in earnest during the last hour, and reached the climax just as the closing gongs drove the brokers from the pit.

Assertions that a "corner" existed in July wheat were unverified. The Government grain futures administration said that any formal complaint that a "corner" in the July wheat market had been made to him. Traders generally were inclined to a belief that some other cause rather than a "corner" was more or less responsible for the sensational advance in price.

July wheat closed at the top for the day 8½c to 9c higher than Thursday. Big sales were made at $1.65½ to $1.66 with longs letting shorts in at that price. Late months encountered a break in the trading, due to selling by early buyers and lack of new demand. Losses were 1 to 1½c were made. September, $1.50¼ ... ¼c to 1c lower. July, $1.03; ... $1.03⅞ to $1.04⅛; December, ... 85⅝c. Oats were ⅝c to ¾c lower. ... 41⅛c; September, 41⅝c; ... 44⅜c. Lard closed unchanged to 5c ... er. Ribs, 5c to 30c lower. Bellies, ... to 20c higher. Local cash sales were ... 000 bushels wheat, 28,000 corn, ... ats, 3000 rye, 3000 barley. The ... board reported 300,000 bushels wheat ... 60,000 rye taken for export.

The principals in this "squeeze" were hard to designate. Arthur W. Cutten declared that he had no interest in the market, and information believed to be reliable said that another big trader ... is even up one. One important house ... sional admitted to the writer that he ... long July but stated that it was for an exporter. In the pit one big house ... buying the wheat, but when the price got too high the same house sold. There were deliveries of 617,000 bushels of wheat this morning and for the month 3,478,000 bushels have been delivered ... longs.

Deferred futures were traded in sympathy. A little buying was influenced by French cable telling of further deterioration of the crop there due to storm weather, but the real factor was strength in July. This caused locals to take the buying side. Cash wheat did not follow the bulge in July as buyers could not buy on a July basis with September selling at about 11 cents discount. Red wheat sold at July prices for contract grade and No. 2 hard at half to 1 cent under. Farmers are offering little wheat to arrive because unwilling to accept the lower prices when July is several cents higher. Weather reports were indifferent. Weather was favorable and though much colder in Canadian Northwest temperatures were not freezing.

Corn trade was quiet. July acted firm on buying credited to brokers for industries which wanted cash corn. Deferred months were lower because of showers over Illinois and sections east, but strength in wheat caused a recovery. Country offerings of corn to arrive more freely than in some time.

Oats were lower at the start and then had a fair recovery when cereal interests bought on the break. There was some evidence of hedging pressure and scattered liquidation.

Provisions were lower early and rallied with grain.

COTTON PRICES INFLUENCED BY REPORTS ON RAIN

NEW YORK, July 31.—Still governed by rain news from the Southwest, the cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 8 to 21 points and later sold 27 to 30 points under the previous close, with October at 24.15 and December 24.16. From private reports it was learned that the most area in Texas had moved further south than yesterday, considerably restricting the drouth area. Liverpool also reflected the rain news from this side and sold off here, as did Texas interests who doubtless were working on the improvement in the crop outlook over the entire Southwest. Other early sellers were Wall street and commission houses operating on the belief that the forthcoming Government report, which will take account of present rains, should be decidedly better than the report issued last week.

Business in the local print cloth market was quiet yesterday. Fall River sales were estimated at 65,000 pieces.

Rallies of about 18 to 19 points occurred before noon on local covering based on reports that cotton in South Texas had been seriously damaged by drouth. There also was a disposition to even up after a decline of about 150 points from the high of the movement, especially as Liverpool will be closed tomorrow. Monday October sold up to 24.32c and December to 24.34c on this upturn.

The early afternoon market continued steady around 24.25 for October. Local transactions were light, further reports being awaited from the Southwest where some advices said it was beginning to clear.

SHARP PRICE DECLINES IN STOCK LIST

Pressure of Profit Taking and Short Selling — Shares Most Popular on Advance Hardest Hit During Day.

Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

The reaction was extended today on the Stock Exchange during the day with virtually all shares being subjected to heavy pressure both in the form of profit-taking and selling for speculative account. Naturally those shares which had been most popular on the advance, such as the industrial specialties, the utilities, motors and merchandising shares were the hardest hit, but substantial losses were suffered throughout the general list which sagged badly at times. The trend of prices was downward throughout the session, and while there was a feeble rally toward the close, early sellers sought to repurchase, it was true, nevertheless, that the final prices were about the lowest of the day.

The action of the market yesterday and on Wednesday was responsible for the bulk of the selling, inasmuch as traders were disinclined to hold their extensive positions over the week end. The bear element, realizing the opportunity for a quick profit, added the weight of their offerings. The advance in the call money rate to 4½ per cent after renewals had been fixed at 4 per cent exerted an influence, inasmuch as some loosening had been expected with the demand for month end requirements in force.

Selling Heavy All Day.

Profit taking was indulged in at the opening and the reaction was accelerated by the activities of speculators for the decline who put out substantial new short lines all around. After moving in a highly irregular manner during the forenoon, with sharp declines due to some extent by strength in a few directions, the general list slumped badly in the afternoon. Motors were freely sold, impending price cut announcements worked against the motors, and notwithstanding the better outlook for the motor industry, those shares were under heavy pressure. Steel common was supplied freely, losing more than a point, while American Can selling ex-dividend, after recovering the amount of the deduction early in the day, reacted sharply. Havana Electric broke precipitately and Mack Trucks declined rather easily. Cast Iron Pipe after a spectacular spurt lost a part of its gain. International Paper was among the few really strong spots. Several of the rails, notably Atlantic Coast Line, which made a new high, Louisville and Nashville and one or two others moved against the trend, but the rails as a group were heavy throughout.

The Reserve Statements.

The ease in money rates, notwithstanding the preparations made for month end requirements, was adequately explained by the weekly bank statements showing the ratios of both the reserve system and the New York bank above the levels of a week ago, the improvement in the New York figure amounting to 2 per cent. This was due in a large measure to the heavy movement of funds toward this center through the settlement fund and a drop of several proportions in rediscounts. The circulation of the system showed a further contraction.

Exchange Movements Mixed.

Allied rates as a group moved within a narrow range in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was a shade better, though, notwithstanding that nothing has developed to brighten the labor outlook. Polish currencies made a recovery from the recent low and is rebounding quickly to parity as offerings disappeared. On the other hand, Scandinavian rates were pronouncedly weak with Denmark dropping almost ½ cent and Norwegian exchange about 30 points.

Wheat Bounds Forward.

Urgent buying by speculators with contracts to fill for July deliveries sent wheat for that month forward rather spectacularly today. Offerings were scarce and buyers consequently were forced to bid for their requirements. July deliveries went up over 5 cents a bushel, and other months were stimulated, advancing 1 to 2 cents a bushel. Corn and oats started lower under continued favorable weather reports but recovered to the previous day's levels in the course of the day. Cotton was under constant selling pressure with all options ruling 17 to 20 points lower.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 31.—E. W. Marland, president of the Marland Oil Co., announced today that J. P. Morgan & Co. would exercise their option to purchase 150,000 shares of the common stock of the company at $40 a share. Acquisition of this block of stock will give the Morgan bankers a 635,000 share total of outstanding 1,884,961 shares, for which they paid an aggregate of $22,400,000.

The Marland Co. this week announced the calling in of $20,000,000 2-year 5 per cent notes, due Nov. 1, 1925.

UTILITIES FEATURE OF TRADE ON THE CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A feature of the Curb market today was the resumption of the bullish activities in some public utilities that had been under pressure in Thursday's early trading, but had rallied sharply late in the day. The buying movement that was then in progress increased in vigor this morning and made those stocks move rapidly upward. In the afternoon, however, a reaction set in.

St. Regis paper, which Thursday sold as low as 66¼ and closed at 81⅛, had a further advance to 83⅞ and then reacted below yesterday's final price. Power Corporation of New York, which rose yesterday from 69 to 83 had a further gain to 84⅞, but this was not maintained after that movement and it had a quick reaction of over 4 points. Southeastern Power made a further advance of about 10 points and Midwest Utilities advanced to 109, against a low of 95½ yesterday. American Super Power "B" rose about 2 points to above 39.

Activity and strength were shown in a number of industrials. Serv-El made a new high record and Pathe advanced over 5 points.

Rubber stocks generally were lower. Miller yielded about 2 points and losses were sustained in Norwalk and Goodyear tire.

Some of the mining stocks were strong. Engineers' Gold moved up about 3 points and there was a good demand for Key Copper, in line with the stronger tone of the copper stocks on the Stock Exchange.

A heavy tone was shown in the oil stocks, directly attributed to the reports of cuts in the prices of gasoline in the Middle West and other sections. Humble Oil dropped more than a point and a loss of over a point was sustained in Magnolia. Standard Oil of Indiana and Gulf Oil also declined about a point. The low-priced oil stocks, including Gibson, were firmly held and were in continued demand.

At the afternoon session Wagner Electric recovered and showed net gain of point. A small lot of International Shoe sold at decline of 5 points. A lot of five shares of Johnson-Stephen-Shinkle sold at 190, a gain of 10 points. Missouri Portland was lower today.

DENY PLOT TO RUIN MEDICAL COLLEGE

Drs. Enloe and North Declare Kansas City School's Charges Are False.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31.—Dr. Cortes F. Enloe, member of the State Board of Health and its former Secretary, today denied that he and Dr. Emmett F. North of St. Louis, president of the board, had conspired with the American Medical Association to put the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery out of business, as alleged in statements, unsupported by evidence, in an answer to an ouster proceeding, pending against the Kansas City school, filed yesterday in the Supreme Court.

Dr. Enloe declared the charges in the school's answer were false, and stated that the records of the State Board of Health would speak for themselves and would not in any way bear out allegations in the answer of the Kansas City school.

Dr. North likewise branded the charges as false.

"Those allegations," he said, "unsupported by any evidence and offered as they are in connection with the name of a graduate of that school now charged by the State Board with unprofessional conduct, are too ridiculous, in the light of facts, to merit consideration. It would be dignifying falsehood to make denial in detail."

"Non-Reputable" List.

The answer, in which the allegations are made, is a reply to the quo warranto proceeding filed in the Supreme Court last month by Attorney-General Otto at the request of the State Board of Health, to oust the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery from its Missouri charter privileges.

This college was placed on the nonreputable" list of medical schools by the State Board in November, 1923, following a survey by Dr. F. C. Waite of Cleveland, who had been employed to investigate the alleged sale by Missouri medical schools and individuals of medical diplomas and educational credentials.

In the answer filed yesterday by Kansas City attorneys for the college, denial of the charges in the ouster proceedings is made and counter charges are preferred against Drs. Enloe and North and the American Medical Association, of which they are members.

It is alleged in the answer that the American Medical Association, a national organization of reputable physicians, has been engaged for years to put out of operation all medical colleges teaching any system of therapeutics other than the allopathic system, and that Drs. Enloe and North had conspired with other members of the State Board of Health to destroy and put out of business the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery, which teaches the eclectic system of therapeutics.

"Fixing" Offer Charged.

A further charge is made that a certain doctor living in the State, who is named, had called on graduates of the Kansas City school and represented he had political influence at Jefferson City which would enable him, for a minimum fee of $500, to have them recognized, examined and licensed by the State Board.

This doctor today joined Mrs. Enloe and North in pronouncing the allegations false. He is a graduate of the Kansas City school and said members of the faculty there had been unfriendly to him. He said he had only a casual acquaintance with Drs. Enloe and North; had never had any dealings with them, and never had had any political influence at Jefferson City.

"I never at any time approached a graduate of the Kansas City school, of which I also am a graduate, with a proposition of any kind," said this doctor. "This whole thing appears to be cooked up to discredit the State Board."

A motion filed with the formal answer urges the Supreme Court to transfer the case to Jackson County Circuit Court in order that the defense may have a jury trial. No action has been taken on this motion. Another motion before the court asks for appointment of a commissioner to take testimony in the proceeding.

GIRL, 19, KILLED IN CRASH WITH AUTOMOBILE OF ACTRESS

Victim, in Motor Cycle Side Car With Fiance, Hurled to Pavement by Wilda Bennett's Car.

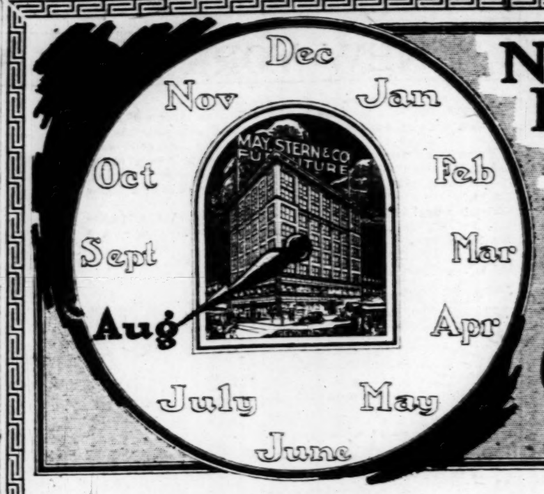

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 31.—In a collision between the automobile of Wilda Bennett, actress, of Great Neck, L. I., and a motor cycle, in the Bronx last night, Miss Anna Beach, 19 years old, of Woodside, occupant of the motor cycle side car, was killed.

The automobile driver, who said he was Charles Frey of Great Neck, was arrested on a charge of homicide and released in $1500 bail. In the automobile beside Frey was Miss Bennett. A man described as Albert Barringer, advertising agent, of Asbury Park, N. J., was in the rear seat.

The motor cycle was operated by Gerald Bisignani of Woodside, Miss Beach's fiance. The collision hurled Miss Beach head foremost to the pavement.

Miss Bennett, star of "The Lady in Ermine" and "Mme. Pompadour," a year ago was sued for $100,000 for alienation of affections by Mrs. Charles C. Frey of Forest Hills, wife of a horseman of Great Neck. Mrs. Frey a little later dropped the suit.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN MODERN GIRL MARRIES

She Often Discards All Foolishness and Gives the Best She Has in Loving Service.

By WINIFRED BLACK.

FLAPPERS—no I'm not going to worry about flappers—not any more.

I used to worry about them a lot—Oh, about three or four years ago when they first began to bob their hair and shorten their pettiskirts and wear nude stockings and sleeveless dresses in the day time and paint their cheeks and redden their lips and blacken their eyelashes, right at the table in a public restaurant.

The first time I saw a girl of sixteen smoke a cigarette in a public cafe, I didn't know what to think and when I looked at her closely and saw that she was a nice little daughter of a nice friend of mine, I didn't want to do any thinking at all.

And the first time I heard a little sixteen-year-old call up a man and ask him if she couldn't take him for a drive in her new runabout, I fairly gasped.

When I was sixteen, the men did the calling up and the driving—and they used to make us think that it was a wonderful privilege to take us out and buy us flowers and send us candy.

"What in the world is the matter with the girls?" I thought. "How bold they are! No wonder the men don't run after them. The girls keep the men busy running away from them."

But I have changed my mind since then.

Why?

Well, I'll tell you.

The girl with the cigarette was married about three years ago.

I felt sorry for her husband. She couldn't cook and she couldn't sew and she didn't even know how to dust a room and dust it right.

But her husband was a young man with prospects and very little money.

And what do you think the flapper did? She got him to take a little place in the suburbs and she made all the curtains herself and she embroidered things for her table and she learned to cook and she learned to manage and she has the prettiest little dumpling of a baby you ever saw and she is as good a mother and as good a wife as her grandmother ever dared to be.

She is in love with her husband and her husband is in love with her and they are as happy as if she had never worn a short skirt nor used a lip stick in her life.

And then there's the girl who made up her face in public. Do you know what she is doing now? Taking care of an invalid mother, devoting every minute of her day and night to her, without a murmur. She reads to mother. She sings to mother. She plays cards with mother—and any man who gets her to marry him some day will be a lucky man.

It's all on the surface, this painting and short skirting and tearing up and down the streets. In under all the folly and the bad taste—the girls are girls just as they have always been, honest hearted, courageous, fine girls, and I am not going to worry about them a minute longer, even if they are flappers.

And that's that.

The First Parting

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

SINCE their wedding day they have never been parted. Four weeks ago! A memory of flowers, the grand soaring voice of the organ singing a McDowell idyl, the rustle of satin, the scurrying of feet up and down stairs for days before, the calling of girl and men voices, doors slammed, friends dodging in and out any hour of the day, the mist of a veil, the glinting gold ring, the solemn voice that spoke to their confused ears, the laughter and tears, the scattered bridal bouquet, the music of farewell cries, the clever deception that seemed to carry them away to the train and in reality doubled them back to their own tiny house for two blissful days, while their friends—but a few blocks away—believed the dove-cote of a little new house empty!

Then the peaceful departing for a trip in their own little car, their friends still calmly ignorant that the two dearly beloved victims were but just leaving—undisturbed, unheralded.

And then, after charming, misty memoried, pal-and-lover weeks, why—back to the little house again to begin housekeeping in earnest.

And now it has come—the black, bitter, dreadful, terrific moment of first parting—when Richard must go back to work at the office on Monday morning on the 8:15! ! ! !

The first farewell since their honeymoon began.

Oh, wise Mother Aphrodite, you know very well that sometimes this is the first, the first tiny farewell to perfect happiness—sometimes to Love himself.

We started out to be funny—but we don't feel so funny now!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Home-Making Helps

By WANDA BARTON

Care of the Refrigerator and Foods.

WARM weather is always a trying time for the housewife. Foods mold and spoil easily, milk and cream sour, and in many places ants and other pests make added problems to solve. One way of preventing much trouble is by close buying—only a day or so supply at a time.

The refrigerator should be carefully watched daily. It should be washed and the drain pipe from the ice chamber rinsed down thoroughly with hot ammonia water, and the long wire-handled brush should be run down its length two or three times to make sure no food waste clings to the sides of the pipe. The drain underneath should be well flushed, or the pan emptied regularly and washed out and sunned once a week. The wooden racks holding the ice should also be scrubbed and sunned once a week and dried out. Foods should be put away on clean refrigerator dishes, never in papers or on wooden plates.

Foods kept in the refrigerator should be watched. Berries should be turned out onto a platter, so the air reaches them, to keep them at their best. Boiled vegetables should not be kept longer than a day and a half. All leftovers should be used up at the next meal. Onions should not be put in the ice box. Fish that is kept until time to cook should be wrapped in a kitchen binder and placed next the ice. Butter is best in a glass or pottery jar and left without the cover in hot weather. A round of oiled paper can be used instead. Lettuce will keep best rinsed and trimmed, then put into a lettuce bag and placed on the ice.

Foods in pantries should be carefully bottled and corked. Empty preserve jars make very good food containers. Rice and other cereals should be kept in the jars, exposed to light in a dry, airy pantry.

With a clean kitchen and with the windows carefully screened flies can be kept out. If a small piece of flypaper is placed in a window and the curtains are drawn almost down to the bottom the few flies that may have come in will be attracted to the light spot and caught. The use of phosphorous paste spread on slices of potato and placed on shelves will drive away roaches, rodents and other pests. The paste should not be put near open food or where pet animals may get it.

To Avoid Moths

IF garments are left out in the sun for a whole day, taken in when it gets dark, brushed and then placed in moth bags, it is said that they will never be touched by moths.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THE ICE-MAN.

NO land has built a monument to mark his lasting fame, nor has a laurel wreath been wound about his shining name. The bards have never sought to sing the story of his days, as he goes driving down the street, amid the heat's fierce haze. For any man with brawn enough could do his task as well and so, as all folks will agree, there is no tale to tell, no song to sing, for songs are based on high-heroic deeds of those who play the hero's part and fill earth's mighty needs. Yet every child along the block goes dashing out to greet the iceman as he comes along the sun-baked, parching street. And freshness of the ocean winds, where great waves rise and fall, is wafted down the torrid way when comes the iceman's call!

HELPS FOR THE MOTHER

By EMILIE HOFFMAN.

"I'LL be glad when vacation is over," exclaimed an exasperated mother. "I'm in a constant state of worry about the children getting hurt. They don't seem to realize dangers."

Why not train children in "safety first" as soon as they are able to understand? If children were taught from babyhood that there is a safe and a dangerous way of doing certain things they would realize dangers and just naturally take care of themselves.

Watch the little tots crossing a street. You may see five dashing across regardless of traffic and the sixth will stop and wait until it is safe to cross. This illustrates how few children are receiving the proper safety education.

When we consider that between 75,000 and 80,000 people are accidentally killed each year in our country, the great necessity of such an education is apparent, and this task seems one that mothers should undertake.

The toddling baby can be taught not to have toys where one may fall over them and get hurt. Small children will understand the danger of playing with scissors, knives, or any sharp instrument if it is properly explained to them.

In training children in safety habits mothers must be careful not to instill fear. A child must not be frightened, but should be trained to see dangers and to properly meet them. A child should be taught caution, but should not be made a coward. Do not make your child afraid of being hurt, but teach him not to take chances. Impress upon him that it is not manly to give a dare, and that a lad loses nothing in courage when he refuses a dare that implies danger.

In discussing this subject one mother explained: "I want my son to be a regular boy and I want him to be brave in time of danger." Teaching a boy safety does not eliminate these two excellent traits that every true mother desires in her sons. For instance, a boy should be allowed to climb a tree carefully but he should know that climbing out to the edge of a frail limb just to show the boys he isn't afraid, is not an indication of bravery.

When camping allow your children to build a fire, under adult supervision, and explain to them the danger of throwing away burning matches or neglecting to extinguish the embers before leaving the spot.

If at the beach impress upon them the dangers of being too daring in the water. This will have a greater effect than stern prohibition.

There are dangers even in the quiet country—insect bites, animals to avoid, the eating of fruits, speeding automobiles and so on. The wise mother who has given her children the safety training will not find it necessary to continually threaten them with punishment. She knows her children will not be afraid, but they will recognize dangers and meet them with common sense. So this mother does not spend the vacation days in worry about the safety of her children.

When You Entertain.

DURING the hot season melons are a favorite refreshment for little entertainments. It is nice to cut the pulp into fancy shapes with the small cake cutters. For the card party use the card suit shapes.

Another dainty way to serve watermelon is to break it into small pieces and half freeze it in the ice-cream freezer, then serve it in sherbet glasses.

Beauty From Kicking High

By LUCREZIA BORI, The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

DO YOU know the value of high kicking as an exercise to strengthen your hips and mold the muscles of your abdomen?

Not so many years ago the advice to women to practice high kicking would have been disregarded by some as being too unladylike. Thank goodness, such an era as this has passed. Not only is high kicking considered quite right and proper as an exercise, but even if it were considered unladylike by some, I feel sure there are others who would indulge in it anyway because it is beautifying.

Any exercise which stretches the muscles about your waist line tends to make your body more supple and graceful. Every woman knows that the beautiful body is the one which suggests this suppleness—not the one which is stiff and unbending.

I have said much about the value of a firm, "natural corset" of muscles about your waist and abdomen. This makes you appear firm and flat and strong at all times.

On the other hand, the woman who has soft, flabby muscles in this part of her body may appear slim and flat enough when she wears a corset which confines her softness. But let this same woman don a bathing suit, or any such revealing costume, and all the weak points of her figure are revealed immediately.

There's only one way to guard against such an embarrassing predicament—don't allow yourself to indulge in weak points. Correct them. Now I realize that this is easier said than done in some cases, but I must hasten to assure you that you can strengthen your stomach and abdomen muscles if you exercise them—and high kicking is one of the best ways.

Try this kicking exercise as I suggest here:

First of all, dress in a very full skirt that cannot possibly hamper your movements, or else in a bathing suit or in your shirt and bloomers. Any scant costume is permissible in your own boudoir.

Now begin, if you are unaccustomed to high kicking, by using a chair to help you out.

Stand alongside your chair, bracing yourself against it with one hand.

Kick as high as you can, first with one foot, then with the other. Keep this up until you grow tired.

The second step in this same exercise is to do your high kicking without the aid of a chair, as follows:

Simply stand erect, without anything to prop you.

Be careful not to tip your body too far backward, or you may lose your footing and fall on your back. A tight skirt is most dangerous for this exercise, as it may jerk your back foot from beneath you.

Swing the foot with which you intend to kick back a little, to get more force in your movement. Then kick as high as you can. Try to stand fairly upright and rise on your toes as you kick.

Danny's Second Swim

If you would learn to swim, jump in.
You'll never swim 'til you begin.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE was sitting on a little island just a short distance from the shore of the Smiling Pool. That little island was simply a tussock of grass out in the water. It was just big enough for Jerry Muskrat to sit on comfortably, and Jerry often had sat there. It was one of his favorite resting places. Danny had swum there from the shore to escape Mr. Blacksnake. Peeping out through the grass he could see Mr. Blacksnake looking very much surprised. Mr. Blacksnake hadn't seen Danny swim over to that tiny island and didn't know where Danny had gone. Danny chuckled.

"Yes, sir," said he to himself. "It's a good thing I can swim. It's a good thing, too, that I have a fairly waterproof coat. It isn't as waterproof as the coats of Jerry Muskrat or Billy Mink or Little Joe Otter, but it does very well for a short swim. This is a very comfortable place here and I think I'll stay for a while. I'll stay anyway until I'm sure Mr. Blacksnake has gone about his business. Probably he will find a frog and that will satisfy his appetite. He'll forget all about poor little me."

This is just what did happen. Meanwhile Danny was very comfortable and continued to enjoy watching what was going on around the Smiling Pool. In fact he was so interested that he almost forgot to watch out for danger. But he didn't quite forget. Those quick little ears of his heard just the faintest of splashes. It was so faint that you or I wouldn't have heard it at all. Instantly Danny turned to look along the shore. Longlegs the Heron was very slowly walking in the edge of the water toward him.

"I must keep an eye on Longlegs," thought Danny

"I must keep an eye on Longlegs," thought Danny. "He might take it into his head to look for a frog over here where I'm sitting. I know he would be even better pleased to find me. Yes, sir, I will keep an eye on that fellow."

Longlegs took a few steps and then for a long time he stood motionless and patient. But no fish or foolish young frog came within reach and so Longlegs advanced a few more steps. Then he stood waiting as before. So, little by little, Longlegs drew nearer and nearer to the island tussock of grass on which Danny Meadow Mouse was hiding. There were two or three other tussocks not far off. Longlegs looked into each to see if by chance a frog might be hiding there. Danny saw him do it. Danny knew that Longlegs would do the same thing when he got near enough to Danny's tussock. He knew that once more he had to swim if he would save his life. It wouldn't do to swim ashore, for then Longlegs would be sure to catch him. He looked hastily to see where he might find safety. At first it looked to him as if he would have to swim clear across the Smiling Pool. He could do it. He knew he could do it. That is, he knew he could do it if no enemy discovered him in the water. That was where the danger lay.

Then, just a little way out, Danny saw an old piece of board floating. Danny waited only long enough to make sure that Longlegs really intended to examine that tussock of grass. Then he slipped into the water and started to swim for that piece of board. Longlegs saw him at the same instant. He waded out as far as he could and lunged at Danny with that great bill of his. But Danny was just out of reach. Once more he had escaped by swimming.

LOVE

BY THE AUTHOR OF "ELIZABETH AND HER GERMAN GARDEN"

CHAPTER 34.

AFTER the service he … straight back to … Street. Useless to … his duty. His first … that morning, and he … lowed it, was to remove … at once from contact … his mother-in-law. But he … priest; he was her … living male relative; he was … to do something.

He went straight back to … ford street, and found her … in the dining room, quietly … mutton.

It had always seemed … to Stephen, and deeply to be … ted, that no traces of sin … physically visible on the … the sinners, that a little … and tidying should be enough … make them indistinguishable … those who had not sinned. … was this one looking much … same as usual, very like any … respectable quiet lady at her … day luncheon, eating mutton … though nothing had happened … such a crisis, he felt, at … overwhelming moment of all … lives, of his, of hers, of his … love's whitely unconscious … home whatever his mother … did it ought anyhow not … been that.

She looked up when he came … walking in unannounced, … Mrs. Mitcham aside when she … to open the door for him.

"I'm glad you've come back … phen," she said, leaning … and pushing out the chair … right hand for him to sit … though he would dream of … —"I want to tell you what … pened."

He took no notice of the … and stood facing her at the … the table, leaning on it with … hands, their thin knuckles … with his heavy pressure.

"Won't you sit down?" she …

"No."

"Have you had lunch?"

"No."

"Will you have some?"

"No."

There was nothing for it, … erine knew, but to face the … music Stephen should make … she did think he might have … "No, thank you." Still, he … tion was very weak, so she … ed his monosyllables without … ment. Besides—poor Stephen … did look wretchedly upset; he … have had a dreadful night.

She was very sorry for him … began to tell him what had … pened, how the petrol had run … just when they were in that … stretch of country between … bury and Andover——

Step…n raised his hand. "S… me all this," he said. "Spare … and y…self."

He longed to forbid her … him by that name.

"Fatally," he said.

"My dear Stephen, don't … ulous. I know it was mo… tunate that I shouldn't … till this morning"——

"Unfortunate!"

"But who will ever hear … it? And I couldn't help it … don't suppose I liked it?"

Then, as she said the wor… remembrance of herself bein… warm in Christopher's arms … him softly kissing her eyes … back to her. Yes; she had … that. Yes; she knew she ha… that, and been happy.

Stephen saw; and any faint… he had had that her story … be true went out. His soul s… to drop into a pit of blackne… was guilty. She had done … thing unthinkable. Vir… mother. It was horror to … the same room with her.

"This thing," he said in … voice, his eyes wide open and …

She … laughed if she had not … angry; she might have … too, if it had not been … awkward, the mortifying … of those kisses; she might … have laughed if he had … the power to cut her off … Virginia. But he had the … , the stranger she had … to her gates when she could … have been ungenerous and … him out. Why, it wouldn't … have been ungenerous, but merely prudent. Three years more of freedom she would have gained, of freedom from him and possession of her child, by just saying one word. And she hadn't said it. She had let him in. And here he was with power to destroy her.

She looked at him, very pale. "It's at least a mercy, then," she said, her eyes full of bright tears of indignation at the injustice, the cruelty of the man she had made so happy, "that I love Christopher."

"You love him?" repeated Stephen, appalled by the shamelessness of such a confession.

"Yes," said Catherine. "I love him very much. He loves me so much, and I find it impossible—I find it impossible——"

Her voice faltered, but with a great effort she got it steady again, and went on, "I find it impossible not to love people who are good, if they love me."

"You dare," said Stephen, "to mention love? You dare to use that word in connection with this boy and yourself?"

"But would you have me marry him and not love him?"

"It is shameful," said Stephen, beside himself at what seemed to him her ghastly effrontery, "that someone so much older should even think of love in connection with someone so much younger."

"But what, then," said Catherine, "about you and Virginia?"

It was the first time she had ever alluded to it. The instant she had said it she was sorry. Always she had rather be hurt than hurt, rather be insulted than insult.

He looked at her a moment, his thin face white with this last outrage. Then he turned and went away without a word.

She spent the afternoon walking up and down the drawing room, even as Stephen had spent the night walking up and down it.

She was trying to arrange her thoughts so that she could see a little more clearly through the tangle they were in, but as they were not so much thoughts as feelings, and all of them agitated and all of them contradictory, it was difficult.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Shrink Them First.

One of the joys of the home dressmaker in summer is the fact that she can shrink her wash materials before making them up. Then she knows nothing disastrous will happen to her dresses when they are laundered. Be sure to take advantage of this and soak in cold water before cutting into the material. Just lay the stuff in its original folds into the bathtub and let the cold water run in and cover it. After thoroughly saturated, hang on the line in a shady place in perfectly straight folds and let drip dry. You will never know that it has been wet.

What's What.

Lemon juice keeps the hands free from stains.

A cloth dipped in kerosene will make the bathtub shine.

The old worn sheet surely has a wide enough good place in it to make a nice ironing board cover.

Be chary about serving bouillon chilled until you are certain your guests will enjoy it. It is not liked by many.

Hot Weather Chocolate.

GRATE two squares of unsweetened chololate and stir in one-fourth cupful of boiling water. Add one and a half cupfuls of sugar, three cupfuls cold water and boil until clear, then strain and when cold add one teaspoonful vanilla.

When ready to serve put a tablespoonful of whipped cream in each glass and pour the cold chocolate mixture over it.

Famous Women

ELIZABETH BEKKER.

ELIZABETH BEKKER may be said to have been an ornament of Dutch literature. She was born at Flushing in 1738 and died at The Hague in 1804. Few female authors have united to so great talents such dignity and purity of morals. Several of her numerous works are considered classics in Dutch literature, especially her romance of "William Leevend," "Letters of A. Bankhurst to C. Wildschut" and the "History of Sara Burgenhart."

She wrote her most important works in conjunction with her friend, Agatha Deken, and the exact share of each of them in the composition is unknown. Agatha Deken survived her friend only nine days.

Genuine witticisms surprise those who say them as much as those who listen to them.—Joubert.

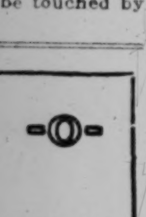

NOTES ABOUT WOMEN

A quarter of a million women acted as an official auxiliary to the British army during the war.

The City Council of Regla, Cuba, has been asked to pass an ordinance making it compulsory for department stores and other establishments where women's articles are sold to employ saleswomen, 75 per cent of whom must be of Cuban nationality.

HOPE DEFERRED.

OUR justly famous Cards and Browns
Are having many ups and downs,
And, at the present fortune frowns
Upon their aspirations.
But, with our customary pride,
Our disappointment we shall hide
And wait the turning of the tide
With keen anticipations.

That hope within the human breast,
When long deferred is quite the best
And may be called the acid test
Of faith and great devotion.
But when we've finished first at last
And tied our colors to the mast,
The rooters will forget the past
And weep with glad emotion.

Although for years we also ran,
And never finished in the van,
We always do the best we can,
For, ther's no harm in trying.
So, with our eyes upon the goal
We'll lay the unction to our soul,
That some day from the pennant pole,
We'll see our colors flying.

TOO TRUE.

While the showing of our entries in the current pennant race is somewhat disappointing, it isn't so bad considering the bad breaks they've had. We can't expect them to win it every year.

No team can get very far in a pennant race on broken legs. A crutch makes a poor substitute for a bat.

These Dodgers are so obsessed with the prowess of Dazzy Vance, they don't seem to realize that Duster Mails is the greatest pitcher in the world.

At any rate, they knocked our Duster out of the box the same as they would an ordinary second-stringer.

The S. P. C. A. has started a roundup of the stray cats in New York. What's the idea, going to give them an outing in the Catskills?

After they get the cats all rounded up they might use them in rounding up the rats.

It must be great sport rounding up cats during the dog-days.

A GAME FISH.

Vice President Dawes is fishing in the Rocky Mountains. The other day, after landing five rainbow trout, he hooked himself in the finger. After riding 17 miles and having the hook removed by a doctor, he returned in the afternoon and resumed his fishing.
